HOOVER AID ASKED BY ECONOMY UNIT; SOAK-RICH TAX HIT

House Committee Also Requests Specific Plan.

Capitalistic System Lauded by Mills Before Group.

INTERIOR FUNDS CUT 12 MILLIONS

BILL CHANGES RECOMMENDED

Forming of Commission Is Disapproved by McDuffie.

Clashes With Connally; Senators Fight Over Import Tariffs.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The House economy committee last night responded to White House retrenchment overtures with an offer of cooperation and a request for specific reorganization recommendations.

President Hoover was invited to work with the committee, personally or through a representative. The invitation, addressed by Chairman John McDuffie, carried into its second chapter the verbal economy battle between a Democratic House and a Republican President.

While the committee was carefully phrasing its letter, Senators waxed warm in a partisan debate on expenditure cutting, and a Senate appropriations subcommittee reported the Interior supply bill minus $12,000,000, lopped off under mandate of the McKellar resolution.

In the heat of the Senate debate, Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, anticipated the economy committee action in a resolution asking Mr. Hoover to furnish Congress with "specific" proposals where costs can be cut.

Lack of Implications.

The economy committee's letter echoed views expressed by members after a White House message urged appointment of a joint body to shape an economy program.

Avoiding all reference to this recommendation, and disarming in its lack of partisan implications, the "invitation" read:

"The economy committee of the House of Representatives recognizes, as you, too, must recognize, that the critical fiscal condition of the country not only precludes partisan politics, but demands political cooperation, to the end that the present crisis may be honestly and courageously met, and we take this occasion to inform you of our sincere desire to work in the fullest cooperation with you.

"With this in mind we extend to you an invitation to participate in the task of the economy committee by sending to the committee your specified recommendations, or by sending your representative to present the committee your views and conclusions as to specific economies which might be effected so that the country may have the benefit of a cooperative effort."

Opposed by McDuffie.

To newspapermen Representative McDuffie voiced disapproval of the President's joint economy committee proposals. He said it was "too late to start a new investigation." Nevertheless, the proposal is before Congress, in the form of a joint resolution introduced by Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington.

The letter to President Hoover was drafted and approved by the committee over the opposition of two minority members, Representative William Williamson, South Dakota, and C. William Ramseyer, Iowa. All of the Democratic members voted for it.

Resuming retrenchment sessions, the economy committee agreed to consolidating the Bureau of Navigation in the Department of Commerce with

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The capitalistic system is the best which has yet been developed, and various ill-considered "soak the rich" taxes should be eliminated from the House tax bill, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills told the Senate finance committee yesterday.

Tossing aside his prepared statement analyzing the House bill, which he had been reading calmly enough with occasional extemporaneous excursions, the multimillionaire head of the Treasury launched into his impromptu, fiery speech after a series of exchanges with Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, in the course of which the Texan had sarcastically refused to be classed as a "business man" even for purposes of a hypothetical illustration.

Walking up and down and gesticulating in his fervor, Secretary Mills denounced efforts to achieve dissipation of large accumulations of capital by way of taxation.

"It would be a thousand times better to go clean over and put concentrated wealth into socialistic semi-public corporations with limited returns permitted the owners of the capital," he said. "The very essence of the capitalistic system is the free flow of capital and the principle that every man shall be permitted to make free use of his powers."

Changes Recommended.

Specifically, Secretary Mills recommended the following changes in the bill passed by the House to add more than $1,000,000,000 to the tax burden of the Nation to balance the Federal budget in the next fiscal year.

Reduction of the 45 per cent maximum of estate taxes to 25 per cent and commensurate reduction in the House gift tax rate, which it was estimated would cut down the estimated revenues of the House bill by around $20,000,000; reduction of corporation tax from 13½ to 13 per cent, which would lose $8,400,000 in estimated revenue; elimination of 1½ per cent penalty on consolidated corporation returns, estimated loss, $8,000,000; exemption of dividends from stocks from income tax, estimated loss, $89,000,000; changing of loss and gains provision, reduction of estimated revenue, $7,000,000; reduction or elimination of stock exchange tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent, estimated loss $48,000,000; elimination of bonds from transfer tax, $25,000,000 estimated loss; a total of $205,000,000 from the Treasury estimate of $1,020,000,000 additional revenue the House bill would produce.

In general, Secretary Mills said, the House bill could be accepted by the Senate as the basis of an adequate budget-balancing tax measure, but, when pressed for specific recommendations he said that he preferred the

Wet Seeks Senate Seat Curtis Formerly Held

Olathe, Kans., April 6 (A.P.).—Chauncey B. Little, former representative, announced today as a "wet" candidate for the Democratic nomination for Vice President Curtis' old seat in the Senate.

The Olathe attorney and Democratic nominee for Governor of Kansas in 1928 said he favored resubmitting the liquor question to a vote of the people of the United States.

Note Demands $4 From Mrs. Cecil

Housekeeper Shuts Herself in Home After Reporting to Police.

Notes in the Washington extortion market reached an all-time low level yesterday when the life of one of the Capital's most wealthy residents was threatened unless $4 was turned over to the extortioner. The note, which was unsigned, was directed at Mrs. Cornelia Vanderbilt Cecil, of 2132 Bancroft place northwest.

Since Mrs. Cecil is traveling with her husband, the former first secretary of the British Embassy at Washington, the letter was received by a housekeeper, who was badly frightened by it. She appealed to police and then shut herself in the Bancroft place house.

The letter, in a bad scrawl, was addressed on one side of the paper to "Mrs. Cecil." The reverse stated: "Leave $4 or I will kill you. Put it under tree at 2135. Wrap it in paper so it won't get wet if it rains." The Third Precinct assigned its four detectives to investigate the case.

EDGE IS GAINED BY PROSECUTOR IN HAWAII TRIAL

TESTIMONY TAKING MAY START TODAY

Mrs. Fortescue Appears in Brighter Colors Than at Beginning of Case.

Honolulu, April 6 (A.P.).—Racial cross current flowed through the jury box here today as opposing counsel sought to divert them to their own advantage in choosing a jury to try Mrs. Granville Fostescue and three Navy men accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai.

One after another, Anglo-Saxon, Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiian and Portuguese passed in and out of the box as Clarence Darrow and John C. Kelley fought a cautious battle.

The prosecution, led by Kelley, favored those of Oriental extraction. The defense, directed by Darrow, famous Chicago attorney, inclined toward those of Nordic blood.

Three times Kelley used peremptory challenges to remove without cause Anglo-Saxons who had been drawn, and Darrow likewise struck off Hawaiians and Orientals.

3 Americans in Box.

When the session ended there were three Americans, two Hawaiians, one Swede, one Portuguese, one Chinese-Hawaiian, a German, two Chinese and one Scotsman in the box. Each side had used 8 of its 24 peremptory challenges.

Time after time both Occidental and Oriental was excused for cause—without either side using a peremptory challenge, when the individuals under questioning admitted they had fixed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the quartet.

It appeared that the prosecution was gaining the edge in the fight, for when Anglo-Saxons were removed, members of the Eastern races predominated among those drawn for replacements. This is due to the predominance of men of Asiatic blood in Hawaii.

Will Be Ready Shortly.

In spite of a slowing down of selections, both sides predicted a jury would be ready Friday and the de-

Curiosity Costs Baby Girl's Life

Young Nurse Sees Child Fall in Rainwater Basin in Yard.

An 18-month-old baby girl forfeited her life yesterday afternoon when she sought to penetrate the mysteries of a rain-water tank that had formed a miniature lake for her to float her tiny wooden toys in.

The child—Thelma Jane Sparks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sparks, of Seat Pleasant, Md.—drowned before the horrified eyes of Maud Merritt, 14, a neighbor's child. The Merritt girl, left to watch Thelma Jane and her brother, Robert, by Mrs. Sparks, had returned to her home nearby for a moment when she saw the baby lower herself into the 2-foot deep tank in the Sparks' yard.

Maud and her mother, Mrs. Norman Merritt, rushed to save Thelma Jane. They pulled her from the tank unconscious and rushed her to Casualty Hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Acting District Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of accidental death in the case after hearing the circumstances.

Vice President Curtis to Distribute Awards Totaling $1,000 to Winners of The Post's Contest for Children on George Washington.

Winning contestants in the recent Washington Post, George Washington Essay Contest, will receive their prizes at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the steps of the Senate side of the United States Capitol. This announcement follows the acceptance by Charles Curtis, Vice President of the United States, of an invitation to present personally the awards which total $1,000 in cash.

The occasion will not be attended by any public ceremony but has been arranged in order that the boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 18, may have a personal contact with one of the highest ranking representatives of the Government for which George Washington was largely responsible. The thrill of this meeting will undoubtedly be a treasured memory throughout the lives of the 108 boys and girls who will receive at this time a fitting reward for their literary efforts.

The names of the winners in this great contest were published in last Sunday's edition of The Washington Post and special notification has been sent to them to assemble on the steps of the Senate side of the Capitol at 4:45 tomorrow.

Throwing Money Away In Washington

By WILLIAM P. HELM

$10,000,000 Annual Cost of Motor Transport Pales Beside $20,000 Hourly Average Spent on Principal Investigations.

Practically everybody of any consequence in the Federal service at Washington is provided with an automobile by the Government. Uncle Sam's annual bill, in Washington and out, for automobiles and motor transport is so great and far-flung that not even the watchful bureau of the budget has the totals.

The record shows, however, that 1,045 passenger automobiles owned by the Federal and District of Columbia governments were furnished free tags by the District in 1931. There is no way of telling how many of these cars were in the District government service, but the proportion was quite small. A simple calculation shows that if all these Government-owned passenger cars were assembled, say, for a parade, they would stretch three abreast on Pennsylvania avenue from the Capitol to the White House.

In addition, there were 1,224 Government-owned trucks furnished free tags in 1931, bringing the total of the Government's cars in Washington alone to 2,269.

The Bureau of the Budget is now collecting the figures covering the total number of such automobiles both in and out of Washington, but its task will not be completed much before the end of the fiscal year on June 30, it is believed. The total probably will mount into the tens of thousands.

For one department of the Government, however, Agriculture, the budget lists individual cars to be bought and detailed, as well, those to be maintained during the coming fiscal year. The listing covers eleven pages, 9 by 12 inches, set in solid agate type. The total of new vehicles to be acquired runs to 399; and against that there are listed 283 to be traded in. For the purchase of these new cars, the department asks $255,000, and for the operation, maintenance and repairs of other cars, already owned, an additional $210,490 is sought. The total number of cars already owned by the Agriculture Department is placed at 684, exclusive of those in the District of Columbia.

That is one department only. The War, Navy and Postoffice depart-

BERLIN SEEN ASKING END OF WAR DEBTS

Semiofficial Statement Says Demand Will Be Made at Lausanne Parley.

Berlin, April 6 (U.P.).—The international conference at Lausanne in June will bluntly proclaim a permanent end to reparations payments "as far as Europe is concerned," it was indicated tonight in an apparently semiofficial German statement.

The statement said that in return for cessation of reparations, Germany would be expected to agree to a "political truce" involving a pledge to refrain from pressing for revision of the Versailles treaty for a certain number of years.

The statement purported to summarize the reparations situation as a result of the recent conference of Premier Andre Tardieu, of France, and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, in London, as gleaned from British sources.

Both the British and French governments view as extremely grave the international economic and financial plight, "especially concerning the United States," the statement said. They also anticipate a further aggravation of the crisis in 1932.

The statement was atributed by some quarters to the government, but at the Wilhelmstrasse it was denied that the government was responsible for the pronouncement. Nevertheless, it was considered semiofficial in character.

The statement said that France and Britain as yet had not agreed upon a method of communicating with the United States—which is involved because of war debt payments by European nations—the plans to abolish

Senate Reform Aim Of Smedley Butler

'Clean-Up' of Upper House Is General's Promise if He Is Elected.

Kittanning, Pa., April 6 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, campaigning for the Republican nomination for United States senator, said today if he is elected, he will "clean up the United States Senate." Campaigning as a "dry" candidate, Butler assailed "wet" interests that he said had termed him "fit to be nothing but a soldier."

"They're afraid of me because I'm always fighting," he said. "I won't quit and if you elect me to the Senate I am going to tell those boys there to get out of my way. I represent 10,000,000 people and I am going to have some say in this Government."

The retired Marine officer is suffering from a throat ailment, but endured it to speak briefly on a stumping tour.

Mrs. Biddle Hops Off For Return From North

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 6 (A.P.).—Starting her journey home to Philadelphia after about six months in Alaska, gathering material for a book, Mrs. Edward M. Biddle left here today for White Horse, Y. T., by airplane.

Three months of the Philadelphia society woman's time in the Alaska wilderness were spent at Kantishna, north of Mount McKinley. She was a guest there of Fannie Quigley, famous pioneer woman of the territory.

JAPAN TO REDOUBLE DRIVE UPON REBELS

Action Is Decided Upon After Thousands of Casualties Are Reported.

Mukden, Manchuria, April 6 (U.P.).—The Japanese military campaign against rebellious Chinese forces in Manchuria will be redoubled tomorrow as a result of widespread fighting in which thousands of casualties were reported in the last 24 hours.

At least 500 Chinese guerrillas were killed and about 3,000 wounded in fighting along the Chinese Eastern Railroad, east of Harbin and not far from the Siberian frontier, Japanese messages said.

The Japanese placed their own losses at 9 noncommissioned officers killed, 1 officer and 36 noncommissioned officers wounded. The estimates were obviously incomplete and indicated the most bitter fighting of recent weeks.

With the arrival of Japanese reinforcements from Korea, the campaign against hostile Chinese in Kirin Province has been organized on a wide scale. Gen. Jiro Tamon, hero of Tsitsihar, is directing the main Japanese advance on Ilan.

Gen. Tamon's troops previously had captured Fancheng after routing a large Chinese band and another clash is expected tomorrow.

Military headquarters here said Japanese forces would renew operations in several places in the important Chientao district tomorrow, attempting to wipe out guerrilla and Communist bands.

The Chinese troops supposed to be supporting the new Manchurian government of Henry Pu-Yi appeared to be doing very little fighting and the Japanese were carrying the brunt of all attacks.

Employers Order Budapest Lockout

Move of Industrialists Follows Strike Over Paper's Suspension.

Budapest, Hungary, April 6 (A.P.).—A one-day lockout was ordered for tomorrow by industrialists today after workers had called a half hour general strike in sympathy with printers striking because of the government's suspension of the Socialist newspaper, Veazzava.

Turmoil in the Hungarian Parliament followed upon the newspaper's suspension. No newspapers appeared today, excepting an emergency sheet from the government print shop, as a result of the printers' strike, which the typesetters said would continue.

Police and soldiers were held in readiness to deal with any disturbances. The Socialist deputies marched out of Parliament during the turmoil there in protest against suppression of their party organ. It was suppressed yesterday on the ground that it had published "articles urging the workers to arms."

Elated Over Election, Winchester Man Dies

Winchester, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—W. Andrew Sale, 53, went home rejoicing last night after receiving returns showing his reelection to the Winchester common council.

A few moments later he was dead. Doctors said acute indigestion was the cause.

HOOVER SEES BIG ARMY DAY PEACE PARADE

Many Other Officials and Thousands of Citizens Attend.

WATCHERS EVINCE FEELING OF PRIDE

All Military Divisions Are Represented in 100 Units in Parade.

A big parade of peace in commemoration of one of war, celebrating Army Day and the fifteenth anniversary of this Nation's entry into the World War, passed in review before President Hoover, other high Government officials and tens of thousands of proud citizens yesterday afternoon.

Emblazoning Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues with khaki and scarlet, polished metal and steel glittering in the bright April afternoon, the demonstration ran the gamut of crack veteran soldiers to high school youths who can barely remember the days of the bloody conflagration of which the occasion was so reminiscent.

Starting at the Capitol, the human ribbon of soldiery took more than two hours to unwind. Composed of 100 units, it contained contingents of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, the entire Washington High School Cadet Corps, and numerous patriotic orders. The flower of military music, the Army, Navy and Marine bands, were seen for the first time in united action outside of an inaugural parade. The American service flag, usually flown only on Armistice Day from the dome of the Capitol, was seen for the first time in a parade, carried by the American War Mothers.

Reviewed by Hoover.

President Hoover, in the center of the reviewing stand, facing the Washington Monument, watched the parade from the start to within a few minutes of the finish, despite his original intention of remaining only a short while because of pressing duties awaiting his attention at the White House.

With Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, and marshal of the parade, on his right, the President listened intently as the latter described the various units, and was the first to rise and

Mrs. Shipman's Bequest Empty

No Residue on Mother's Estate, Court Action Reveals.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. Julia Fay Shipman, who was bequeathed a life share in the residuary estate of her mother, Mrs. Julia W. Bradley, society matron of New York, Newport and Washington, will receive nothing, it was disclosed today, because there will be no residue.

Surrogate O'Brien signed an order directing Mrs. Bradley's husband, Edson, to divide a balance of $2,451 remaining from her estate among nine relatives and friends. The latter, bequeathed sums of $5,000 and $10,000 each in the will, will receive about 4 cents on the dollar.

Mrs. Bradley died August 22, 1929, in her $2,000,000 Newport home, leaving gross assets, an accounting showed, of $267,628. In accordance with the will, Edson Bradley first transferred $235,916 in securities and accrued interest to himself and then deducted administration and other expenses, leaving the $2,451 balance. Mrs. Shipman is the widow of the Right Rev. Herbert L. Shipman

LINDBERGH INFANT IS WELL, CONTACT PROMISES CURTIS

Negotiator Returns to Norfolk by Air After 4-Day Absence and Makes First Definite Announcement.

ADMITS SEEING BOY'S FATHER, BUT WILL NOT SAY WHERE

Wave of Optimism Sweeps Hopewell as Description of Progress Toward Return of Kidnaped Baby Arrives.

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—John Hughes Curtis returned to Norfolk today bringing a definite assurance that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is well.

Reaching here by plane this afternoon after an absence of four days, the boat builder immediately went into conference with Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and the Very Rev. Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, who are associated with him in negotiations for the return of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., to his parents.

Two hours later Mr. Curtis emerged and made the following statement:

"Gentlemen: On my trip I made contact, was informed by my contact that the child was well; saw Col. Lindbergh personally, but am not at liberty to say where. I regret my inability to say more at this time."

He asked that further questions be submitted for answer at a later press conference.

Curtis in High Spirits.

Mr. Curtis appeared to be in high spirits and it was observed that his announcement today was the most definite that has come from the three Norfolk men since they began their efforts to recover the child on March 9. Once before there was a statement that at the time of a previous contact with persons believed to represent the kidnapers there had been an assurance that the child was well, and on week-end before last Mr. Curtis made a mysterious trip on which it was announced he had made a contact and that negotiations were in a semifinal stage.

Throughout last week, however, Admiral Burrage in his daily meetings with the press described their activities as "watchful waiting" and no information about Mr. Curtis' second mysterious trip was given out from the time of his departure on Saturday until his return today, although Mrs. Curtis who also was away for several days, said on her return that she saw her husband on Sunday.

Secrecy Surrounds Trip.

The deepest secrecy shrouded Mr. Curtis' entire trip but unconfirmed reports here were that he had gone to Marthas Vineyard and these rumors checked with reports that a plane containing Col. Lindbergh and several other men had been seen there and at nearby points on the Massachusetts coast.

Admiral Burrage said tonight that he would announce it immediately if the Lindbergh baby had been returned, "unless Col. Lindbergh had requested us not to do so, and he has not made such a request." The spokesman for the negotiators said that it might be assumed the negotiations were proceeding as rapidly as possible but that he did not know when the next step would be taken nor how much longer it would take to complete their work.

Hopewell Grows Optimistic.

Hopewell, N. J., April 6 (A.P.).—A description of a fresh "contact" with kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby reached here today as an unexplained wave of optimism for the child's safe return enveloped the Sourland countryside.

Gov. A. Harry Moore, who has expressed confidence in the baby's welfare in the past, conferred with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police head, during the day.

"It is my sincere hope," said the governor, "that the baby is alive and well. That he is alive and well is

STIMSON SUPPORTS WORLD COURT PLAN

Tells Senate Committee Why United States Should Enter Tribunal.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson appeared before the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday in support of American adherence to the World Court. The testimony of the Secretary was based on the following two main points:

First, the identity of the Root interpretation and his own personal interpretation of the adequacy of the Senate's five reservations;

Second, the ample protection afforded American liberty of action and decision under the reservations, framed by the Senate and accepted by the signatory nations.

While the Secretary was discussing the legalistic complexities of the World Court problem in the executive session of the foreign relations committee, Senator Arthur C. Capper (Republican), Kansas, was sponsoring a joint resolution to clothe the Stimson doctrine recently enunciated apropos of the Manchurian situation, with the force of legislative sanction.

The Secretary was making his last appearance in the Senate council chambers before his departure for the General Disarmament Conference. He will sail aboard the Ile de France on Saturday night and will go at once to Geneva upon his arrival in Paris.

The last previous meeting of Senator Borah's committee was notable by the absence of the Secretary of State who was at home with a bad attack of grip. In his absence he dispatched a letter to the senators, reviewing his opinion of the present World Court controversy.

Details of the meeting yesterday were kept secret but it was learned, nevertheless, that the members of the committee had questioned Col.

Secret U. S. Session Asked On Weapon of Destruction

Frazier Would Guard From Foreign Powers Invention, Said to Guarantee Nation Possessing It Command of World Military Affairs.

(Associated Press.)

Fearful lest a valuable military secret might fall into the hands of a foreign power, Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, yesterday proposed setting up a secret commission to pass upon a purported deadly weapon on destruction.

The weapon—its details unknown to any but its inventor—was designed by Lester P. Barlow, of Stamford, Conn., who created the depth bomb and other instruments of war, particularly bombing devices.

Barlow claims the invention would destroy either by explosion or fire cities or forces a thousand or more miles away and would require few men to operate. He declines to divulge any inkling of its nature but says he would be glad to demonstrate before the proper authorities and on his terms.

His terms are secrecy. Because of his request for it, in conferences here recently with several members of Congress, Frazier submitted his resolution to set up the secret commission.

With four members sworn to silence, it was sent to the military committee.

Even in time of war, the members

HIGH FEELING SEEN OVER MASSIE CASE

(Associated Press.)

Deep concern over the social consequences of the Fortescue murder trial, now under way in Honolulu, was expressed in the Justice Department's report on crime conditions in Hawaii.

The report, made public yesterday by the Senate and prepared by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, cited many favorable conditions in the Hawaiian Islands, but contained an exhaustive condemnation of "laxity in governmental and administrative affairs."

Sexual conditions on the islands were given prominent treatment in the 30,000-word document which was accompanied by even more voluminous collateral reports.

Richardson found that a different sexual standard prevailed, but no unusual tendency among the Hawaiian people toward forcible sexual assaults.

Sees High Feeling.

Reference to the Fortescue case, which led to the investigation, at the demand of the Senate, was brief, but Richardson said it, together with the retrial of the Massie assault case, "is certain to embroil again the people of the Territory in most unpleasant consequences." He added:

"Such a retrial would ordinarly be bad enough in and of itself," he said, "but the subsequent Fortescue case, with its astounding details, complicates the retrial of the Massie case to an almost unparaleled degree.

"Community prejudices and opinions are certain to run at fever heat and it will not be surprising if a condition of racial antagonism, resentments and, possibly, demonstrations, should result."

No Way Out, He Says.

Richardson said, however, that he "sees no way out of the situation except to go through it, regardless of results." He added that prosecution of the cases seemed to be in "strong, capable hands, as is also the matter of the defense."

The investigator questioned the accuracy of reports that the Hawaiian population "presented an unusually dangerous, lawless and vicious criminal complex, particularly along sexual lines."

"I do think the Hawaiians have a different sexual standard than we have, * * * but I found no reason for believing that the result of such a different standard predisposes the Hawaiian to violent sex crimes or other outrages of that sort."

Richardson vigorously criticized police administration in the islands and the conduct of the office of city and county prosecutor.

He charged the latter was "wholly incompetent" and said the police were headed by "an unskilled and politically minded chief."

PROSECUTION GAINS EDGE IN HONOLULU

fense attorneys said it might be ready tomorrow.

Mrs. Fortescue maintained the same rigid composure she has shown since the start of the trial, but appeared in a costume of brighter colors than she wore at the outset of the case.

Many talesmen passed in and out of the jury box in short order, saying they had formed unalterable opinions, did not understand "big words" or were "not interested in the case."

Diverted in Sympathy.

Almost invariably the Anglo-Saxon talesmen expressing opinions on the case were sympathetic with the defense and the Orientals revealing their ideas inclined toward the prosecution.

Another panel of 25 talesmen was summoned to appear tomorrow. Its roster showed a predominance of Asiatics.

For an hour Darrow and Kelley fenced over the selection of a man to replace Kenneth Bankston, young American peremptorily removed by the prosecution.

An American talesman was next. He favored the defense and was dismissed. A Hawaiian said he was a friend of Kahahawai and made no secret of his sympathy with the prosecution; another American favored the defense and was dropped. A Portuguese finally was allowed to remain.

Discusses Duties.

During the questioning Darrow heard a lecture on the duties of a juror from a young Chinese-American, Bernard Ahlo.

In clear English Ahlo told Darrow a juror "must forget what he has learned."

"That's right," said Darrow.

"A juror," continued Ahlo, "must discard his opinion before he comes into the courthouse."

"Sure," said Darrow.

Stays in Jury Box.

After saying he went as far as the ninth grade in school, Ahlo was allowed to stay in the jury box.

Mrs. Fortescue, who with her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted men of the Navy, awaits quietly the picking of the jury, wore a dark blue dress with hat to match. She wore a necklace of colored shell beads, but no rouge.

It was learned that the defense was considering placing Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of Lieut. Massie and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue, on the stand presumably to testify regarding the assault upon her in which Kahahawai and four other men allegedly figured.

Inspiring Story of Mill That Has Kept Its Head

By JOHN J. DALY

CONSIDER the case of the old water mill, the oldest in the United States. Despite its age, the old mill hidden in a remote recess of Ohio continues to grind out flour.

Many depressions have passed by the old mill, but not one of them ever stopped it. Had the mill gone to steam, gasoline or electricity it would have vanished from the scene long ago, gone out of business along with its competitors. In a modern world, the old mill held close to Mother Nature—and prospered.

MANY times has the old mill been remodeled. As Time, that old wayfarer, wore out a paddle or two on the wheel that turned, and turned, moving the upper and the nether millatones. Never, in the remodeling, was water forsaken for the modern methods of making wheels go round—steam, gasoline or electricity. All right, these, for the highroads and the low-roads, but not for the paddle that turned the wheel that turns the stones that grind the flour in the oldest American mill.

Water there was, always—and free. Steam requires coal as a companion, and coal rises and falls in price, bringing in an economic law. Electricity, in the process of its generation, calls for expensive machinery. Gasoline? Well, after you step on the gas it evaporates—and new gas has to be bought. Not so with water.

* * * *

IT was all right to light the place with electricity, or gas—but water for running the mill.

That Old Man River just keeps rolling along. A good friend!

Yep, the old mill will probably last many years to come, simply because its wise owners, through the years, never lost their heads over the latest fads.

The mills of the gods are like that. They grind slowly, but surely; but they are ever at it, grinding exceeding small. Like the battalions of heaven, the waters that run the old mill move ever onward, pushing mill wheels as they go. So, seasons depart and return always to find the old mill grinding flour.

HOUSE ECONOMY COMMITTEE ASKS FOR AID OF PRESIDENT

the Steamboat Inspection Service. Chairman McDuffie said this would mean a 25 per cent saving in the $1,500,000 appropriation allotted to these two agencies.

Would Abolish Company.

The committee further agreed to abolish the Panama Railroad Steamship Co. Its functions would be handled by some other governmental agency, Chairman McDuffie said. He estimated $2,000,000 would be saved by eliminating the Army and Navy Transport Service, as agreed to Monday.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, led the Senate attack on President Hoover's economy policies, charged the Chief Executive with "playing politics," added his voice to others demanding "specific" White House retrenchment suggestions, and threatened to vote to put every Government Department on a "lump sum" allowance.

Senator Harrison accused the President of "talking now, as the campaign approaches, of economy in general terms, without specifying what he has in mind."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, joined the Mississippian in the attack. He charged the President proposed to supersede the Budget Bureau "by a mixed commission where action would be delayed many months—over the next election."

"Immediate action is needed," he said.

Defend Administration.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), Utah, and Senator Otis F. Glenn (Republican), Illinois, rallied to the support of the administration. Senator Smoot asserted the President has been "specific" in his recommendations, and has sponsored as well a Government reorganization plan. He charged Senator Harrison with voting against giving the President power to organize.

Senator Glenn declared the President has held out from the beginning against increased expenditures. He said Congress should not "shirk its responsibility and place it all on the shoulders of an overworked man."

Other senators took sides as the debate grew warm. Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, charged all the economy drive would accomplish would be a saving of some $300 each to a million wealthy taxpayers. Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), Nevada, said a 10 per cent cut in the $1,100,000,000 Treasury-Postoffice supply bill, proposed in the McKellar resolution, would "throw 35,000 men out of work." Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), Washington, said curtailments should be made on recommendation of department heads.

Farm Board Pay Attacked.

In the House, high salaries paid by the Farm Board were assailed by Representative Clifton A. Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia, chairman of the independent offices appropriations subcommittee.

"When we come to balancing the budget by reducing expenditures, we've got a man's job, because when you try to eliminate one of these bureaus or cut down the appropriations allowed it a system of propaganda begins immediately which goes into the office of every congressman and to nearly every voter," Representative Woodrum said.

An Interstate Commerce Commission protest against the $1,483,231 dent put in its funds by the appropriations committee was made public by Chairman Sam Rayburn, of the interstate commerce committee.

After the McKellar 10 per cent knife was applied to the Interior Department appropriations bill, it was returned to the Senate yesterday bearing a $45,000,000 total instead of the $57,000,000 originally recommended by the Senate appropriations committee.

Howard Funds Slashed.

Local items were among the hardest hit. Howard University appropriations, already sharply curtailed in the House, were reduced $400,000 more.

Incisive cuts were made in the Indian Bureau, where appropriations were slashed $1,062,900, and the Reclamation Bureau, which took a reduction of $2,674,860. The Boulder dam canyon project suffered the largest single reduction, with funds curtailed $2,000,000.

The measure is the first supply bill to undergo the 10 per cent cut ordered by the Senate when it adopted the McKellar resolution. The State, Justice, Commerce and Labor bill will be the next to undergo the knife. House leaders say they will accept the cuts when the bills go to conference.

While the pay-cut cry was not raised again in the House yesterday, a statement by President Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employes, branded "without foundation" charges by President Fred W. Sargent of the Northwestern Railroad, that Government employes' salaries increased 14.37 per cent between 1929 and 1931.

"The salaries of Government employes during this period have practically stood still—increasing in 1929 only about 1 per cent as a result of the passage of the Brookhart act," President Steward said.

"There have been no salary increases and practically no promotions in the Federal service during 1930 and 1931."

'SOAK THE RICH' TAX SCORED BY MILLS AT HOUSE HEARING

Treasury Department program which had been rejected by the House ways and means committee. His second choice, he said, was the tax bill reported by the ways and means committee containing the general manufacturers' sales tax. He said he would not submit a new tax program to the finance committee.

The flare-up in the course of the testimony of Secretary Mills was indicative of the hectic launching of the tax bill in the Senate.

Secretary Mills was the first and only witness heard by the committee yesterday. But before he assumed the role of witness in open session the committee had had an acrimonious battle in executive session over inclusion of import tariffs in the bill. Subsequently that fight was carried to the floor of the Senate.

The fight over import tariffs lasted for more than an hour in the executive session of the committee, and while it was going on Secretary Mills seemed to be enjoying himself on the sidelines in the role of an onlooker.

There were various proposals. Senator Walter F. George (Democrat), of Georgia, wanted all tariffs knocked out of the tax bill. It was suggested that that couldn't very well be done without reflecting on the action of the House, which had included embargo tariffs on oil and coal in the bill.

Senator Cordell Hull (Democrat), of Tennessee, wanted the bars raised against consideration by the committee of any further tariff proposals. He forced his proposal to a vote and was beaten.

Gore Proposal Loses.

Senator Thomas H. Gore (Democrat), of Oklahoma, proposed that no import tariffs, except those in the bill and those commodities reported on by the tariff commission, be considered by the committee. That was beaten by a vote of 10 to 5.

Senator Wesley Jones (Republican), of Washington, brought up the question of a tariff on lumber. Question of a tariff on copper was raised, too.

Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, took the fight to the Senate. Although he did not disclose the committee fight he joined forces with Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, in launching a battle to have all import tariffs excluded from the tax bill. They predicted they would win their fight.

They had the support, they said, of five Democratic members of the finance committee, King, of Utah; Hull, Costigan, of Colorado; Harrison, of Mississippi, and George, of Georgia. With Senator Walsh, that would make six of the nine Democrats on the committee. Several Republicans agreed with them, they said, adding that injection of the tariff into the tax bill would delay its consideration and interfere with a proper balancing of the budget.

Further Fight Looms.

But that the proposal to eliminate tariff from the tax bill would not meet with approval in all quarters was indicated by other developments, aside from the committee vote leaving the door open to tariff proposals. Senator Carl Hayden (Democrat), of Arizona, introduced an amendment in the Senate proposing an import tariff of 5 cents a pound on copper imports. He said that Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, and Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, agreed with his proposal. Other import tariff proposals are in the offing.

Soon after Senator Smoot called the committee to order in open session and Secretary Mills began reading his prepared statement, the ire of the Democrats over the contentions and countercontentions about the tax bill became evident. Often they questioned Secretary Mills closely and sought to force him in a corner.

They sought to get an expression of opinion from him about the propriety of including a tariff in the tax bill. But he refused to express an opinion, saying that was for Congress to decide, which was perfectly true, but was not comforting to the Democrats who were seeing disappear the campaign material they had planned to develop out of the Smoot-Hawley tariff law.

Throughout his statement to the committee Secretary Mills emphasized the necessity for balancing the Federal budget, and, at the end of the day, in response to questions asked by Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, he reemphasized his point.

Secretary Mills agreed that the budget had been balanced in the past by borrowing and added "that is the way we acquired our enormous war debt." It wasn't a question of balancing the budget in one year, he said, but the country was now faced with a third year of deficit and a prospective fourth year of deficit.

"We are in for serious trouble," he said. "If we let it go beyond that. We are in for serious trouble if we do. Since last September we have had a serious credit crisis. Credit has been very rapidly deflated. As a result there has been a great number of bank failures. Then the banks mobilized to protect private credit. That was found not adequate. Then the Government put its credit behind the commercial credit of the country.

Must Be Kept Sound.

"When we created the Reconstruction Finance Corporation we pledged the credit of the Government to back up commercial credits which were not able to stand on their own legs. That means that the public credit must be kept on a sound basis. While we have been able to borrow, it should be remembered that since November every responsible Government official has promised to balance the budget. If we go back on that pledge, there is likely to be a rapid, precipitous decline in Government securities which may set in tomorrow. It must be remembered that while we may take what we want in taxes, borrowing requires the cooperation of the lender."

Secretary Mills suggested that continued borrowing might force the Government interest rate to as high as 6 per cent. The present debt is around $18,000,000,000 and he is "decidedly against" increasing the amount, he said.

He said present economic difficulties would be "just the beginning" if the national credit were brought into question.

Urges Courage to Tax People.

"Any nation that hasn't got the guts and the courage to tax itself to pay its bills is starting on the toboggan and there is no telling how deep the toboggan is," he concluded.

Senator La Follette said his questions were not designed to indicate that nothing at all but continued borrowing should be done.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, challenged Secretary Mills to submit a complete substitute for the House bill. Senator Walsh said he agreed that the Democrats would like to have an opportunity to pass on a complete Treasury program, rather than the piecemeal amendments proposed to the House bill by the Secretary.

Senator Connally proposed an excess profits tax. That would be ideal theoretically, Mr. Mills said, but practically the excess profits tax was an abomination because of difficulty of determining capitalization. To that Senator Connally rejoined that this was the time to smoke out the great corporations and boil the water out of them down to their real capital. Mr. Mills replied the real test was in practice and the excess profits tax didn't work out well in practice, despite its theoretical perfection.

No Rentier Class in U. S.

Launching into his defense of the existing economic system and the accumulations of vast fortunes, Secretary Mills began with the declaration that there was no "rentier" class in this country.

Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, also a multimillionaire, sardonically interjected, "What class?"

After the hearing Secretary Mills said he would not make any effort to revive the general manufacturers' sales tax. He thought that was dead. He said he thought the question of retroactive income taxes was dead, too.

Replying to Senator Connally in committee meeting, he had said that the proposal to make income taxes retroactive to payments this fiscal year was "water over the dam," and to attempt to revive the question would be an injustice to those who had paid all or part of their income taxes. Connally said that that was a matter for decision by the committee and Congress, but Mr. Mills made emphatic his present opposition to retroactive income taxes.

EASING OF MEDICAL RUM RULES BACKED

Woodcock and Doran Urge Regulatory Plans Before House Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Limited revision of the Volstead act to secure for doctors more flexibility in the use of medicinal whisky was approved yesterday by the Government's chief prohibition officers.

Director Woodcock, of the Prohibition Bureau, and Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, appeared by request before a House judiciary subcommittee and indorsed plans for regulatory rather than statutory limitations on the frequency of prescriptions. Present law permits not more than one pint for one patient every ten days.

Both were emphatic, however, in stressing the need for retaining ample regulatory authority over the number of prescription blanks and the amount of liquor that may be prescribed.

"I have been very much impressed with the desirability of flexibility in the amount of prescriptions," Mr. Woodcock said. "It is just as easy to enforce regulations as to enforce law."

"The ten-day limit could well be handled by regulation," Dr. Doran said. "With respect to this frequency limit for any one patient I believe the statutory limitation should be withdrawn."

Before the committee were bills to lift all statutory limitations on prescription whisky, as well as a measure to permit the prescription of malt liquors. The Wickersham Commission recommended elimination of statutory restrictions on the amounts and number of prescriptions to remove "causes of irritation and resentment on the part of the medical profession."

The legislation was indorsed by Dr. William C. Woodward, legislative counsel for the American Medical Association; Dr. Warren Coleman, spokesman for the New York Academy of Medicine and the Medical Society of the County of New York, and E. C. Brokmeyer, general counsel of the Wholesale Druggists Association.

Village Has No Taxes And Treasury Surplus

Trenton, Nebr., April 6 (A.P.).—From the standpoint of money and taxes, Trenton was a "heaven on earth" today.

The villagers won't have to pay any taxes for at least another year. This was decided yesterday when they voted on the question as to whether they should be taxed. Their answer was "No."

And as to money, officials said, the village had $10,000 surplus and no place to invest it.

11 HURT AS INDIANA MINE STRIKERS RIOT

1,500 Ohioans Also Repulsed on Entering West Virginia; Picketing Violent.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6 (U.P.).—Outbursts in the general bituminous coal strike saw eleven persons wounded today in Indiana, 1,500 others repulsed by tear gas bombs in West Virginia, and less violent picketing in Ohio.

In Indiana, where Gov. Harry G. Leslie threatened to call out troops, the most violent clash occurred at the bleak mining village of Pimento, where rocks flew and fists thumped faces in the attempt of union strikers to keep the nonunion Dixie Bee mine from operating.

About 500 pickets gathered around the mine and halted workers. Those who refused to leave the diggings were beaten, kicked and slashed with knives. Eleven were injured before Sheriff W. E. Dreyer restored order.

The Dixie Bee is one of several mines thrown open to nonunion workers after the union rejected a wage reduction from $6.10 to $3.60 a day. Officials of the mine closed it, but laid in a supply of tear gas bombs and announced their intention of reopening soon.

State police sent tear gas bombs hissing into a parade of Ohio miners after they crossed the Ohio River and attempted to march to the McKee-Frey Mine near Moundsville, W. Va.

The bombs sent the 1,500 strikers weeping back to Ohio. None was injured. They apparently had hoped to force the closing of the McKee-Frey shaft, which has been in operation despite the strike call of April 1.

Eight disturbers were arrested in Muskingum County, Ohio, but the strike involving 13,000 miners in that State otherwise was peaceful.

Pickets strolled past many properties, which were operating with miners under contract and excluded by the strike order. Many diggers protested against the self-enforced layoff on the ground that without work they were facing starvation.

Attorney General Frank Henderson, of Ohio, said the State constabulary would maintain its hands-off policy unless violence became serious.

American U. Professor's Son Kills Himself in Bed

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—James Bliss Gray, insurance broker and son of John H. Gray, professor of economics at American University, Washington, D. C., shot and killed himself last night after leaving a note saying he was "more than tired of life." He was 36 years old.

Francis Deak, professor of political history at Columbia University, who shared Gray's apartment, slept alongside the body thinking his friend was asleep. He discovered the tragedy when he awoke at 7 o'clock this morning.

Suitcases Worth $550 Are Stolen From Auto

Three suitcases valued at $550 were stolen from the automobile of Miss Elizabeth C. Webb, of East Orange, N. J., parked in front of 1027 Seventeenth street northwest Tuesday night, she told police yesterday.

The lock on the automobile door was broken. One of the suitcases contained wearing apparel worth $250. The other two were filled with dry goods samples valued at $300.

Parade Onlooker Loses $13.50 to Pickpocket

Joseph Gonzales, of 640 Eleventh street northeast, had no reserved seat for the Army Day parade, but it cost him to look at it, nevertheless. He told police he was standing at Pennsylvania avenue and Third street northwest when his pocket was picked.

His purse, contained a $10 bill and a $2.50 gold piece and one silver dollar, he said. His driver's permit and other papers also were taken.

URUGUAY REQUESTED TO PUT OFF PARLEY

(Associated Press.)

The governing board of the Pan-American Union, representing the 21 American republics, yesterday voted to ask Uruguay to consider the advisability of postponing for one year the seventh Pan-American conference, scheduled to be held at Montevideo in December.

The request is to be cabled to Montevideo by Jose Richling, Uruguayan charge d'affairs and if Uruguay's in agreement, a formal resolution postponing the conference will be passed at the May meeting of the governing board.

The board motion was made by Ambassador Cruchaga, of Chile, who amplified a motion previously made by Ambassador De Lima, of Brazil, and seconded by Ambassador Ferrara, of Cuba. The Brazilian Ambassador has been working for months to have the conference postponed.

Ambassador Cruchaga modified the Brazilian proposal to give as reasons for the postponement that several of the countries desired further time to study some of the principal topics of the conference program. While he did not specifically mention economic reasons, which observers have seen from the beginning as lying back of the general desire for postponement, Ambassador Cruchaga referred to "circumstances which have profoundly occupied the attention of all governments" in suggesting a change in the date.

The Brazilian Ambassador had previously said that economic and political difficulties in many of the republics were back of the postponement move.

Yesterday's action followed an informal meeting of the board Tuesday, at which postponement sentiment was found to be practically unanimous. The vote yesterday was unanimous. Secretary Stimson left his preparations for sailing to Geneva to preside over the meeting.

Honduran and Guatemalan boundary commissioners yesterday submitted their final arguments to the arbitration tribunal.

They now have fifteen days for rebuttal, after which the disputed frontier will be in the hands of the tribunal, composed of Chief Justice Hughes, of the United States, Emilio Bello Condecido, of Chile, and Luis Castro Urena, of Costa Rica.

The arguments submitted by both sides were lengthy and extensively documented.

Brazilian Prospector Finds Huge Diamond

Diamantino, Matto Grosso, Brazil, April 6 (U.P.).—A penniless prospector foraging through the Brazilian wastelands near Diamantino was reported today to have found one of the largest diamonds in the world.

The stone weighed 574 carats and it was said that an offer of $80,000 had been refused by the prospector. The offer was understood to have been made by a broker at Rio de Janeiro.

The diamond is the largest ever found in Brazil, and, if further examination of the stone upholds first reports of its value, the prospector will realize a fortune for it.

G.O.P. Parley Hears Bingham Urge Beer

Keynoter at Connecticut Convention Lauds Leadership of Hoover.

Hartford, Conn., April 6 (A.P.).—President Hoover was praised tonight by Senator Hiram Bingham, keynote speaker at the Republican State convention, as the first Chief Executive to try to restore normal economic condition in times of stress.

The convention tomorrow will choose nineteen delegtaes to the national convention favorable to Mr. Hoover's renomination. In accordance with custom, however, they will not be definitely pledged to him.

Senator Bingham called for legalization of beer, greater economy in government, and elimination of many Federal aid projects and bureaus to improve the Nation's financial position.

Victor Russell Heads Young Democrats Club

Victor Russell, secretary to Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, last night was named president of the Young Democrats Club of Washington at the annual election of officers. He succeeds Arthur C. Perry, secretary to Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), Texas.

Miss Caroline H. Thompson was elected first vice president, and Phil Herrick, second vice president. Others elected were Miss Lyda Mae Francis, recording secretary; Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, corresponding secretary, and Carl Schedler, treasurer.

Ben Franck, Secretary of New York Times, Dies

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Ben C. Franck, 75 years old, secretary of the New York Times Co. and for almost half a century associated with Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Tiems, died today.

He left his office apparently in good health last Thursday and pneumonia developed that night. Mr. Franck began his association with Mr. Ochs, his first cousin, on the Chattanooga Times in 1886. For the last 36 years he had been an executive officer and secretary of the New York Times Co.

'Fifi' Widener, Divorced, Is Reported Betrothed

Reno, Nev., April 6 (U.P.).—Josephine "Fifi" Widener Holden, daughter of Joseph Widener, Eastern capitalist and sportsman, left Reno late today aboard a private plane for Los Angeles, in the company of Acksel Westfield, her reported fiance.

Mrs. Holden obtained a divorce from Milton Whitely Holden, wealthy Easterner, this morning, charging cruelty. It was her second marriage, the first, with Carter R. Leidy when she was 17, ending in Pennsylvania divorce courts. She denied she intended to remarry, but it was rumored she and Westfield, a former member of the Danish Legation in Washington, might be married in Hollywood or Los Angeles. Westfield's estranged wife is said to be living in Paris.

Cicero to Clean Out Gangs If New Mayor Has His Way

"Undesirables Must Go!" He Says of Chicago's Suburb, Battleground of Gunmen, Whose Employes Have Not Been Paid in Six Months.

The gangs have supplied prolific material detrimental to the suburb's good name. Johnnie Torrio, "Scarface" Al Capone's teacher and sponsor, and Eddie Tancl, his enemy in the beer trade, moved in almost simultaneously in 1923. Tancl—among a score of others—eventually was slain. The others included Frank Capone, elder brother of "Scarface" Al.

Cicero, Ill., April 6 (A.P.).—The 36-year-old mayor-elect of Cicero, given the task of redeeming the name of this Chicago suburb from being the butt of vaudeville and musical comedy jibes and a popular synonym for gangdom, looked over the situation today and issued this ultimatum:

"Undesirables must go!"

The mayor-elect, Joseph G. Cerny, a resident for seventeen years, will not take office until April 18, but he already is making plans to restore his town's prestige as a community of home lovers with no gangs to fight. In fact, he said, municipal finances present the most puzzling problem, and not gangs. Cicero has been penniless for six months, and its employes, including firemen and policemen, have been unpaid during that time.

The gang wars roared along until they attracted the glare of the national spotlight, in 1926, with the machine-gun slaying on April 27 of William McSwiggin, young assistant State's attorney, and two hoodlums in front of a notorious resort. The "Cicero massacre" was never officially solved or explained.

It disclosed to public view, however, the presence of dozens of vice and gambling houses and speakeasies.

A few months after the McSwiggin killing Capone, who had succeeded Torrio as gangland's leader, moved his headquarters into Chicago proper. Since then Cicero has been less prominently identified with gangsters.

Cerny was elected Tuesday in a local Democratic "landslide" which swept out of office the Republican administration that had controlled the town for sixteen years. Prohibition played only a minor part in the election, both candidates describing themselves as "liberal."

Cicero claims 80,000 population, predominantly of foreign extraction and residing in private homes and bungalows. A large percentage of its residents, employed in the town's factories, has been out of work for months, aggravating the already desperate municipal financial situation.

Rankin Asks Bonus As Prosperity Aid

Raps Stevens' Statement That Only 23 Posts Favor Cash.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, said yesterday the statement of Henry L. Stevens, commander of the American Legion, in opposition to cashing the soldiers' bonus certificates "shows clearly that he does not understand the situation."

He added in a statement replying to Stevens: "If the situation attributed to him that only 23 American posts throughout the country are for this measure, he must be talking in his sleep. * * *

"If this bill were merely to wring $2,000,000,000 from the American people to pay off these adjusted service certificates, I would not favor it. The veterans themselves would not favor it.

"But it does more than that; it provides for an expansion or an inflation of the currency to an extent that would relieve this panic, restore commodity values, dissipate our bread lines and bring back to the American people a reasonable measure of prosperity without imposing extra taxes upon them."

India Bans Congress Convention.

New Delhi, April 6 (A.P.).—The government has banned a convention of the Nationalist Congress, planned for April 24, because the civil disobedience movement is still in progress.

Beam Projector Has Local Debut

Downtown Marvels as Buildings Are Emblazoned With Slogans.

A powerful beam illuminated the Treasury Department last night with the slogan, "Stop Hoarding Dollars," as a newly invented sky projector startled downtown Washington with large circles of light with inscriptions thrown on buildings.

Passersby read the words, "The Wet Parade," title of a forthcoming motion picture, projected on the sides of the Capitol and the Bureau of Prohibition. The starlings roosting on F street and Pennsylvanian avenue buildings were disturbed and protested with a whir of wings against the beams of light that will carry a mile.

Jean Harlow, who is appearing at a downtown theater, came out to inspect the large projector that resembles a telescopic apparatus on wheels. The inventor is Helmar George. He says that the light beam will register on clouds as well as buildings.

RECTOR'S DEFENSE FUNDS EXHAUSTED

Prosecution Offers to Lend Cash for Continuing of Hearing.

London, April 6 (U.P.).—The trial of the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, on charges of immorality, was threatened with disruption today when the defense announced its funds were exhausted and asked for a six weeks' adjournment.

As a result of the announcement the court witnessed the unusual spectacle of the prosecution offering to lend the defendant £250 to pay the defense counsel. R. F. Levy, the defense attorney, reserved decision until Thursday.

It was understood that Mr. Davidson required £1,000 to continue his defense. He offered to conduct the defense himself, but the offer was rejected.

The trial was enlivened during the afternoon session when Chancellor F. K. North interrupted the proceedings. Levy was attempting to show that a private detective, C. J. Searle, had taken Rose Ellis, a woman with whom the rector was alleged to have been intimate, to a "pub" to intoxicate her and persuade her to sign an affidavit.

"What do you mean by a pub?" the chancellor asked.

"In this case it was a hotel bar," the lawyer said with a smile.

"What is Rose Ellis?" the chancellor continued. "Is she one of these unfortunates?"

"I don't think it is seriously disputed that she is a prostitute," Levy replied.

Brutality in Fatal Riot At Ford Plant Charged

Detroit, April 6 (A.P.).—A letter received by Mayor Frank Murphy protesting the "brutal and inhuman treatment" of persons arrested after the riot at the Ford Motor Co. plant in Dearborn March 7 was turned over to James K. Watkins, police commissioner, today for investigation.

The mayor, who declined to reveal the text of the letter, said it was from Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, who was here several days following the riot, in which four men were killed.

Brazil to Have Movie Censors.

Rio de Janeiro, April 6 (A.P.).—The government today promulgated a decree creating a board of motion picture censorship and providing new taxes to cover its expenses.

T. V. O'CONNOR.

SO SUCCESSFUL has been Mr. O'Connor in getting his Government out of the ship-operating business that he has all but worked himself out of a job.

Since he became chairman of the United States Shipping Board in 1924, he has earned his spurs as a ship salesman. As a result the vast war-time fleet of ships that plied the seas under Merchant Marine colors now is almost entirely in the hands of private owners.

The other day Mr. Hoover suggested that the board be abolished, but paid high tribute to the "valuable" experience of present members, who, no doubt, if the plan goes through, will assume new duties in ship rate regulation.

Chairman O'Connor first demonstrated he could sell ships soon after taking office, when 199 vessels, laid up in various waterways and eating up Government money, were sold to the Ford Motor Co., for $1,700,000.

Later the United States Lines, bride of the Merchant Marine, was disposed of for $16,300,000 to Paul W. Chapman, Chicago capitalist. The job of getting United States shipping back on a peacetime basis was well under way.

An alumnus of the college of hard knocks, Mr. O'Connor rose to preeminence via the organized labor route. His early career was closely allied with Great Lakes shipping. He got his first job on a Buffalo waterfront, and his second as a fireman on a harbor tug. Later he became a licensed engineer and subsequently obtained his ship master's license.

Such was his history until he was 36, when he was elected president of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective Association of the Great Lakes. In 1908 he became president of the International Longshoremen's Association. In this office, an honorary one, he holds for life, he attained wide fame in shipping circles, and a name for square dealing that led to the Shipping Board chairmanship.

Scientist Traces Language Of Mayan Indians to Asia

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Bogota, Colombia, (A.P.).—A sensational theory and partial proof that may link the language of the ancient Mayan Indians of Central America with the tongues of Asia has just been developed here by Dr. Herman Walde-Waldegg, of the Colombian National Library, after long and arduous study.

Dr. Walde believes he not only has succeeded in deciphering the hieroglyphics of the Mixteca, cousins of the Mayans, but has obtained a measure of proof that they used actual syllables in their writing instead of pure picture writing as heretofore believed.

The scientist says the Mixtec writings bear definite relations to Chinese, Japahese and Sanscrit. Should his claims be borne out fully by future investigation, Dr. Walde believes the dragon of China and the feathered snake of the American tropics will be the key that opens the door of kinship.

It was the feathered snake in the famous Borgian codex, which now is in the Vatican library, that set Dr. Walde on the right tracks, and it was the unexpected task of cataloguing musty volumes in the National Library here that enabled him to pursue his theory.

Here is the coincidence:

Mr. Walde is an Austrian whose father was the powerful Baron Waldegg, holder of numerous Austrian estates before the revolution of 1918. Young Walde, who is now 30, went to Bome, and because he spoke 12 modern languages and knew something of Asiatic tongues, got a position as assistant in the Vatican library.

There he studied the Borgian Codex. This document is of deerskin, 30 feet long and 2 feet wide. Tradition says it was found in Mexico in the eighteenth century, and ordered burned as an idolatrous object, but was rescued and smuggled to the Vatican, where it was found among the possessions of Cardinal Stefano Borgia in 1804. It subsequently became a part of the Vatican library.

But the consensus of opinion has been that it was merely a conglomeration of astronomical signs without word meaning.

Dr. Walde studied the Borgian Codex, among others in the library, and when he was asked to become assistant librarian here, he kept it in mind.

The Austrian's task here was to help bring order out of the chaos of old volumes in the National Library. In his work he was lucky enough to find four dictionaries of Indian languages. They had been carefully compiled by Catholic missionaries trying to convert bronzed men of the jungle in the days of the conquistadores.

At first Dr. Walde met with no success when he applied the words in the dictionaries to a photostatic copy of the codex, but noting the frequency of the feathered snake and its similarity to the dragon, he tried sanscrit, Chinese and Japanese. Results came quickly.

The feathered snake is the great creator god of the Mayans, and originally was kukulcan. "Kukul" is their word for the quetzal bird, and "can" means snake. The Mixtecs, and Toltecs, who perpetuated and veneered the Mayon religion, literally translated kukulcan into quetzalcoatl, or ketzalcoatl, and he became the primary god of most Indians.

Likewise, in China, the serpent with wings, or dragon, is considered a union between heaven and earth, but the difference is that quetzalcoatl is a god of virtue, while the dragon is one of wrath.

NEW RULE SOUGHT IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Coaker Proposes Plan for National Government; Premier Returns.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, April 6 (A.P.).—Sir Richard Squires, prime minister of this island's government, returned tonight to the office in the Colonial Building from which he fled 24 hours earlier while a mob of 10,000 shouted threats they would drown him in the harbor.

He drove up to the building in a motorcar, rushed up the steps and through the door, shutting it tightly behind him as a heavy rainfall aided war veterans and municipal police in quieting the ruffled tempers of the populace.

He appeared little the worse for the rough handling to which he was subjected by the mob which last night stormed the building, tossing government documents and furniture from the basement into the street as the House of Assembly was in session on an upper floor. The mark of a bruise could be seen on his right cheek. His wife, Lady Helena Squires, only woman member of the Legislature, suffered a head injury, apparently from a missile thrown through a window during the disorders.

Crowd Is Repulsed.

The entire city was under patrol, with guards stationed at the various public buildings and business houses. A total of 850 former service men and civilians had been enrolled for special police duty, and 200 more were waiting to be sworn.

Sir Richard made his return shortly after war veterans and municipal police had repulsed a crowd which attempted to break into the central liquor stores.

They were told by Peter Cashin, former minister of finance and customs, that Sir Richard had promised to resign as prime minister or to ask dissolution of the Assembly within 48 hours. The information, he said, was given by the premier to Sir William Coaker, minister without portfolio.

Sir Richard, Cashin said, was "out of town," having made his way from the city last night after escaping the violence of a mob of 10,000 citizens.

Sir William Earlier had suggested a plan for a national government to succeed the Squires administration. He suggested placing F. C. Alderdice, present opposition leader, in the prime minister's office.

Both Plead for Order.

Order was urged by Alderdice and Cashin, whose charges that Sir Richard falsified minutes of council to divert public funds to political accounts, caused a public mass meeting to deputize a committee to visit the house and serve the Assembly with a resolution for a "proper investigation." It was delay encountered by the deputation in being admitted to the Assembly that irked the crowd and caused them to storm the building, strew government documents in the street, manhandle Premier Squires, demolish furniture, and break windows in the Government Building.

"You can do no good by force," said Alderdice in his proclamation. "You can only do harm. I appeal to you, go quietly to your homes and during the next few days I and my party will use every lawful means to have your rightful demands satisfied. We are exercising ourselves to the utmost to ensure the government's resignation. Remember that no man should break the law. I guarantee justice shall be done."

Commons Votes Down Dancing Performance

London, April 6 (A.P.).—The decorous House of Commons was saved today from the sight of a pretty and youthful dancer doing splits, cartwheels and high kicks.

The House was considering legislation which would forbid "dangerous" methods of training boys and girls under 12 years of age for stage dancing. Variety Artists' physicians testified the usual training was beneficial, and to clinch the point they offered to produce a dancer. The young lady was about to put on her costume when some of the members objected that such an exhibition would be unseemly.

LLOYD GEORGE HELD PREPARED TO RETIRE

"Virtually" to Quit Commons and Write on Farm, His Friends Declare.

London, April 6 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, one of Britain's greatest political figures of all time, was reported tonight to have decided on his virtual retirement from the House of Commons.

Only events of outstanding importance, said those close to him, would bring the noted Welsh Liberal and wartime prime minister back to the scene of his past triumphs. There was nothing on the political horizon now, it was added, that could be considered in that category.

Lloyd George, who in his galvanic person during the war symbolized for many the British "will to win," and whose oratory swayed the benches of Commons as had that of few men, will devote himself in the future to writing and farming, his friends said.

While continuing to feel that where Lloyd George is concerned the unexpected might always happen, commentators recently have pointed out that in the strict logic of events it was hard to see just what his place could be in the present political scheme.

The once great liberal party which he led is divided into two main sections and various subdivisions, none of which has shown any special eagerness to rally to the banner of its former chief.

There obviously is no place for him in the national government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, which he has attacked with the utmost vigor. A suggestion that he cooperate with the labor opposition seems to have met with no enthusiasm on either side.

Even so, there were some who pointed out tonight that "virtual" retirement was not the same as complete withdrawal. By these commentators a report that the great Welshman intended to retain his parliamentary seat while refraining from attending the sessions was taken as evidence that Lloyd George as a parliamentary force might surprise the nation even yet.

1,945 GOVERNMENT CARS RUN WITH FREE TAGS IN DISTRICT

ments are the chief users of motor transport. Conservatively, the operation and maintenance of their motor fleets cost $5,000,000 a year. Probably $10,000,000 a year would cover the total cost of motor transport in all branches of the Government.

Whether many of these cars are to be used little or much is left, necessarily, almost wholly to the discretion of the men to whom they are assigned. One bureau head in Washington is reputed to use his car but little, during his stay in Washington, except to go to his office in the morning and home at night, and to his usual luncheon trip to one of Washington's clubs. This official also is allotted a chauffeur.

The cost of motor transport, however, pales beside the bigger cost of the endless investigations carried on as routine work by the executive departments. A rough summary of some of the principal investigations, no longer unusual but annual routine, places the total at approximately $20,000 an hour for every working day of the year. Take, for instance, one of the minor bureaus, investigating purely laboratory affairs.

In the current issue of the budget, the Bureau of Standards asks funds for continuing the following investigations:

Investigation of fire-resisting properties.
Investigation of public utility standards.
For testing varnish, soap, ink, &c.
Radio research.
To develop color standards.
Investigation of clay products.
Investigation of optical glass.
Investigation of textiles.
To test railroad, mine and other scales.
To standardize sugar-testing apparatus.
High temperature investigation.
Metallurgical research.
Industrial research.
Investigation of the principles of sound.
Investigation of radio-active substances and X-rays.
Investigation of automotive engines.
Investigation of dental material.
Hydraulic laboratory research.

There are nearly 300 bureaus, boards, commissions and departments in Washington. The foregoing represents the investigative labors of but one. Practically every one of the other 299, or thereabouts, likewise is pursuing its own groove of inquiry.

Specialization of Data.

As a result there are nearly 20 separate bureaus engaged in the preparation and dissemination of a vast amount of statistical material and information, much of which is overlapping if not a duplication of effort. Statistics on practically all phases of human activity abound, from the general data prepared by the Federal Reserve Board to the detailed monthly information distributed by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and Geological Survey and Bureau of Mines. The cumulative cost of this work runs into the millions every year.

A large proportion of the ground covered is purely for class use, although distributed to any who may request it. Thus the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is producing daily information of great value to exporters; the Bureau of Mines data are valued mostly by mine owners; the Geological Survey figures are sought by the coal and oil interests, and so on. Much of the statistical information is of value only to a particular industry or group. A few years ago when the Geological Survey's weekly figures on coal production were threatened with discontinuance through lack of funds, the bituminous coal operators, unwilling to forego them, financed the work themselves.

Similarly, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce considered not long ago that desirability of charging an annual fee for its service to the manufacturers and exporters. The opinion prevailed that the recipients would pay gladly, but the project fell through.

If all the purely class activities of the Government were placed on such a basis, the Treasury would be relieved of the expenditure of many millions of dollars every year, in the belief of officials with whom your correspondent discussed the idea.

Fight Against Waste.

Once this information is assembled, the problem of getting it out to the public remains. There the Government Printing Office comes to the rescue.

Not long ago the Government Printing Office, biggest publisher of periodicals and miscellaneous material in the world, was turning out 5 quarterly, 25 monthly, 11 weekly and 21 daily; semimonthly, bimonthly and other irregularly dated magazines and periodicals. The count of periodicals has not been made recently, but it probably stands today near the listing cited.

Here, according to testimony extending over a dozen years on the part of the Public Printer and others, a strenuous fight is waged daily against waste. Hundreds of thousands of Government pamphlets, ordered in vast abundance but for which there develops little demand in many cases, lie on the shelves until they are taken out and disposed of as surplus to make room for other material which probably will meet the same fate. The Public Printer's protests against this waste have resulted in some savings, but the practice still continues.

Back to Congress leads one of these wastes. That concerns the habit, indulged in by many members, of waiting till their speeches and other material are poured into type before making corrections. In the past this practice of lazy orators and authors has cost the taxpayers more than $100,000 unnecessarily in some years. To some extent, it is a needless waste today.

SHORT-WAVE RADIO TELEPHONE TESTED

Marconi Develops Successful Set Capable of Connecting With Any Circuit.

Genoa, Italy, April 6 (A.P.).—Guglielmo Marconi has developed a completely successful ultrashort-wave radio telephone capable of both receiving and sending, according to witnesses who attended a test conducted by him today.

Baron Cencio Masson, mayor of Levanto, who was among the witnesses, said the new radiophone could establish contact with an ordinary telephone system. Hence a person with the radiophone could converse with any one on a wire telephone circuit.

The test was held on the Ligurian Coast, near here, over a distance of 8 miles with a 52-centimeter wave. Signor Marconi withheld announcement of its results.

The inventor, seated at the villa of a friend, conversed fos ten minutes with Engineers Ricardi and Mathieu, of the Marconi company at Villa Gualino, 8 miles away. Witnesses said reception was so clear that they all heard the voices of the engineers. The Marquis Luigi Solari, head of the Marconi Co. of Italy, and other notables were with the inventor when the conversation took place.

The spectators said the apparatus was compact and that with some elaborations it could be used in an ordinary home.

Marconi has been experimenting with the device for some time and last November he conducted successful tests of one-way transmission. At that time he said further experimentation would be necessary but he predicted that within a short time he would be able to put the invention into practical use, supplying a service that would be of immense value to the public.

Ship and airplane communication also were experimented with today.

The invention's maximum radio of action was unknown to the witnesses, but Signor Marconi said last November he hoped the apparatus would work for at least 100 miles.

Stimson for more than two hours. The Secretary was accompanied by his assistant secretary, James Grafton Rogers, who has advised him in many stages of the negotiations.

The testimony of the Secretary will be made public as soon as he has had a chance to revise it, Senator Borah announced. Prospects for a vote on the measure at this session looked "reasonably good," according to the senator from Idaho.

Yesterday's session will conclude the hearings on the World Court and a vote on the Pittman resolution to request the written approval of the signatory nations to the American reservations will be taken next Wednesday. Secretary Stimson is known to have demurred at this proposal, feeling that it would not only be superfluous but it would tend to delay still further the actual entrance of this country into the World Court.

Instead of the Pittman resolution, the head of the State Department is more in favor of the proposal of Senator David A. Reed, who would protect the American interests further in the matter of advisory decisions by the court on matters affecting our national interest by a formal declaration of policy to that effect.

Committee Vote Blocked.

The conclusion of the Stimson testimony afforded the court's eloquent proponent, Senator Thomas Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, the opportunity of pressing for a vote on the protocol of American adherence. Objections from Senators Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, and Johnson (Republican), of California, however prevailed.

In the Secretary's letter to the committee appeared a paragraph which excited the suspicions of Senator Key Pittman, (Democrat), of Nevada. The Secretary of State had previously insisted that the American reservations embodied in the protocol of adherence fully protected the United States against advisory opinions rendered by the court in opposition to the national interests of this country.

This statement was professed to be at variance with the text of the Stimson letter, according to Senator Pittman. This letter declared:

"Whenever a dispute to which we are a party is involved, no opinion on that dispute can be rendered unless we consent. When we claim an interest, although no dispute exists, we can, if we so desire, bring our great influence to bear against the rendering of such an opinion with the same legal standing as if we were a member of the council or the assembly of the League of Nations."

Would Strengthen Pact.

The Capper resolution would clothe the Stimson doctrine of nonrecognition of conditions arising out of a violation of the Kellogg Pact with the force of legislative action. On January 7 and again on February 23 the United States, through the Secretary of State, served notice on both China and Japan that "any situation, treaty or agreement entered into in violation of the covenants of the Kellogg-Briand Pact which affects the rights of this Government or its citizens would not be recognized."

Senator Capper also included in his resolution the strengthening of the Pact of Paris by a trade boycott against its violators, and concluded by empowering the President to call a conference of the signatory powers to put teeth into the enforcement of the pact.

This resolution is similar to the Capper resolution of December 9, 1927, where he demanded a definition of the policy in regard to the treaty before the Kellogg-Briand Pact had been created. The embargo provisions of yesterday's resolution were included in another resolution of the senator from Kansas of May 2, 1929, when he urged that it may be made unlawful to export arms to any country or countries violating the Kellogg-Briand Pact.

Labor Congress Asks Dry Law Modification

Meridian, Miss., April 6 (A.P.).—Without a dissenting vote the South Central Labor Congress, meeting here today, indorsed modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of light wines and beer and asked the executive committee to work for that cause.

The congress opposed reduction of salaries for Government employes.

TWO MORE STATES WON BY ROOSEVELT

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Roosevelt of New York placed the Democratic national convention votes of Georgia and Wisconsin in his column yesterday.

Meanwhile, control of Wisconsin's delegation to the Republican convention remained in doubt, with the conservative faction holding a slight advantage over a slate of independents.

The Georgia Democratic convention pledged its 28 votes to Roosevelt for as long as his name remains before the national convention as a candidate. Gov. Russell addressed the gathering, praising Roosevelt as the man who should lead the party in this year's campaign.

Democrats Are Jubilant.

Wisconsin Democrats were jubilant at the landslide proportions of the vote polled in their primary. In all 566,292 votes, an exceptionally high Democratic total for Wisconsin, were cast for Roosevelt, electing six delegates at large and nineteen district delegates to vote for the New York governor.

The independent Republican faction last night had elected three delegates at large, including the State's two senators, La Follette and Blaine. For the delegation as a whole, the conservatives held a 14-to-13 advantage, with numerous districts still to report.

Connecticut will name nineteen delegates in convention today. Technically uninstructed, they are claimed by the Hoover forces.

Factions Seek Control.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6 (A.P.).—Control of delegates to the Republican national convention, sought alike by the La Follette Progressive and the Conservative factions remained in doubt tonight with Conservatives holding a 14-13 advantage.

As returns came in from yesterday's delegate primary, margins narrowed between the Progressive and Conservative candidates, and the number of delegates each faction would send to Chicago, remained undetermined.

On the basis of returns from 2,007 of the State's 2,845 precincts, the Conservatives slipped into the lead, placing four candidates in position to be elected as delegates at large.

Progressives apparently had three candidates, Senator Robert M. La Follette, Senator John J. Blaine and Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, far enough in front to be certain of election. Senator La Follette polled 114,107 votes to lead the Republican ticket; Secretary Dammann, 110,089, and Senator Blaine, 106,995.

Six for Roosevelt.

Six Democratic candidates for delegate-at-large definitely committed to support Gov. Roosevelt for President, in 2,007 of the State's 2,845 precincts polled a total of 566,292. A group of uninstructed Democratic candidates, not committed, but popularly supposed to favor Alfred E. Smith for President, in the same number of precincts, polled a total of 389,237 votes.

The twentieth Democratic delegate who went into the lead in today's late returns, was an Independent who ran in the fourth (Milwaukee) district on a slogan of "Al Smith and prosperity."

In the congressional districts Republican delegates have not been definitely decided, although it appeared the conservatives were certain of carrying four districts, the Progressives two.

Four districts were closely divided, likely to fall ultimately in either camp. Two delegates are to be elected in each district.

The Republicans polled a total of 1,337,962 votes, the Progressives obtaining 695,305, and the conservatives 672,677. The Roosevelt Democrats polled 566,292, and the uninstructed slate 389,237 to total 955,529.

Nicaragua Will Control Militia Starting Jan. 2

(Associated Press.)

Next January 2 has been fixed for handing over complete control of the Nicaraguan National Guard to Nicaraguan command. A State Department announcement yesterday indicated that after that date plans would be followed to withdraw all American forces from Nicaraguan soil.

United States forces in Nicaragua at present number 1,400. To provide a sufficient force to insure efficient supervision of the November presidential and congressional elections, it is planned to send in June an additional contingent of Marines, probably 500.

House Group Postpones Oklahoma Seat Contest

(Associated Press.)

A House elections committee agreed yesterday to postpone until April 21 a vote on the contest between Wesley Disney, Democratic incumbent, and Charles O'Connor, Republican contestant, over who should represent the First Oklahoma District.

Representative Shafer (Republican), Wisconsin, a committee member, asked the postponement so there would be time to study the case the House decided Tuesday by ousting Peter C. Granata, Republican, and seating Stanley H. Kunz, Democrat, from the Eighth Congressional District.

Roosevelt Backers Rejoice As Al Smith Loses Again

Senator Dill Says Wisconsin Result Shows Governor Is Moving Irresistibly Toward Nomination; Has Nearly Fourth of Needed Delegates.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

As is his custom after each triumph by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Senator Clarence C. Dill, of Washington, issued another statement yesterday. In this he hailed Roosevelt's victory in Wisconsin as another sign that the New York governor is moving irresistibly toward the Democratic nomination for President.

To the foes of Roosevelt these "victory" statements of Dill have become both maddening and monotonous. However, on one point that Dill stressed yesterday, the anti-Roosevelt people will have to agree.

So far in the preconvention campaign, the Washington senator said, Gov. Roosevelt has "met not a single defeat."

He might have added this: Not only has Roosevelt not met a single defeat, but he has beaten the man who is out to "stop" him, Alfred E. Smith, by an overwhleming vote every time the two have been rivals at the polls.

It was so in New Hampshire in March; it was so Tuesday in Wisconsin, and it was so, likewise, in Buffalo, N. Y., where Roosevelt delegates trounced those pledged to Smith.

The New Hampshire primary convinced the Roosevelt people that Al Smith was far from being the vote-getter he was touted to be, and the Wisconsin result fortified this conviction. Consequently, the Roosevelt men are looking forward to the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries on April 26 with much more optimism than they were a few weeks ago.

Counting the 26 delegates he got in Wisconsin and the 28 in Georgia that were formally instructed for him yesterday, Gov. Roosevelt now has nearly a fourth of the number that he needs to win.

He has 175 delegates. It is virtually certain that on next Tuesday he will capture sixteen more in Nebraska, sending his total to 191.

The total of delegates at the Democratic national convention in Chicago will be 1,154. To win, a candidate must get two-thirds of this number, or 770. Assuming that Mr. Roosevelt wins the Nebraska bloc of delegates, he will be only two shy of a fourth of that number.

The Roosevelt boosters are convinced that if their man goes into the convention with a majority, or 578, his nomination is assured.

Vice Presidential Talk.

So sure of victory are the Roosevelt people now that they are seriously discussing the selection of a vice presidential nominee to run with the New York Governor.

Lately there have been reports that friends of Roosevelt were using the vice presidential nomination as bait to lure favorite son candidate into the Roosevelt camp.

Such a report cropped up, for example, when Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, renounced his favorite son aspirations and came out for Roosevelt.

Yesterday Robert W. Woolley, of Kentucky, the man who persuaded Barkley to get on the Roosevelt bandwagon, stated emphatically that the vice presidential nomination had not been promised to Barkley. For that matter, he added, it had not been promised to anybody.

Barkley "Deal" Denied.

Mr. Woolley, a former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and now an attorney here, also denied that there had been any "deal" between Roosevelt and Barkley concerning the post of convention keynoter.

Barkley, Roosevelt's choice for the assignment, appointed keynoter (temporary chairman), and Jouett Shouse was commended for permanent chairman at a meeting of the Democratic arrangements committee last Monday.

Mr. Woolley said yesterday that Gov. Roosevelt did not indorse Barkley for keynoter until several days after the Kentuckian had decided to come out for him.

Woolley Describes Events.

Describing the events that led up to Barkley's pronouncement for Roosevelt, Woolley said:

"The senator and I had conferred a number of times about the matter. My appeal was solely on the ground that since he had repeatedly stated privately that he was heart and soul for Roosevelt he was obviously aiding the opposition by consenting to continue in the race.

"The senator returned Sunday, March 20, from a week's trip to Kentucky and I strongly urged him to give out an announcement of withdrawal for publication the following (Monday) morning."

About this time, Woolley said, a story was printed to the effect that Barkley was under consideration by the Roosevelt group for the role of keynoter. This, Woolley said, worried Barkley, and he decided to hold up his statement.

The senator, Woolley told Gov. Roosevelt in a letter dated March 21, did not "wish to make himself open to the charge of coming through with such an important statement immediately upon the published intimation that he was being considered for the temporary chairmanship."

Roosevelt's Enthusiasm.

However, the following day Barkley had his statement typed and made ready for distribution to the press. He showed it to Woolley, whereupon the latter wired Gov. Roosevelt as follows:

"Barkley's statement perfect. Released for publication tomorrow night."

A day or two later, according to Woolley, Homer Cummings, of Connecticut, a Roosevelt worker, called on Senator Barkley and asked his permission to take up the matter of the temporary chairmanship with Gov. Roosevelt. Barkley consented, and Roosevelt endorsed him for the assignment.

On March 24, Woolley said, he received a telegram from Gov. Roosevelt, reading as follows:

"Barkley's statement is certainly fine and I appreciate it. I think we have an excellent chance of putting him across as temporary chairman."

Law Group at G. U. Hears Lecture on Kidnap History

Dr. Lardone, Professor at Catholic University, Tells Riccobono Seminar of Ancient Origin of Crime of Abduction; Cites Penalties.

"Kidnaping" was the subject of an address last night by the Rev. Dr. Francis J. Lardone, professor of Roman law at the Catholic University, before the Riccobono Seminar of Roman law at Georgetown University.

"The crime was known to the ancient world," the speaker said. "Even the Bible mentions it. 'He that shall steal a man and sell him, being convicted of the guilt, shall be put to death.' In Rome kidnaping has been known and punished from the early days of Roman law down to the codification of Justinian in the sixth century, and the crime was checked by regular dispositions during the long span of the away of Roman law in the civilized world."

According to Dr. Lardone "there have been some periods when the practice of kidnaping seemed to be acute. Suetonius, writing of the time of Augustus stated: 'Many pernicious practices militating against public security have survived as a result of the lawless habits of the civil wars, or have even arisen in the time of peace * * * travelers in the country, freemen and slaves alike, were seized and kept in confinement in the workhouses of the landowners; numerous leagues, too, were formed for the commission of crime of every kind, assuming the character of some new guild. Therefore to put a stop, Augustus inspected the workhouses and disbanded all guilds, except such as were of longer standing and formed for legitimate purposes.'

"Toward the end of the third century kidnaping was again practiced and free persons as well as slaves were abducted, and the prefect of Rome inflicted the punishment of death to check the crime. In 315 Constantine, 'addressing his vicar of Africa complains with emotion and severe words against the unhuman kidnapers of children and inflicts upon them extreme penalties, the death by sword or exposure to the wild beasts.'

"The victims of kidnaping belonged to every category. Roman law listed the victims of kidnaping in its own way on account of the peculiar organization of the Roman family. The head, the paterfamilias, was under no subjection, but his family were under his control in different degrees. The wife, under his 'manus' (hand), the children under his 'potestas' (power), and the slaves under his 'dominium' or ownership.

'Kidnaping was viewed by Roman law more as an interference with the power of the 'paterfamilias' than as an interference with liberty of the individual where we place the emphasis today. Kidnaping, therefore, derived its gravity according to such intesference, and was punished according to uch degrees. So, for instance, the theft of children and wives had a more severe punishment than the kidnaping of slaves. Even the legal proceeding was affected some time by this situation. As for kidnapers, hundreds of devices were used by them for a sure and safe kidnaping. Kidnapers sometimes worked individually and sometimes were organized."

GOVERNOR BACKED AS DISTRICT CHOICE

Dill Calls Roosevelt Man of Destiny as Clubs Start Campaign Here.

With Senator Clarence C. Dill championing their choice as the "man of destiny," 400 members of the League of Roosevelt Clubs last night initiated a campaign to make Franklin D. Roosevelt the District's candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination at the Chicago convention.

Senator Dill's outline of the qualifications and record of the New York Governor was enthusiastically received at the meeting held in the Willard Hotel. He claimed that the Republican administration and the President had failed and said that "the people will turn to a Democrat in whom they will have confidence and can believe—Gov. Roosevelt."

The date of the primary election at which Washington's delegates to the Chicago convention and the national committeeman and committeewoman will be chosen will be announced early next week, John F. Costello, national committeeman, who presided, said.

At this election any one who wishes to file his candidacy will be allowed to do so, John P. Colpoys, chairman of the State central committee, said in explaining the primary system. He also stated that persons who wished to have the polling places watched and the counting of ballots checked could do this. This was an answer to letters of Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, president of the Women's Democratic Council, addressed to all Democratic presidential candidates.

The letters asked the candidates and the national committee to insure a "fair and free" primary here. Reference was made to a statement of Mr. Costello that the six District delegates will be pledged to a "certain delegate."

"Cut the Wires Between Wall Street and Washington" was advanced as a slogan for the Democratic campaign by Huston Thompson, former Federal Trade Commissioner and local attorney, whose address closed the gathering.

LINDBERGH CHILD WELL, CONTACT SAYS

also my sincere belief. However, I have no definite knowledge that he is.

"Col. Schwarzkopf conferred with me today. He went over the general situation and reported in detail on the police activities and progress. He told me the situation was much the same as it has been for several days."

The night police bulletin also said the matter discussed with Gov. Moore at the capitol today was merely a verbal report of the investigation up to date.

Kidnaper Not Demented.

"Three Naval airplanes flew over the Lindbergh home today, but none of them dropped a package as reported. They merely dipped in salute and continued on their way.

"There is no basis for the story that the Lindbergh baby may be returned tonight to either the Lindbergh or Morrow home.

"The investigators have no reason to believe at this time that the kidnaper was a demented person."

A brief portion of the time Col. Lindbergh was away from Hopewell Sunday was accounted for tonight when it became known he lunched that day at a Long Island flying club with Col. Henry Breckinridge, his attorney; John J. Fogarty, private detective, and an unidentified man. The number of this party—four—corresponds with the four persons who occupied an amphibian plane seen off Massachusetts coast Sunday, apparently looking for a yacht.

Sedan Leaves Estate.

Shortly before midnight a sedan left the Lindbergh estate and, avoiding the regularly used road to Hopewell, took to Featherbed lane, a rutted thoroughfare on which the kidnapers were supposed to have parked their car.

Two troopers rode in the front seat. A woman and a man, possibly two men, were in the rear. After reaching Hopewell they disappeared on the road leading to Trenton.

A check of the license number showed the car's registration card had been removed from the State records, leading to the assumption it was owned by a State trooper.

Neither the identity of the passengers nor the nature of their errand was known.

Rumors of Return Spread.

Meantime, a report came from Falmouth, Mass., that a man, a woman and a child had been seen in a boat in Waquoit Bay, which is only a short distance north of Marthas Vineyard. The boat was said to be heading toward Great Neck, Mass. State police began a search of the wooded region in that section.

Although it was possible the report was only another of the thousands of wild leads turned up in the 36-day investigation, interest attached to it because the Lindberghs' trips to that section and possibility Curtis also had been there during the past two days.

Rumors the missing child already had been returned to his parents or to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Englewood, spread from coast to coast during the day.

There also were persistent reports, one attributed to a person connected with the investigation, that the return of the child was only a matter of hours off.

Reporter Army Mobilizes.

Col. Schwarzkopf, in vigorously denying the 21-month-old boy was back, said "when the baby is returned the news will be released through Trenton."

At Trenton newspapermen kept a 24-hour vigil in the State capitol, which is connected by direct wire with the Lindbergh home.

In Hopewell a small army of reporters and photographers was increasing as a result of the optimism prevailing that success would soon crown the five weeks of investigating and negotiating.

Col. Schwarzkopf and State police in Maine said they had no knowledge of a report a man and a woman had landed near the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me.

London (Thursday), April 7 (U.P.). The Daily Herald said today that Maj. Charles Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State Police, plans to begin his return trip to New York on Friday. By that time his work here in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping will have been completed.

MRS. K.E. IRWIN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Will Be Held This Afternoon for Leader in Religious Circles.

Mrs. Katherine E. Irwin, widow of Capt. Harvey S. Irwin, died at her residence, 2823 Thirteenth street, yesterday morning. She passed away peacefully after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Irwin was one of the leading women in the religious life of Washington. She was born in Louisville, Ky., April, 1857, and had made her home in Washington for approximately 30 years. Shortly after arriving in this city she married Capt. Harvey S. Irwin, member of Congress from Kentucky.

Mrs. Irwin was one of the leading spirits in the life of the women of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. She had been a teacher in the Sunday school for almost twenty years and was for nine years president of the Woman's Society for Missions. For seventeen years Mrs. Irwin was president of the Presbyterial Society for Missions, an organization of the women of the Presbyterian churches of this entire area. Six years ago Mrs. Irwin organized the Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches, which has today a membership of 2,000. She was president of that organization at the time of her death. She was a charter member of the Congressional Woman's Club and president of the Waldensian Society of Washington. Her relatives and nearest of kin are Mrs. B. O. Scott and her son, Kenneth, who made their home with Mrs. Irwin.

The services will be held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church today at 3 o'clock. The officers of the church will be the honorary pallbearers. Interment will be in the family plot of Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville, on Friday.

Treasury Asks Tenders For $75,000,000 Bills

The Treasury is inviting tenders for approximately $75,000,000 in 91-day bills which will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidder. They will be dated April 13, and will mature on July 13, on which date the face amount will be paid without interest. Bids will close on April 11.

Proceeds from the sale of the issue will be used to retire a similar issue.

RITES FOR WILLIAM E. LEWIS

Cremation to Follow Services at Family Residence Tomorrow.

Funeral services for William E. Lewis, who died Tuesday after an illness of several weeks, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late residence, 1918 K street northwest. Cremation will follow the services.

Mr. Lewis was born in this city 68 years ago, and was the great-grandson of Samuel Washington Lewis, who came to this city from Philadelphia to become the first auditor of the United States Treasury. He was local associate manager of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider, investment bankers. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Isis F. Lewis.

MRS. M. L. HERSEY RITES.

Major General's Wife Will Be Buried This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Noyes Hersey, wife of Maj. Gen. Mark L. Hersey, U. S. A., retired, who died Tuesday at her home, 2714 Cathedral avenue northwest, will be held at Gawler's funeral parlors, 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Interment will be private.

Mrs. Hersey was 69 years old. Besides her husband she is survived by her son, Commander Mark L. Hersey, jr., of 4554 Klingle road northwest, and a daughter, Mrs. Alice Wick. Two grandchildren also survive. Mrs. Hersey had lived here for about fifteen years, coming originally from Maine.

HUNTER RITES TODAY.

Girl Employe of Telephone Company Died on Tuesday.

Funeral services for Miss Mary Gertrude Hunter, 24 years old, who died at the home of her parents, 2439 Monroe street northeast, Tuesday after a short illness, will be held at the residence this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will take place in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Miss Hunter was a graduate of Central High School and an employe of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin G. Hunter; two brothers, Melville and Erwin, jr., and two sisters, Virginia and Wanda.

Will Address Holy Name Society.

Representative James M. Mead, of New York, will speak before the Holy Trinity Holy Name Society in the church auditorium at Thirty-sixth and O streets northwest tonight. The subject of his address will be "Our Government's Position in the World Development."

SUCCUMBS

MRS. HESTER M. POOLE.

OLIN LAMBERT RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Office Manager of Film Exchange Will Be Buried in Arlington.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Tabler's funeral parlors, 928 M street northwest, for Olin Lambert, who died Tuesday from injuries received in a fall from the sixth floor of his apartment, 7611 Georgia avenue northwest, Sunday night. These services will be followed by a service at Arlington National Cemetery at 3 o'clock with full military honors.

Mr. Lambert, who was 35 years old, was office manager of the local Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer exchange. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Isobel Lambert, and his parents, the Rev. T. J. Lambert and Mrs. Sarah Lambert, of Beltsville, Md. His father is a member of the Southern Methodist Conference.

Mr. Lambert was born in Hillsboro, Md., and educated at Randolph-Macon College and Johns Hopkins University. While at the latter school he joined the medical unit and served overseas during the World War until the signing of the armistice. He joined Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer shortly after the war and had been employed by this firm for nine years.

Honorary pallbearers will be Allen F. Cummings, William A. Scully and Thomas Grady, of New York; Jack DeWitt, Harry K. Smith and Hastings Hopkins, of Baltimore, and Ray Irvin and Rudolph Berger, manager of the Washington exchange.

U. S. Move to Buy Mount Vernon Hit

Wakefield and Virginia Body Chiefs Join in Scoring Federal Proposal.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—Leaders of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, and the Wakefield National Memorial Association today vigorously voiced their disapproval of the proposal before Congress that the Federal Government should take over Mount Vernon.

Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, president of the A. P. V. A., said: "I think it is a presumption for the Government even to suggest its purchase. The Federal Government had an opportunity to purchase it when it was first offered for sale, as did the State. Both declined, and the money for its purchase was finally raised by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, which has managed it so admirably every since."

To this Mrs. J. Allison Hodges, State regent of the Wakefield organization, added that she thoroughly disapproved of Mount Vernon passing into the care of the Government, "rather than remaining under the organization which rescued it from oblivion, and has managed it so excellently for years."

RITES FOR GEORGE G. PHELPS

Funeral Will Be Held Today for Postoffice Employe, Dying Suddenly.

Funeral services for George G. Phelps, 62, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at his residence, 704 Kennedy street northwest. Mr. Phelps, who died suddenly at his home yesterday morning, had been an employe of the Postoffice Department and a resident of Washington for the last 33 years. Burial will be in the Rock Creek Cemetery.

He was the son of the late James O. and Mary E. Phelps, and was born in Erie County, Pa. He is survived by his widow, Lila A. Phelps; a son, Lawrence W. Phelps, of Washington; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Collins, of Winterhaven, Fla.; two grandchfidren and two brothers, Earl V. Phelps, of Long Island, N. Y., and H. Glenn Phelps, of Washington.

MRS. HESTER POOLE DIES AT AGE OF 98

Once Worked With Frances Willard and Clara Barton; Funeral Saturday.

Mrs. Hester M. Poole, well known writer and prominent in welfare and reform work throughout the country, died yesterday at her home, 1718 Kilbourne place northwest. She was 98 years old.

Mrs. Poole was born in Georgia, Vt., in 1833. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hunt. For many years she took an active part in women's rights movements, and lent her support on every occasion for the advancement of women in the fields of politics and business.

Widely known in literary circles, Mrs. Poole contributed many articles to newspapers and periodicals in all sections of the country. Included in her writings were subjects of interior decoration, poetry and literary criticisms. A number of her verses appear in Harper's cyclopedia of British and American Poetry.

In her early years Mrs. Poole spent much of her time as a coworker with Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Frances Willard and Clara Barton, in obtaining rights enjoyed by women of today.

Mrs. Poole was a member of the Sorosis Club of New York, and was awarded first honors when the club recently held a contest of poems.

Surviving Mrs. Poole are two grandchildren, Mrs. Torrance Parker, of Belmont, Mass., and George Huntress, of Boston, Mass.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the S. H. Hines funeral home, Fourteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

Metcalf Wage Bill Reported to Senate

Labor Committee Favors "Prevailing Rate" for U. S. Construction.

(Associated Press.)

A favorable report on the Metcalf bill to guarantee laborers on Federal building projects the rate of wages prevailing in the communities in which the construction is done was sent to the Senate yesterday by its labor committee.

The report said the measure, sponsored by Senator Metcalf (Republican), Rhode Island, was "absolutely necessary in fairness to labor and to the contractors." It is said the bill would "correct the injustice and hardship on the construction industries through their inability to figure labor costs in submitting bids" and give labor new and increased protection.

The bill would provide that wage rates be included in the contract specifications and permit changing them as the prevailing scales change. Where changed, if increased, the Government would pay the contractor an additional amount, and if decreased the contract cost to the Government would be reduced.

PHILIP B. PEYTON BURIED.

Funeral of Alexandria Resident Is Held at Charlottesville.

The funeral of the late Philip Barbour Peyton, who died Sunday at his home, Braddock, Alexandria, was held yesterday in Maplewood Cemetery, Charlottesville. Services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Cole, of the Charlottesville Episcopal Church, and pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased; Francis Bradley Peyton, jr., W. Herbert Peyton and Philip Barbour Peyton 2d, of Charlottesville; John W. Peyton and James F. Peyton, of Rapidan, and William H. Luckett, of Washington.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Nannie H. B. Peyton, he is survived by two sons, Capt. Philip Barbour Peyton, United States Army, retired, and Addison D. Peyton, of Arlington County; and two brothers, Francis Bradley Peyton and Alexander Newman Peyton, of Charlottesville.

Attache of French Embassy Speaks at Army Day Dinner

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

Col. P. Pillon, military attache of the French Embassy, was the principal speaker at the second annual Army Day dinner of Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, held last night in the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria. Approximately 150 attended, including representatives of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, members of the legion and auxiliary and their friends.

After a brief apology for his unfamiliarity with the English language, Col. Pillon delivered an address in French, which was translated by the toastmaster, Dan S. Hollenga. Col. Pillon extended the felicitations of the French nation to America and expressed the belief that the close and friendly relations which have existed since the time of the American Revolution will endure for all times.

Brig. Gen. John Russell, commanding officer at Quantico Marine Barracks; Col. Edward N. Schulz, commanding officer at Fort Humphrey; Col. Harry N. Cootes, commanding officer at Fort Myer; Capt. P. S. Rossiter, U. S. Navy, in command of the United States Naval Hospital; Maj. Howard C. Davidson, commanding officer at Bolling Field; Mrs. Richard B. English, of Alexandria, national vice president of the 8 and 40 Society; Watson B. Miller, national rehabilitation chairman of the American Legion; Mrs. Louis S. Scott, president of the Alexandria Garden Club; Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven, chairman of the Alexandria committee of the Virginia Society of the Colonial Dames of America; Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, regent of Mount Vernon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, of Alexandria.

J. Fred Birrell, delegate from Alexandria to the Virginia Legislature; Councilmen Benedict Weil and Arthur Herbert, Commander John S. Arnold, of Alexandria Post; Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the Alexandria American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson, president of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club; D. C. Book, president of the Kiwanis Club; William B. McGroarty, president of the Washington Society of Alexandria; Francis H. Fannon, vice president of the Rotary Club; J. William May, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Virginia Lumpkins, of Danville, director of a performance to be staged by the local auxiliary.

The invocation was by the Rev. Hugh J. McFadden, and songs of the World War were sung by Miss Anna K. Mendel, of Arlington County.

could reveal their knowledge only to the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy. The measure provides, however, that after their investigation of Barlow's claims, they shall report to Congress and the President without disclosing the nature of the invention.

Two members of the commission would be civilian engineers, a Democratic member of the House and a Republican from the Senate.

Barlow would be authorized to name the four, whose meetings would be in a guarded room in the Capitol.

The commission would act as an advisory council to Barlow as to disposal of the information he possesses.

While here recently, Barlow said his object, aside from guarding against possibe loss of the invention to a foreign power, was to see that it went only to the proper American officials to be used as a weapon for preserving peace.

He said existing methods of warfare, such as heavy-armored battleships, would be of no avail against the weapon, which would place its possessor in undisputed command of military affairs.

political debt payments among European nations.

Meanwhile, the statement was closely linked up with the situation in central Europe, and the present four-power negotiations in London designed to relieve the Danubian states economically and financially.

It was understood that certain British financiers favored abandonment of the gold standard in the Balkans and stabilization on a lower gold basis, but France and Germany have opposed such a move.

Bill Aimed at Gambling Ships Reported to House

(Associated Press.)

A bill intended to halt operation of gambling ships beyond the 3-mile limit was reported favorably yesterday by the House merchant marine committee. The legislation already has been approved by the Senate.

The legislation would require all boats operating lighterage service to ships beyond the 3-mile limit to be licensed by the Department of Commerce, putting transportation to and from gambling ships under Federal control.

TOMORROW IS DAY OF ESSAY AWARDS

In addition to the cash prizes, judges of the thousands of essays submitted selected approximately 2,000 that were considered deserving of special merit. Certificates have been prepared for the boy and girl authors of these creditable essays and after their names have been written in, and the certificates signed by the editor of The Washington Post, they will be mailed to the proper addresses.

When this task is completed The Washington Post George Washington Essay Contest will go down in the history of this newspaper as one of the most interesting, most sucessful and permanently valuable contributions ever made in the interest of the younger generation.

GIRL STUDENTS HURT N COLUMBIA RIOTING

Tear Gas Is Used to Dispel Strikers Protesting on Editor's Ousting.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Bruised knuckles and blackened eyes were evidence tonight of the seriousness with which Columbia University students went about their efforts to obtain—and oppose—the reinstatement of Reed Harris, expelled editor of the Spectator, student publication.

Several women students were hurt slightly late in the day in a pitched battle between striking and non-striking students directly beneath the window of President Nicholas Murray Butler's office. Tear gas had been used earlier in a melee on the library steps, where numerous strikers had made idealistic speeches.

Harris, whose editorials charged, among other things, professionalism on the football team, was absent from the campus, which resumed its normal quiet after 3 o'clock, following conclusion of most classes. Strike leaders said the one-day demonstration was 75 per cent effective, as they adjourned the mass meetings and speech making until Friday while preparing to return to classes as usual tomorrow.

Vociferous partisans of Harris, who attempted to "gag" the large and gilded statue of Alma Mater in front of the library, caused a near riot as they flaunted a 15-foot strip of black crepe before the group they loudly dubbed "the athletic crowd."

A moment after Arthur Goldschmidt solemnly proclaimed his "sad duty to announce that we are going to gag Alma Mater," the crepe was the medium of a tug-of-war. As he started to climb the statue a watchman tried to pull him down.

The ranks of the strikers were parted by a flying wedge of besweatered and noticeably husky gentlemen coming to the watchman's aid.

Shelly Wood, 6-foot oarsman, grabbed the crepe, and his teammates hustled up. The athletes were vastly outnumbered, but when the tussle was over they were dragging the crepe in the general direction of the gymnasium, with one struggling figure still hanging on. This last survivor was Howard Westwood, of Tecumseh, Nebr., who loosened his hold only after he was dragged 200 feet. Westwood's clothes were almost ripped from his back, but he was unhurt and grinning when he got up.

There were other clashes, mostly minor. "Strikers" were at the subway station a block away distributing little lapel tags reading "On Strike." Small groups formed in front of classrooms, and there were one or two fist fights.

Several professors adjourned their classes.

The strikers carried banners—"Reinstate Reed Harris," "Strike for Free Speech," and "Speak Your Mind and Be Expelled." Robins statue, "The Thinker," wore a placard, "For Think-Out Loud." Statues of Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, and other celebrities also bore signs, but no gags.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, who issued the order expelling Harris, reiterated the student editor would not be reinstated.

Mrs. Saunders Is Chosen for Second Term as President.

The nominating committee elected by the board of managers of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers has presented the following names for election at the annual convention on April 20.

President, Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders; secretary, Mrs. Walter B. Fry; treasurer, Mrs. Z. D. Blackistone; historian, Mrs. R. T. Wyche; first vice president, Mrs. L. B. Castell; second vice president, Mrs. Finis D. Morris; third vice persident, Mrs. Selden M. Ely; fourth vice persident, Mrs. Joseph F. Randall; fifth vice president, Mrs. Joseph Sanders; sixth vice president, Mrs. Walter C. Jones; seventh vice president, Mrs. Miner W. Buell; delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations, Mrs. William T. Bannerman and John W. Townsend.

Mrs. Saunders is completing her first term as president of the Congress. Under the amended by-laws of the congress, no person can serve more than two terms as president.

Capital May Have Horse Police Again

Possibility Is Seen With Abolition of Bicycle Patrol Unit.

Possibility that Washington may again have a unit of horse-mounted policemen was expressed at police headquarters yesterday as announcement was made that after July 1 the use of bicycles in police work will be discontinued. Twenty-five men will be released to foot patrol and other duties as the result of the abolition of the bicycles. No definite moves have been made as to the establishment of the equestrian detachment.

Officials said that the hazard of riding a bicycle under modern traffic conditions was one factor in bringing about the discontinuance of bicycle transportation. Another is that the speed possible on a bicycle is not compatible with modern law enforcement conditions.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, has several times discussed with his executive staff the feasibility of resuming horse patrol work. New York and Chicago, it was pointed out, as well as many other large cities, maintain equine-mounted units.

Prince Georges Club to Plan Show.

A meeting of the show committee of the Prince Georges County Exchange Club will be held tonight at College Park to make plans for the annual industrial show, which will be held in Hyattsville in May. A meeting of the club was held yesterday, but adjourned early to allow members to attend the funeral of Summerfield D. Hall, former clerk of the circuit court.

SCENES AS ARMY DAY PARADE SWUNG BY

WAR ANNIVERSARY PARADE PROTESTED

Senator Norris Scores It as Recalling "Last Thing We Ought to Celebrate."

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, who voted against the declaration of war fifteen years ago, told the Senate yesterday "The last thing we ought to do is to celebrate our entry into the World War."

The Nebraskan asserted that a celebration should be forborne "out of respect for a sentiment in this country that occupies millions and millions of thinking men."

A few minutes later the Senate recessed for 45 minutes to enable its members to review the Army Day parade in honor of American entry into the World War.

Norris opposed the action although not insisting on his objection.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, who as a member of the House also voted against the war declaration, objected to the request of Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, for unanimous consent to a recess but the proposal was carried by a viva voce vote.

In his Senate speech, Norris shouted that "to turn this great day into a celebration of the entry into the war that brought civilization to the edge of destruction is an unheard of thing."

"There are two parades today—one in honor of our entrance into the war; one of six millions unemployed suffering because we entered that war."

He then said the Army Day march could pass by in a short time while "the greater parade of suffering, those who are unclothed and hungry, can be watched for a week and it will still be passing by."

City Heads Adopt Car Color Scheme

Repainted Autos Will Bear Hue Significant to Department.

The District government is going in for colors this spring for its automobiles. Not to be outdone by the fashionable pleasure cars, the District Commissioners yesterday adopted an order that whenever a District car is repainted it shall be done in a color characteristic to the department.

Thus all motor vehicles assigned to the Fire Department will be red; those used by the Police Department shall be royal blue with silver striping, and this includes motorcycles and motorboats. The Engineer Department cars will be gray with red striping for trucks, black for all passenger cars.

On new purchases the standard commercial colors will be retained until the paint begins to wear.

Apollo Club Minstrels To Entertain Hospital

Judge Robert E. Mattingly of the Municipal Court heads the cast of the War Veterans' Apollo Club minstrels, who will present an entertainment tonight at the St. Elizabeths Hospital for inmates and veterans there.

The premier showing of the entertainment was at the Walter Reed Hospital, and following its presentation at the St. Elizabeths Hospital, the show will be staged at Mount Alto, Old Soldiers Home, and other hospitals. Many of Washington's leading vocalists and star acts have given their services in the production.

bare his head as the Stars and Stripes repeatedly passed by.

Joined by Fess and Tilson.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, vice chairman of the United States Bicentennial Commission, and Representative John Q. Tilson, also a member of the commission, who led the line of march, joined the presidential party after their units had passed the reviewing stand.

Other occupants of the reviewing stand included Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman of the District Bicentennial Commission, and Dr. George C. Havenner, executive vice chairman, and Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Havenner; Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, and Mrs. Crosby; William Tyler Page, former Clerk of the House, and Mrs. Page; Isaac Gans and Mrs. Gans, Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett, Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Maj. Gen. Mark L. Hersey, Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, Maj. Gen. Hanson Ely, Capt. John Parker Hill, Maj. Gen. Clarence C. Williams and Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood.

Although the day was not officially proclaimed a holiday, the two avenues and Fifteenth street were thronged.

Spirit of Pride.

But from this crowd no frenzied cheers were heard, as in time of war when pent-up emotions were given release by sight of men who were marching to the battlefield or of those who had returned. Instead, a spirit of pride and gratitude seemed to dominate the spectators. It was a novelty and relief to realize that thousands of men were on parade while the Nation was at peace.

At least 30,000 men were in the line of march. A platoon of Washington motorcycle police, and Gen. Malone and his staff, on horseback, followed by members of the Bicentennial Commissions and distinguished guests, headed the parade.

By the time they reached Fifteenth street, the entire Avenue, from the Treasury Building to the Capitol was a solid line of uniformed men, interspersed at frequent intervals with the Star-Spangled Banner. And the Avenue remained thus for almost two hours.

First in the marching column were crack battalions and squadrons of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, led by the commanding officer of the Sixteenth Infantry Brigade and staff. In this division the Army, Navy and Marine bands marched together, separated briefly by squadrons and battalions. The gray-uniformed Army Band started a faster beat of pulses and then when the scarlet and blue of the Marine Band filled the Avenue, a great burst of applause was heard.

Others in March.

A fine exhibition was given by the National Guard and Organized Reserves, under command of Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding general of the Twenty-ninth Division, and staff. In this division were seen some of the latest developments in the Army, aircraft guns, huge searchlights, mounted on trucks, Coast Artillery and ambulances.

The third division, led by the R. O. T. C. battalion of Georgetown University, under command of Maj. William H. Hobson, was composed for the most part of the entire high school cadet brigade, both white and colored. The smart appearance of the R. O. T. C. won a cheer from the spectators. The High School Cadets were led by the Brigade Band, recognized as one of the best cadet bands in the country. The colored High School Cadets were preceded by their band.

Legion posts, veteran and patriotic organizations made up the final and fourth division. One of the most spectacular demonstrations in the parade was given by the Fox Theater Band, included in this division.

Daughters of Veterans.

The scarlet coated youngsters who constitute this organization filled the wide avenues from curb to curb and evoked a volley of handclapping as they burst into a stirring march.

The drum and bugle corps of the Costello Post of the American Legion, upon reaching the reviewing stand, halted and faced the President and gave an admirable exhibition. This division included several other drum and bugle corps, a large number of patriotic orders and their auxiliaries. Veterans of the famous Rainbow Division were seen, together with Gold Star Mothers.

Far from falling flat at the end, the parade was given a flourish at the finish by the Independent Boys Band and Elks Band. Last in the line of march were the Daughters of Veterans of 1861 and 1865 in white silk.

Hurley Speaks at Banquet.

Military preparedness, not for belligerent purposes, but to promote the principles of justice and democracy, was stressed by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley in an address last night at an Army Day banquet of the Military Order of the World War at the Mayflower Hotel.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the United States Bicentennial Commission, referred to the parade of the afternoon, which the Bicentennial Commission and the Military Order of the World War sponsored, as a demonstration in which every American could have taken pride, and as an illustration of the "adequate defense" of the Nation.

The two speakers were introduced by Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, commander in chief of the Military Order of the World War.

Lieut. Col. George E. Ijams, commander of the District Chapter of the Military Order of the World War, was toastmaster at the banquet which was the concluding feature of the Army Day celebration. Patriotic airs were played by the U. S. Army Band under the direction of Lieut. Thomas F. Darcy.

Lieut. Col. Elmer F. Rice read Patrick Henry's address, while Maj. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr., gave the toast to the flag. Maj. W. W. Burns led a demonstration of the spirit of '76. Elsie Jorss Reilley sang. The speeches were broadcast by Station WRC over the National Broadcasting System.

DANUBE HELP STUDY BEGUN BY 4 POWERS

"Good Progress" Is Reported by Leaders; Harmony Marks Parley.

London, April 6 (A.P.).—Representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, functioning as a kind of executive committee of Europe, today discussed ways and means of remedying the Danubian economic troubles, and they achieved what was authoritatively described as "very good progress."

Tomorrow morning committee meetings will be held to examine numerous proposals and reports touching on the questions of guaranteed loans and tariff preferences among the Danubian states. An effort will be made to submit concrete recommendations to the main conference in the afternoon.

A source in close touch with today's discussions said they were conducted "in a spirit of complete harmony."

Each of the four governments is appointing a treasury expert to examine the recent report of the League of Nations' financial committee on the condition of the Danubian counties. These nations—Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Roumania—were not represented at the deliberations. A subsequent conference is planned at which they will take under consideration the proposals of the great powers.

The principal delegates participating in today's session were Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Finance Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin, of France, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy and Secretary of State R. W. Von Bulow, of Germany.

Among the proposals under consideration, it is understood, are financial aid by France and Britain and tariff concessions by Germany and Italy, the principal markets of the distressed countries.

Lecturer Drinks Acid For Water and Is Dead

Liverpool, England, April 6 (A.P.).—Prof. James Foote, master of science at a local technical school, died in his classroom today when he picked up a glass of acid from his desk, mistaking it for water, and drank it.

He fell to the floor, writhing in agony, and died in a few moments. He was in the midst of a lecture and reached for a drink of water to ease his throat.

4 Lost in Snowstorms in Spain.

Madrid, April 6 (A.P.).—Heavy snowstorms with rain and high wind swept Spain with unseasonably cold weather. Four men were reported missing in the mountains near Guadalx after a blizzard.

ARLINGTON SCHOOL TAX RISE FORECAST

Two County Board Members Bare Additional Note for $50,000.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

An increase of 25 cents on the $100 assessed valuation for school purposes will be needed to meet the school needs of Arlington County, it was revealed by two members of the county board at a meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation last night in the Lyon Park Community House. It was also declared that it has been discovered that the county school board owes an additional note of $50,000 which they said was not included in the statement given to the county board on Saturday which was said to show the needs of the school board for this term together with all bills due.

These statements came from Fred A. Gosnell, member of the county board, and were supported by the chairman, Harry A. Fellows. The latter said that the statement of Delegate Hugh Reid that taxes in the county should be reduced at least 20 per cent if the county remains in the Byrd road act was "preposterous."

Chairman Fellows declared that the condition of the finances of the county schools alone would almost offset any proposed reduction in taxes.

Gosnell pointed out that approximately $80,000 must be spent by the county board this year in enlarging the water mains between the source of supply and the county reservoir in addition to money that must be used in providing an adequate approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge.

The county school board faces a deficit of $50,000 for the past year exclusive of the note for a like amount even if all taxes are collected, Gosnell stated. It was further pointed out by Gosnell that tax collection seldom equals 90 per cent and should that be exceeded there would still be a deficit.

The present school levy of $1.05 on the $100 assessed valuation of which 90 cents is used for operating expenses and the 15 cents for interest and retirement of bonds, yields $973,000 annually. This amount is increased to $338,000 as a result of funds received from the State. Gosnell declared that while the expenditures will amount to $338,000 there will still be a deficit of $50,000.

The Byrd road act passed by the General Assembly at its recent session was fully explained by Delegate Reid, who declared that if the county board would refuse to increase the school levy and demand living within the budget the problem would solve itself.

Following discussion it was voted that there be circulated petitions calling for a special election on the question of whether or not the county should remain under the Byrd act.

PUSH THE TAX BILL.

Hearings on the tax bill got off to a good start before the Senate finance committee on Wednesday. The committee hopes to complete its work in two weeks. Indications are that the committee's bill will not be radically different from that adopted by the House.

Secretary Mills has pointed out a number of defects in the House measure. For the most part these are contained in provisions that were accepted by the House in the last few hours, when it became apparent that additional levies would be necessary to balance the budget. Double taxes are imposed in such a way as to discourage the normal flow of capital into industry and commerce. It is a serious discrimination, Secretary Mills said, to levy a high tax on corporations and then subject dividends to a normal tax. In this way two large slices are taken from business profits. He also considers the stock transfer and estate taxes excessive, and would liberalize the House provision for charging capital losses off against capital gains.

It is apparent, however, that the committee is willing to accept the House bill as the basis of its own program. Secretary Mills will propose substitute levies for the provisions which he considers obnoxious. In this way the work of writing a bill adequate to balance the budget, while eliminating discriminatory features, will be greatly facilitated.

One pitfall which the committee might well avoid is the inclusion of tariff duties in the bill. The oil and coal duties written into the House bill have brought forth widespread demands for other import taxes. These demands threaten to prolong the hearings and to complicate the final enactment of the measure. If the tariff question is opened up there will be no hope for adjournment of Congress in June. The committee ought to confine its efforts to raising revenue.

The uncertainty of tax rates is a serious handicap to business. If the finance committee can avoid an entanglement on tariff duties and confine its efforts to perfecting the House bill without delay, it will make a notable contribution to business stability.

MOUNT VERNON.

With the completion of the George Washington Memorial Boulevard, connecting the National Capital and Mount Vernon, the ownership of that foremost American shrine becomes a vital question. The House lands committee has approved a resolution directing the Secretary of the Interior to negotiate with the Mount Vernon Ladies Association for sale of the historic estate to the Government. The resolution will doubtless be adopted.

The Nation owes a sincere vote of thanks to the women who have preserved Mount Vernon, and who today maintain it as a shrine of patriotism. But the negligence of Congress in past years does not alter the fact that this estate where Washington lived and how lies buried should belong to the American people. Mount Vernon is a priceless heritage of the Nation. It can not be considered otherwise merely because Congress failed to recognize the fact many years ago.

The Mount Vernon Ladies Association is opposed to any sale of the property, but its directors doubtless realize that they must bow to the inevitable. With a magnificent highway, which has cost the Government $5,000,000, beckoning every tourist in America to spend a quiet hour in the atmosphere of Washington's estate that shrine will take on much greater significance as the years roll on. It is not reasonable that its ownership should be left in private hands. The good work that has been done by the Ladies of Mount Vernon should be magnified by conversion of this beautiful estate into a truly national project.

Congress will be disposed to deal liberally with the association. The resolution of the lands committee suggests that the Ladies of Mount Vernon would be asked to take an active part in caring for the estate under Federal supervision, if they agree to the proposed sale. The Government could not intrust Mount Vernon to better hands.

It would be quite appropriate for Congress to complete negotiations for the purchase of Mount Vernon during the Bicentennial year. While the thoughts of the whole country are turned toward Washington and the part he played in the creation of the United States, Congress could not more distinctly honor him than by purchasing the home he loved so well as an enduring shrine to his memory.

American Legion officials who are attempting to halt the stampede toward full payment of the bonus deserve high commendation. They reflect the true spirit of the veterans who went to France to serve their country. If the rank and file of former soldiers support them in this stand the American Legion will consolidate its reputation for patriotic thinking and constructive action.

In spite of the fact that many veterans are in favor of obtaining anything they can get from Uncle Sam, Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the Legion, has taken a definite stand against the bonus grab while the Treasury is in such a depleted condition. His courageous action puts in a precarious situation those veterans in the House who are leading the fight to debase the currency for the benefit of themselves and companions. The bonus drive thus becomes a cooperative project in which lobbyists and spineless congressmen join hands.

No more serious indictment has been lodged against those organized forces which are seeking personal benefits at the expense of taxpayers than the telegram sent by the Willard Straight Post to Legion officials. This demand for "discontinuance of the Washington lobby and all attempts to coerce Congress to vote additional billions and special privileges which will thereby degrade the patriotism of war service, imperil Government finances, gouge taxpayers and make the word 'veteran' synonymous with panhandler and grafter" will find widespread response in the public attitude.

With the more responsible veterans themselves opposed to bonus legislation, with the leaders of both parties in the House and Senate fighting against it, with the President, the tax-paying public, business and industry opposed to it, who is there left to favor the Patman bill? Only a handful of veterans who put personal gain above the welfare of their country. The united opposition of those who would have to pay the bill and the protest of the American Legion itself ought to put a definite end to this bonus agitation.

WORLD ECONOMICS.

Those who attended the opening meeting of the Academy of World Economics at the Brookings Institution last evening must have felt some spiritual kinship with the men who long ago founded the French Academy and the Royal Society. Scholarship is gregarious as well as democratic and philanthropic. Men like to work together, and the isolated philosopher in the ivory tower is only a myth.

In the modern world every human problem has economic significance. Nations prosper or decline in accordance with conditions of industry and trade. The fate of empires is governed by laws of supply and demand. The earth grows smaller as populations increase and systems of communication and travel are improved. What affects one people affects another. A universal system of labor and profit, of life and progress, is being evolved, and there is need for organized, constructive thinking with regard to all the material and cultural issues implicated in the fact. It is to provide a forum and a school, a laboratory for the exchange and examination of ideas on world economics, that the academy has been established.

A hundred years hence, doubtless, the centenary of the institution will be observed. When the members of that day have met what will they say of the ten decades between 1932 and 2032? Will they sadly declare, "It has been a fearful muddle?" or will they agree that, "The people of the twentieth century realistically grappled with the circumstances of life and conquered them?" Their decision will depend upon what we and our children do. The new academy will help us. It is making an excellent beginning. Its work will be watched with keen popular interest.

WOUNDS OF A FRIEND.

Speaking in the Senate which he adorns, Senator Pat Harrison on Monday urged his colleagues to be fair to everybody in the matter of taxation, and then gave utterance to this astonishing thought:

> Let us not, every time we see something in The Washington Post or some other paper, believe that it is a fact. I have not seen anything in The Washington Post for so long a time that I would believe that—well, it seems to me as if it were in the past ages.

Oh, Pat, Pat; how could you! Where is that tenacious memory of yours? 'Twas but yesterday—March 6, to be exact—that The Post, in all fairness, recognized you as the Democratic party's "foremost wisecracker." Is not that the truth? Is it not to be believed? Throw away this cursed modesty, Pat, and admit that you saw it in The Post and that you believe it.

In the same article The Post remarked:

> The complete failure of the Democratic party to come forth with any constructive measures leaves it only the alternative of abusing the President. For this task Senator Pat Harrison is admirably equipped. He is not handicapped by having any constructive ideas of his own, which might have caused him to appreciate the constructive ideas of others.

Can it be that The Post is mistaken in asserting that you are admirably equipped for the task of abusing the President? You do not deny it, do you, Pat? Why, on the very day after your lapse of memory The Post said:

> Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, joined in the debate. Senator Harrison is the light cavalry of the Senate Democrats. He is quick of tongue and ready of phrase. Unquestionably he is an idol among those born-Democrats who gather at the Four Corners grocery store and chortle about what he says about the rich Republicans.

Surely you are light cavalry, Pat, are you not? Surely you are quick of tongue and ready of speech. And you are an idol, Pat, notwithstanding the blushfulness with which you receive the plaudits of your admirers at Four Corners.

The Post undauntedly reiterates the statement that you, Pat Harrison, are Democracy's foremost wisecracker, its light cavalry, and its idol. Is not the truth the truth?

Oh, Pat, how could you!

LAWLESSNESS IN THE HOUSE.

Representative Blanton is doing his utmost to make a joke of taxicab regulation in the District. In supporting his campaign against the Public Utitities Commission members of the House are acting like a group of schoolboys. A few congressmen seem to think it is a great lark to hamper the Public Utilities Commission in the performance of its duty.

Congress enacted a law directing the Public Utilities Commission to set up taxicab rates that are reasonable and undiscriminatory. In accordance with that statute, the commission ordered all taxicabs to install meters and to charge uniform rates prescribed by the commission. The order was tested in the District Supreme Court and upheld.

For a number of valid reasons the commission and the court decided that the present system of zone rates does not operate in the public interest.

But Representative Blanton and a few other members of the House are quite in favor of starvation wages for cab drivers and opposed to security for the public. The gentleman from Texas got through the House a resolution declaring the opposition of that body to meter rates and directing the commission to recall its order abolishing the present system of zone rates. This resolution was not considered by any committee. It was jammed through the House when only a few members were present, and the membership at large knew nothing of it.

In effect, the House has directed the Public Utilities Commission to flout the law under which it operates. The House did not seek to change the law, but to intimidate the commission into setting aside the statute. Because the commission has refused to take note of such procedure Mr. Blanton is attempting to have the salaries of various officials cut off.

The disagreement over rates is only a minor consideration. As a matter of fact, the new rates ordered by the commission are not much higher than the existing zone rates. A charge of 25 cents for the first two miles and 5 cents for each one-third mile thereafter can not be considered exorbitant. It is only about half of the former meter rates effective in Washington, and is the lowest taxicab fare in the United States.

The real issue is whether Congress or a member of Congress shall prescribe the rules under which the Public Utilities Commission must function. If Congress doesn't like the law it may be changed at any time. But the vicious practice of a few individual congressmen trying to bludgeon the commission into following their whims ought not to be countenanced by the House.

WILKERSON VS. CAPONE

From the Chicago Tribune.

District Attorney Johnson's narrative before the Senate committee now considering the appointment of Judge Wilkerson to the Circuit Court of Appeals is one of the most shocking chapters in the history of organized crime in the United States or elsewhere. It is not, perhaps, a complete revelation of the conditions which afflict us, because the facts related do not disclose directly the part played by corrupt politics in making the situation described so vividly by Mr. Johnson possible. But the overwhelming implication is there. The insolent and ruthless power of Capone was the result of crime's alliance with politics, and unless that alliance can be and is destroyed the successful prosecution even of an archcriminal will have no lasting effect.

But the picture Mr. Johnson held up before the Nation should be enough to solidify the determination of the public and its reputable agencies to keep on attacking the appalling force which the huge profits of crime have made possible and sustain. We see Capone, a huge and poisonous spider, secure at the center of a widespreading web of corruption. Because of the bravery and tireless devotion of the district attorney and his aids and of the fearless rectitude of Judge Wilkerson, Capone has been reached. But the web must be destroyed.

First of all, the Senate now is confronted by the fundamental issue of Judge Wilkerson's promotion. That issue overshadows the other raised by individuals who would have the main issue ignored. But the public as well as the Senate now have before them the full significance of that main issue. Shall Judge Wilkerson, who struck the heaviest blow organized crime has yet received, be honored for his service or shall the power and prestige of organized crime be heartened by a refusal from the highest deliberative body in the land?

CAPONE CRIME SYSTEM.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Fourteen witnesses and defendants in one case against the Al Capone crime syndicate shot to death.

Two witnesses murdered in another Capone case.

A Capone spy system penetrated the most secret plans of the Federal district attorney's office in Chicago.

Witnesses intimidated in open court at Capone's trial; others beaten and threatened with death; others frightened so badly that they preferred prison for contempt or abetting to testifying against the "big chief."

These highlights of the noted Capone conviction, gleaned from a solid page of testimony of District Attorney Johnson during the Senate judiciary subcommittee hearing on the nomination of Judge James H. Wilkerson for the Circuit Court of Appeals, give an indication of some of the difficulties under which court and prosecutor labored in bringing this archcriminal to justice. Judge Wilkerson is the judge who ignored an agreement between the prosecutor and the gangster's attorney to send Capone to prison for two and one-half years and, after weighing the known facts and the recommendation, together with the criminal chief's boasting about "getting off easy," sent him to Fort Leavenworth for eleven years.

POST HASTE.

With regard to tax bills and other poisons, the Senate should remember that "if it were done when 'tis done, then 'twere well it were done quickly."

THE BEST ESTIMATE.

Many estimates of George Washington's character have been written, but perhaps none is more interesting than that of the historian George Bancroft, who summarized the great first President as follows: "His faculties were so well balanced and combined that his constitution, free from excess, was tempered evenly with all the elements of activity and his mind resembled a well-organized commonwealth; his passions, which had the intensest vigor, owned allegiance to reason; and with all the fiery quickness of his spirit, his impetuous and massive will was held in check by consummate judgment. He had in his composition a calm which gave him in moments of highest excitement the power of self-control and enabled him to excel in patience, even when he had most cause for disgust."

The Great Man in a Silk Hat Is Still a Cheat if He Cheats.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

It isn't too late to lock the door after the horse is stolen if there is reasonable hope of getting another horse.

Good times will come again. People will have money to invest. And again the simple and trusting will be fleeced by the unscrupulous unless the law does something to protect them.

If the first business of Government is to protect the governed, why are peddlers of worthless stock immune to prosecution?

Is a theft less a theft if the victim is given a sheet of worthless paper in exchange for his money?

Observe how "financing" is done when the simple have money to invest.

Two competing factories make all of the country's hats. They cut their own throats by cutting prices. Their machinery wears out and they have no money to replace it. They face bankruptcy.

Then they call on a financier. He won't lend them the money they need, but he will get it for them.

The financier forms a new company to take over both factories. The new company is capitalized at fifty million dollars. The factories, as they stand—including their established business and good will—are worth five million each.

What, then, becomes of the new company's stock? Each of the factory owners gets a fifth, par value ten million, and the remaining three-fifths is sold to simple investors for thirty million dollars. Ten million of this easy money is used to consolidate the two plants and buy new machinery, and the financier pockets the other twenty million as reward for his brilliance.

That scheme, with variations, is worked times without number. The stock is worthless because a business worth ten millions can't pay dividends on fifty million.

Why is the sale of worthless stock permitted? If a man prints money, he is jailed for counterfeiting. Yet he can print stock certificates and exchange them for money—literally transform ink and paper into cash—and thus fatten his purse at the expense of the gullible without violating a law.

If that isn't obtaining money under false pretense, what is it?

If a man who poses as a diamond merchant sells you glass beads at the price of diamonds, the law regards him as a swindler. Is he less a swindler if he poses as an honest man and takes your money for watered stock, knowing full well it never can pay dividends?

PRO AND CON

Patman's Folly.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

To meet the argument that the Government, with a huge deficit to meet and with Congress at its wits' end to find new sources of tax revenue, cannot possibly pay $2,000,000,000 to the veterans, Mr. Patman has devised an ingenious but wholly unsound plan. It is to issue what would actually be fiat currency in the needed sum, the currency to be backed by the sinking fund set up to pay off the certificates in 1945.

This is based upon the superstition, always prevalent in times of depression and appearing in a multitude of forms, that the Government can manufacture money on the printing presses. The superstition has been exploded hundreds of times, but it refuses to die. Many mistakes have been made by our Government, but the crowning folly would be to debauch the currency in the manner suggested by Mr. Patman. To issue money against a sinking fund which will not be filled for thirteen years is the same in principle as issuing money against potential future tax revenues, which may or may not materialize. Currency is not money unless it is backed by actual metal. That is so fundamental that its statement would call for apology, except that Mr. Patman's proposal flies in its face.

Untimely Baiting.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is, perhaps, unfortunate that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation left even a small loophole for Mr. Couzens' criticism by apparently acting with regard to the Missouri Pacific loan in advance of approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, although the law is not specific on this point and the answer may be that the corporation's action was predicated on the commission's subsequent review of its procedure. But this is no time for railroad-baiting, especially in Congress. If Congress had acted years ago to remove some of the disabilities under which the railroads suffer, they might not now be needing help from the Federal Treasury.

Senate Broadcasting.

Christian Science Monitor.

The first step in getting the Senate "on the air" should be the selection of an official radio announcer. A theme song, too, appears to be essential to a well-regulated program. Here is an opportunity for the offical announcer to offer a prize of a free season ticket in the Senate gallery for the best title to a Senate theme song, the title to consist of not more than ten words, which must be written on the back of the inside cover of a Senate calendar and mailed before a certain date "to the station to which you are listening." Such titles as "It's Log-Rolling Time in the Senate" and "Senate, Keep Away From My Doah," it is supposed, would be forbidden.

Taxation and Ruin.

Forbes Magazine.

The most serious evil besetting this Nation is neither prohibition nor crime; it is unbearable taxation. Taxation has ruined more than one nation, ancient and modern. Unless arrested, it will ruin our own Nation. Taxes have shamefully outrun national prosperity. Tax eaters have multiplied shockingly faster than tax payers. It is time you and I voiced a ringing protest against further squandering of our resources. We are being taxed to the point which gravely handicaps the rebuilding of prosperity.

Sense of Loyalty.

Atlanta Constitution.

Former Gov. Al Smith's resentment over the reports that he would withdraw from the primary being held today in Wisconsin, because it would "imply a disloyalty to my friends and supporters," indicates that his sense of loyalty seems to be stirring.

Not during his long public life has Mr. Smith ever been charged with political ingratitude—but his attitude toward Gov. Roosevelt during the past few months has been such as to threaten a challenge to this heretofore unblemished record—for if a man ever owed a debt of gratitude to another, Smith does to Roosevelt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Singer Analyzes Causes of Depression and Defends Administration.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the peak of prosperity passed over three years ago, the present administration has been blamed for every unsatisfactory economic and social situation. It has been held responsible for the decline in farm prices, unemployment, decline in stock market values and every other kindred maladjustment irrespective of the fact that the Government played a very insignificant part in creating these "out of gear" economic problems.

Within a period of six months before the market crash in the late fall of 1929, the Federal Reserve Bank raised its rediscount rate three times in order to curb speculation on the New York Stock Exchange by making it more difficult for banks to rediscount their customers' paper. Warnings to banks to curb loans that were obviously for stock market transactions went unheeded in the hysteria of a bull market that supposedly would continue forever. Business was booming, times were good and private business said to the Government, "We'll take care of our own affairs; we want no Government interference."

But conditions changed. Stocks held by many banks as collateral (even with 50% margins) could not be liquidated in time to eliminate loss when bank customers were unable to put up more margin. Loans made to overexpanded industries could not be paid. Bank failures became common throughout the country. Banking institutions "caught in the web" of their own plunging for profits then appealed to the Government for aid to save their depositors. The banks now insisted, "It is the duty of the Government to help us out of the difficulties brought about by our own greediness."

Failure of the credit institution of the country to properly exercise prudent extension of credit has brought about all the economic "ills" prevalent today—namely, unemployment, overproduction, lack of markets, decline of stock values and widespread dissatisfaction. The continuance of this situation over a three-year period is engendering intense criticism, not of the leading agencies responsible for bringing into existence the above mentioned "ills," but of the present Republican administration, which had no part in their creation. Undoubtedly only this general censure is unjustified.

The credit institutions are placing the responsibility for correction on the administration for the "muddled" situation they created, and at the same time are criticizing the Government for not remedying more quickly conditions caused by their own lack of foresight. HAROLD SINGER.

Trees Gift of League of Garden Clubs of Tacoma.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one of the Washington papers contained an article relative to the group of trees (native to the State of Washington) sent by the League of Garden Clubs of Tacoma, Wash., as a Bicentennial gift to the National Arboretum, I wish to ask if you would be so kind as to make a correction concerning that gift.

It is given by the League of Garden Clubs of Tacoma, and not by the League of Garden Clubs of the State of Washington (as none exists). This league is composed of the nine leading garden clubs of our city.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

PAID IN ADVANCE.

He never had a problem, and he never had a care—
He merely had to buy them when he needed shoes to wear.
He never had a mortgage, with the interest overdue,
So the common woes of most of us he never really knew.
He never had to sacrifice to buy his wife a hat—
The dad who lived before him had attended to all that.

He never had to worry, never had to scheme and plan,
To save a little money like the ordinary man.
Was the parlor carpet fading? He sent out and bought a new,
And never thought about it when the bill for it was due.
If the notion came upon him he could travel anywhere.
Since his dear old dad before him had already paid his fare.

He never had a doctor's bill he couldn't promptly pay.
He never had a duty rise to interfere with play.
He never suffered failure; never knew despair or doubt
Or the cares which common people have to think so much about,
By his dear old dad before him every needful thing was done,

SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover Gives Tea for Admiral and Mrs. Sims—Congressional Club Fetes Speaker and Mrs. Garner.

MRS. HOOVER HAD A small company at tea yesterday at the White House in compliment to Admiral and Mrs. William S. Sims, nee Hitchcock, who arrived yesterday morning to be guests at the White House for a few days. President and Mrs. Hoover and Admiral and Mrs. Sims went out to the reviewing stand on Constitution avenue in the afternoon to review the military parade held in commemoration of the entry of the United States into the World War. A few guests dined informally at the White House last evening.

Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Gann, sister of the Vice President, will head the guests of honor at the luncheon today of the Women's Republican League at the Willard.

The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills entertained at dinner last evening when the ranking guests were the Postmaster General and Mrs. Walter F. Brown. The other guests were the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino; Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, Senator and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour, Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Ferry Heath; the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. James H. Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Mott Gunther, the Secretary of the Hungarian Legation, Baron Paul Schell; Mrs. Guy Norman, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Brig. Gen. Charles McCawley, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Owen Coffin, Miss Marian Trumbull, Mr. Lyon and Miss Dorothy Fell, daughter of Mrs. Mills.

The Minister from the Irish Free State and Mrs. Michael MacWhite will entertain at dinner this evening when the ranking guests will be the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara. The dinner was originally planned in honor of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, but their departure from New York for Europe has necessitated the cancellation of several engagements.

The Egyptian Minister, Seaostris Sidarouss Pasha, entertained at luncheon yesterday for Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Moran. The other guests were members of the legation staff and the minister's son, Dr. Max Sidarouss.

Speaker and Mrs Garner Guests at Large Reception.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives and Mrs. Garner were the guests for whom the Congressional Club gave a large reception last evening in the clubhouse. The wives of the members of the Texas delegation in Congress were the particular hostesses of the evening. Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Morgan G. Sanders, Mrs. Daniel E. Garrett, Mrs. Joseph J. Mansfield, Mrs. James P. Buchanan, Mrs. Oliver H. Cross, Mrs. Fritz G. Lanham, Mrs. Robert E. Thomason and Mrs. Thomas L. Blanton were the hostesses of the evening. They were assisted by the daughters who are associate members from the Lone Star State, Miss Margaret B. Mansfield, Miss Mary A. Cross and Miss Anne Louise Blanton.

Mrs. Leonidas C. Dyer, wife of the representative from Missouri, who is president of the club, received the guests and presented each to the Speaker, who presented each to Mrs. Garner. Mrs. Dyer wore white embroidered crepe and Mrs. Garner black lace. The others of the receiving line were the members of the executive board of the club, Mrs. James V. McClintic, of Oklahoma; Mrs. Edward E. Kalick, of Tennessee; Mrs. Robert G. Simmons, of Nebraska; Mrs. Edwin S. Broussard, of Louisiana; Mrs. Charles Brand, of Ohio; Mrs. Frank Clague, of Minnesota; Mrs. John C. Schafer, of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Carl Edgar Mapes, of Michigan.

A buffet supper was served from a gayly decorated table in the assembly hall, where the guests were received. The Marine Band on the first floor played agreeable music throughout the evening. After the company had all assembled the dancing element enjoyed an hour or more of dancing. This was the third and last one of the official evening receptions of this interesting and important club, for this season.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua entertained a large company at dinner last evening at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Mrs. Barnes Married To Gen. Johnston.

The marriage of Mrs. Zella M. Barnes to Gen. John A. Johnston U. S. A., retired, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel of the Army War College, Washington Barracks.

The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Burling, of the War College, in the presence of relatives and close friends. The chapel had an artistic arrangement of spring flowers and potted plants, and there was a similar floral effect in the officers club of the post, where a reception followed for the guests at the wedding.

Mrs. Barnes was given in marriage by her son, Capt. Harry C. Barnes, jr., of West Point. She wore a gown of apricot silk lace, designed on graceful long lines, the sleeves trimmed with brown fur and her hat and slippers matched. She had a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and red roses.

Mrs. John M. Greist, of New Haven, Conn., aunt of Mrs. Barnes, was the matron of honor, wearing a black and white lace gown with accessories to correspond and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and violets. Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, commandant of the War College, was the best man.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Connor, Mrs. James B. Reynolds, Mrs. W. W. Spalding and Mrs. William Chamberlain. A huge wedding cake, made by Gen. Johnston's cook, formed the centerpiece of the tea table.

Gen. Johnston and his bride will be at home later at the Jefferson. Both have a host of friends in Washington, where Mrs. Johnston is director of roll call and public information of the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross. Gen. Johnston is a former District Commissioner.

Columbian Women to Give Annual Banquet Tomorrow.

With many of the guests in colonial costume, the early American note predominating in the decorations, and dances of the colonial days a feature of the program, the twenty-fourth annual banquet of Columbian Women of the George Washington University tomorrow evening at the Chevy Chase Club will be in the spirit of the Bicentennial celebration.

A group of official hostesses will be present as guests of honor, including Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General; Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho; Representative Florence P. Kahn, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Mrs. W. W. Husband, wife of the Second Assistant Secretary of Labor, will be the speakers of the evening. Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of the university, will be guest of honor from the university circle.

In the receiving line will be the guests of honor and speakers with the officers of Columbian Women, including Miss Harriet Garrels, who is acting in the absence of the president, Mrs. William J. Mallory; Mrs. W. Hayes Yeager, Miss Margaret Maize, Miss Mildred Getty, Mrs. Audley L. Smith and Miss Elizabeth Peet.

The reception committee, headed by Miss Margaret Moore, includes Miss Peet, Miss Elizabeth Cullen, Mrs. John Paul Earnest, Mrs. Edgar William Woolard, Mrs. Robert F. Griggs, Mrs. Oscar Benwood Hunter, Mrs. Joseph Hyram Roe, Mrs. Albert Barrows, Miss Bertha Frances Wolfe, Miss Anna Pearl Cooper, Miss Elizabeth Hummer, Miss Ruby Nevins, Miss Maxine Girts, Miss Rhode Watkins, Mrs. L. P. Willis, Miss Lillian Carpenter, and Miss Irene Pistorio.

At 7:30 o'clock guests will be conducted to the banquet hall by a group of university students serving as ushers. In the group are Mrs. Robert S. Lord and Miss Elizabeth Reeves, the chairman, assisted by Miss Cecile Harrington, Miss Clara Critchfield, Miss Marian Boyle, Miss Dorothy Tschiffely, Miss Ann Berger, Miss Mal Sykes, Miss Evelyn Eller, Miss Elizabeth Rees, Miss Ruth DeVane, Miss Leah McArthur, Miss Doris Troth, Miss Louise Bruce, Miss Marie Weaver and Mrs. James Berryman.

Miss Garrels will preside at the banquet, and Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., will serve as toastmistress.

The program will open with the singing of the invocation, conducted by Miss Emile Margaret White, with Miss Rhoda Watkins at the piano.

Following the banquet a dance program will be presented by Miss Marian Chace and Mr. Lester Shafer, with Mr. George Cornwell as accompanist. Speeches by Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Owen will follow.

Some 20 tables will be laid for the banquet, at each of which a hostess will preside. Additional table hostesses announced by Mrs. Howard Lincoln Hodgkins are Mrs. Edwin C. Brandenburg, Mrs. John R. Lapham, Mrs. Daniel C. Chace, Miss Ruth Bennett, and Miss Jessie LaSalle.

Miss Owen Martin, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, and Miss Emano L. Martin, of New York, both guests at the White House a few days ago, visited the Bicentennial historical loan exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art yesterday.

Other visitors from distant cities were Mrs. George H. Williams, wife of former Senator Williams, of St. Louis County, Mo.; Mrs. H. H. White, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Ernest Elmo Calkins, New York City; Lucetta Pitney Johnson, of New York City; Mrs. Harrich E. Bell, of Hicksville, Long Island; Mrs. Evan F. Wilson, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Martha Morris, also of Buffalo.

Mrs. Summerall to Give Tea for Mrs. W. H. Taft.

Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, wife of Gen. Summerall, former Chief of Staff, will entertain at a bridge party and tea tomorrow afternoon at the Citadel, in Charleston, S. C., in honor of Mrs. William Howard Taft. Gen. Summerall is president of Citadel College, the Charleston Military School. Mrs. Taft has been passing the winter in the Southern city and will remain there until next month.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua entertained at dinner last evening at the Army and Navy Country Club. They had 46 guests.

Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury with Mrs. Pillsbury and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Pillsbury, will return to Washington tomorrow from the South where they have been on a short trip.

Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe will not be at home this afternoon, but will receive the remaining Thursdays in April, after 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter Wyatt gave a bridge luncheon yesterday in her home on Columbia road in honor of Mrs. Lindley H. Hadley, wife of the representative from Bellingham, Wash., and their niece, Mrs. Clyde Hadley.

Mrs. Wilfred J. Stokes, widow of Maj. Stokes, U. S. A., accompanied by her daughter, Miss Eleanor Victoria Stokes, returned to Washington by plane, after spending the Easter holidays with Dr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Malaby in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Lincoln, the former the well known author, arrived in Washington yesterday and are at the Mayflower.

Former Representative Judge William B. Bowling and Mrs. Bowling, of Alabama, are spending a fortnight at the Hotel Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Bonson have arrived here from their home in Salisbury, Md., for a short stay at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs Perry Belmont To Open Home Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont have come to Washington from New York and are at the Mayflower for a short stay before opening their home on New Hampshire avenue for the spring.

Mrs. Hallie Jenkins entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, the company numbering ten.

Mrs. William Chapin Huntington is in New York for a short visit.

Capt. Joel T. Boone was among those who entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Allen, of 1332 Newton street northeast, will be the guest of honor at a large luncheon to be given tomorrow by Mrs. Patrick, wife of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, 3010 Albemarle street northwest. She was also guest of honor at a large luncheon given by Mrs. W. W. Gibson, of 2101 Connecticut avenue on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Heina, of Cleveland, Ohio, who are frequent visitors to this city, will arrive today with their family, to remain throughout the cherry blossom season. They will be at Wardman Park Hotel.

The Gray Ladies of the United States Naval Hospital Unit will give a tea tomorrow at 4 o'clock in honor of the new class of Gray Ladies and the nurses on duty at the Naval Hospital.

Admiral Tottenham to Wed; Formerly Attache Here.

An engagement that will be of interest to many Washingtonians is that of Rear Admiral S. Loftus Tottenham, of the British navy, to Mrs. Street, widow of Capt. H. Street, of the Twentieth Hussars, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Prescott.

Admiral Tottenham was stationed in Washington as Naval Attache of the British Embassy from 1922 to 1925, succeeding Capt. Sydney Bailey, and was one of the set of energetic British bachelors very much in evidence at that time. Admiral Tottenham recently has taken command of the Third cruiser squadron, in the Mediterranean. The marriage will take place today in Holy Trinity Church, Brompton, London, at 2 o'clock, English time.

Mr. William Semmes is at home from Brown University for the spring vacation and is with his mother, Mrs. Charles W. Semmes, at the Hotel Powhatan.

The following reservations have been made for the annual breakfast of the Political Study Club, to be held May 26 at the Mayflower:

GOOD APPEARANCE IS ESSENTIAL

—his personal appearance indicates, to a great extent, his regard for the fineness of detail that is so essentially characteristic of good physicians and surgeons.

Picture the best doctor you know—what an atmosphere of confidence and ability surrounds him—how every detail of his appearance seems to tell you his ability . . . his shirts, white or fancy, are scrupulously clean . . . his socks and shoes show the desire to "put his best foot forward" . . . his suit fits in an easily comfortable yet perfectly tailored manner.

He is a success, in appearance as well as in his profession.

Woodward & Lothrop apparel is for all men who are, or who want to be, successful.

Much of your professional success depends on making a favorable first impression

—the two-button sack suit is a model successful physicians favor especially . . . its restrained lines inspire confidence. $45. Other suits from $35 to $55. Made-to-Measure Suits, $50 upwards.

—because they look so fresh and clean, our high luster broadcloth shirts (in white and plain colors) appeal to many doctors. $4. Other shirts from $1.65 to $4.

—doctors choose London-tailored topcoats—of plain Scotch cheviots or Bannockburn weaves—because they are light, not bulky or burdensome, yet completely protective. $45. Other topcoats from $25 to $75.

—the Johnston & Murphy "Envoy" is a well-tailored oxford whose lines are molded to properly conform to the foot. $10.50 is a new low Johnston & Murphy price. Other shoes $6 to $14.

Shad Roe, Scalloped, Is Unusual.

TODAY (but for the morrow's repast, as always is our custom in this matter of planning) we shall deal with one of the season's greatest delicacies—shad roe. And in an unusual manner, since this is to be a scalloped dish of the roe rather than one which is fried, broiled or baked in the accepted fashion. And with it—what will be tasty? Baked potatoes, I'm thinking, and green beans "supreme," with cheese popovers just as an added attraction.

With such a menu, to be sure, no salad or dessert is necessary, unless possibly, some of us may wish for a light salad by way of completing and rounding out the dinner. In this case we suggest only lettuce, crisp and green, with French dressing and toasted crackers.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Cream of Tomato Soup
Scalloped Shad Roe
Baked Potatoes
String Beans Supreme
Cheese Popovers
Lettuce with French Dressing
Toasted Crackers
Coffee

Scalloped Shad Roe.

Parboil a 1 or 2 pound shad roe in salted, acidulated water, using three teaspoonfuls of vinegar or lemon juice to one quart of water, and simmer eight or ten minutes. Drain, cool, pick off the pieces of membrane and break up lightly with a fork. Sprinkle a layer of roe in a baking dish and add one-half the yolk of an egg which has been well beaten, dropping it over the roe. Then sprinkle with chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste and a few drops of lemon juice. Add a layer of medium white sauce. Repeat until all materials are used, having in all a cupful of white sauce. Cover with bread crumbs and small pieces of butter and bake until brown.

String Beans Supreme.

1 can string beans or equivalent in freshly cooked beans
1-3 cupful salad oil
1 tablespoonful of bacon, cut fine
1 teaspoonful butter
1 large onion, cut fine
Salt and pepper.

Put oil, bacon, onion and butter in a frying pan and cook until a light brown. Heat beans, drain and pour this mixture over them.

Cheese Popovers.

1 cupful flour
Pinch of salt
1 cupful milk
1 egg
¼ pound grated American cheese.

Beat the egg slightly; add to it the salt and milk, and beat until smooth while adding the flour. Beat with a rotary egg-beater until light and full of bubbles. Place in hot, greased gem pans a spoonful of the batter; cover with a teaspoonful of grated cheese and then with a second spoonful of batter. Bake in a very hot oven for twenty minutes or until browned. Serve at once with butter.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES McDONALD

WHO NEEDS THIS GIRL?

DEAR Frances McDonald: It seems to me that I am doomed to misfortune. All my life has been tempestuous, filled with disaster and trouble, one after the other.

First, my mother never wanted any children, and she had three. I am the youngest, not yet 25. She ran away when I was 7 years old, and I remember the entire incident clearly. My grandmother came to live with us and raised me. She was parlyzed two years later and was an invalid for ten years. My father had trouble with his farm and we were forced to sell it and move to the city, where he became a night watchman. The place was held up and he was implicated in the affair, and discharged, although I know he knew nothing about it. My brother was killed in an automobile accident a short time afterward and my sister left home and has never been located since. My grandmother said she was just like my mother (her daughter-in-law), and watched me carefully to see that I did not inherit the same streak. Unfortunately, I am afraid I did, because I fell in love with a fellow I worked with who promised to marry me. Of course he didn't. I was only 18 and I thought my life was ruined, but it wasn't. I went on and no one was the wiser, but I never forgave myself for that one affair. It has never happened since. I met another man who I thought was entirely different. He respected me, and I tried in every way to be all the good things he thought I was. When he suggested an affair instead of marriage I hated him. It was a shock because I had thought he really loved me. I told him just what I thought of him, and we broke up. This proved he never wanted me in the right way. I told him so, and he said I had old-fashioned ideas and needed more experience. I decided to be an old maid if men were like that. Since then my dad has died and I have lost my job. I have a little money, but it won't last long. There are no jobs here and I think it would be wise to get away from all this and try to get a job in another city. Would you advise me to do that? I have no one who cares what becomes of me, and I am miserably unhappy. The few friends I have had imposed upon me and they seem to have no sincerity. I am at a point that I can't really trust or depend on anyone. Yet I will try to keep on just the same. Would it be better to stick where I am and find something good in my friends, my own city and build back my faith here, or should I go somewhere else and start anew. I would surely appreciate your advice. It would mean so much to me, for I have no one else to turn to, as no one wants to hear troubles. Tell me frankly where I have failed to make the most of my life, and tell me why it has been such a mess and where should I go from here. NEARLY TWENTY-FIVE.

What makes you think you have made a mess of your life? How many girls under the same circumstances could make a better showing? You are a splendid young woman—and you will go far. But right now your spirit is hurt, as is your faith in people. And do you know what we would do to get over that? We would take a different sort of job entirely. We would find a family where there were plenty of children, and with or without pay we would join that family and let small hands smooth all our troubles away. If you can harbor a bitter thought while a 4-year-old tells you how beautiful you are, or begs for just one small story, or holds up a face to be kissed, you are harder to melt than we are! Truly the cure for disillusionment is childhood. The heart grows innocent and young under the ministrations of small loving hands. We speak from experience, and from a heart hurt as often and as grievously as yours. Try identifying yourself with a family circle where there will be no time or room for morbid introspection—however justified by previous circumstances. Some mother would bless the day she met you, and in a year you would be happy and strong-hearted again. Will you try it?

In any case, you are going to win because you are no weakling, but a thinking human, intelligently planning instead of giving up. Every good wish, and tell us all how you decide, for we will all we waiting to hear! Perhaps the very mother who needs you may be reading these lines. If she writes us all about herself we will be glad to forward her letter to "Nearly Twenty-five."

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:20 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:40 p. m.

Unsettled conditions are prophesied for April 7, and events and circumstances will give lie to most hopes and conjectures of the previous day. It will be a time of sowing and planting, rather than a time of harvest. A hectic time for young people.

The child born on this April 7 will have a passive and an impressionable nature, and will be greatly influenced by its surroundings and associates. It will love reading and the less strenuous games, but will not care for an overly active life. It will demand a great deal of love and affection, and will need considerable outside stimulation.

Born on April 7, you have neither a cheerful nor optimistic nature and are down in the mouth much of the time. You often live tied down, as you think, by circumstances which debar you going farther than your eyes can see. You are afraid to make any leap unless you know exactly where you are going to land, and even then you feel you must have a clear, running jump, unhampered by any outside opposition. You are overanxious to always do the right thing, and even after you have made a decision, handicap your actions by vague doubts and apprehension. Your postmortems should be done away with.

You give a tremendous attention to trifles, thus making your work laborious and your life altogether more difficult. You allow yourself to become upset by incidents unworthy of the importance you give them. You are not slipshod about your work, and are very proud about your personal appearance. You have a very good memory, especially for those things in which your feelings have been affected. You never forget a slight or injury.

If you be a woman, your house will never be neglected, although you may make yourself too busy to become a real companion to the rest of your family. You will look after the physical and material wants of your children, but will not be their playmate.

Successful people born April 7:

William Wordsworth, poet.
Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, 1903-1928.
Charles F. Zarnard, philanthropist.
Lewis Nixon, shipbuilder.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

IS FROZEN MILK SAFE?

IN the process of marketing it occasionally happens that milk is frozen. On a cold morning a housewife takes in a bottle of milk that has been at the back door long enough to freeze. A milk driver finds that his wares have frozen in his wagon. A dairyman, driving several miles to a creamery, arrives with some frozen milk in his cans. What harm has been done? The consumer is especially interested in the safety of the product. Shall she throw away bottles of frozen milk?

There is no evidence that frozen milk contains any poisonous substance developed by reason of freezing, or even that it is less wholesome than milk that has never been frozen. There is no reason for expecting any such substance to be produced by freezing, and the use of thawed milk has not shown that any harmful substance is present.

Since the digestive apparatus of a baby is very delicate, it has been suggested that babies should not be fed thawed milk. It is established that freezing changes the fats and proteins physically and chemically and, therefore, thawed milk could not be readily digested by a baby. If this suspicion is correct, it has not been proved to be so. Thawed milk is a wholesome food for babies so far as the evidence goes.

The mother who takes in a bottle of frozen milk should carefully strain it. Freezing often breaks the bottle and she must be on guard for fragments of glass. More frequently, freezing causes the milk to push off the cap and to fill the mouth with a plug of ice. Removal of the cap by this means, or any other, somewhat increases the possibility of contamination.

The conclusion that frozen milk is wholesome is fortified by the known facts about ice cream. In ice cream the milk is frozen and it is wholesome. A very tasty dish is milk and clean snow or shaved ice. That is wholesome. It is said that in parts of Europe it is customary to ship frozen milk. There are no reports of harm done those who consumed this product after it had been thawed.

Much of the information about frozen milk is due to appearance and odor of the thawed product. Freezing does not materially alter the fats physically and may change them slightly chemically. It does materially change the proteins chemically and physically. In consequence, thawed milk does not have a creamline and the appearance of the compound is different from that we are accustomed to.

If the thawing is done very slowly and the thawed milk is held at temperatures just above freezing these changes are less in evidence. Freezing and subsequent thawing accentuates any peculiar or unusual odors. If a milk having weed odors is frozen and thawed, the odors will be more readily recognized. These are objections to thawed milk, but they are esthetic and not related to wholesomeness or nutritional qualities.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

CUTE RIG.

This darling pinafore frock is a favorite with the tiny little French tots of prekindergarten age.

It is accompanied by bloomers that show good taste by peeping 'neath the dress.

The fitted bodice is the cutest ever. The bow-tied sash emphasizes the fact. The attached skirt displays soft gathering that gives a comfortable hem fulness.

An old-fashioned calico print in yellow with a dash of brown made the original. The collar and cuffs were of white linen finished with a blanket stitch in yellow thread.

Style No. 212 is designed in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

It's all so simple to fashion it!

And when it's so practical, why not have young daughter wear French clothes?

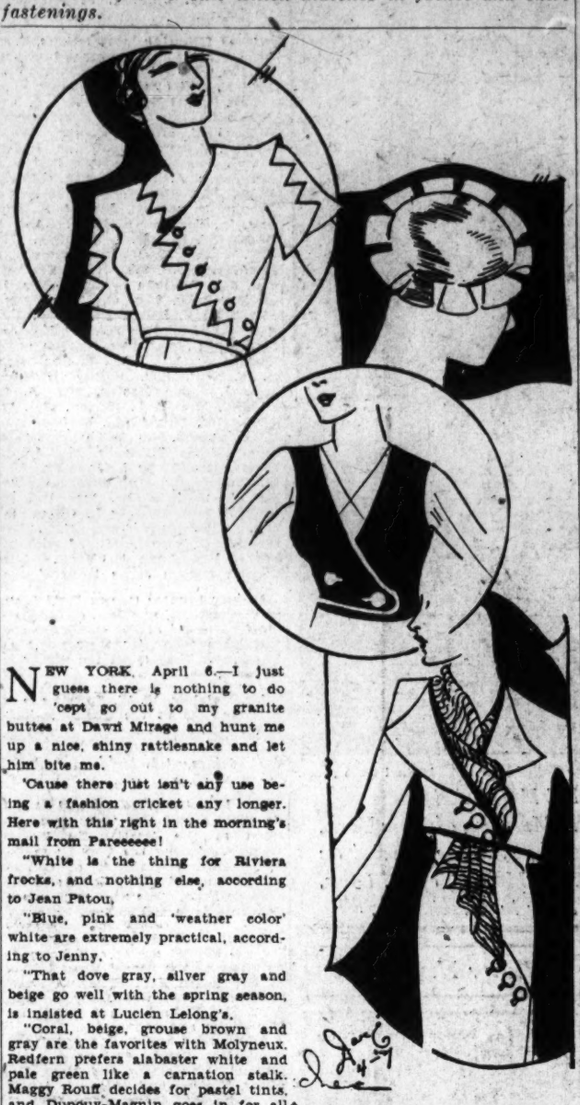
Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Chic details of today's mode: Sleeves and decolletage in points; beret with looped edge; peau d'ange orange vestee; twisted scarf on a suit which matches in jacket and skirt fastenings.



NEW YORK, April 6.—I just guess there is nothing to do 'cept go out to my granite buttes at Dawn Mirage and hunt me up a nice, shiny rattlesnake and let him bite me.

'Cause there just isn't any use being a fashion cricket any longer. Here with this right in the morning's mail from Pareeeeee!

"White is the thing for Riviera frocks, and nothing else, according to Jean Patou.

"Blue, pink and 'weather color' white are extremely practical, according to Jenny.

"That dove gray, silver gray and beige go well with the spring season, is insisted at Lucien Lelong's.

And mam'zelle further writes that the New York buyers are partial to every one of these colors in every one of these houses!

So you can see that there just isn't any use living, after that, nor trying to predict anything about summer colors, or anything. So—I'm going to take a lot of pastel dyes and just mix 'em all up together and throw all my summer clothes in, just for spite. Bet you don't know what color that would be! Well, just so our delightful editor won't foot that buzzahr and ask me when I am going to write today's fashun collom, I'll tell you that if all the dyes were transparent and medium tones, brown. If opaque and deep tones, gunmetal gray, or lighter gray, depending upon the amount of opaque white in the opaque colors. If opaque medium tones, beige.

Incidentally, all kinds and colors of light, fine and delicate tints are as suitable for the Riviera, or any summer resort where the daylight is strong. A few printed materials are sometimes seen in the summer collections, but the preference is undoubtedly for plain fabrics with ribs or diagonals.

• • • •

No, I ain't kidding my deah public atall, atall—fact is, I'm trying to help you not to be kidded by others. 'N' if you don't believe me, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a beautiful bedspread that looks like a heap of flowers. Make this out of silken scraps, if you wish, or out of remnants. Make one in white or blue or pink for a gift to a mother—or make it in white on a black foundation for your own boudoir, and feel as though your bed were covered with fragrant gardenias—make it in your spare finger time, a few flowers a day, until the counterpane is finished. And a bedspread that looks as though it stepped right out of a plate glass window is yours—no foolin'.

• • • •

If any one is still worrying about the past becoming the future, or even the today, look at the chic and entirely modern details of today's mode I have sketched for you! Just details, things that make the mode of today the simple and elegant and delightful thing it is. I thought you might like 'em.

• • • •

Skirts are undeniably straighter. Straightened out and of course made full enough for walking and sitting, usually with pleats. Remember this when making or making over last summer's frocks • • • even circular flounces and flares can be pleated down successfully, without removing them. Usually it is best to sew the edge of the pleat down like a little tuck, then iron the rest of the way and let it hang, and open when you walk.

Au revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

April Showers Have a Beautifying Effect on Skin.

APRIL showers bring May flowers to Mother Nature, and loveliness to Milady's skin. English women appreciate the beautifying influence of light showers and rain water. The moist atmosphere of London is credited with being largely responsible for the proverbial beauty of the English woman's complexion.

Elsie Pierce.

The American woman is slowly learning this beauty secret. She has been taught that the dry atmosphere of artificially heated homes is bad, very bad for complexion and for nose and throat and breathing in general. She has been urged to keep the interior of her home moist with plant life and a kettle of water on the radiator of every room. She therefore welcomes the moist month of the year.

Our healthy, athletic type loves the great outdoors and has learned to walk briskly and fearlessly in all weather. That's a splendid health lesson; one which every mother should teach her young children. Instead of allowing them to huddle near the fire in the winter, shoo them outdoors, properly clothed, of course. Let them learn to love the fresh air whether the sun shines or not. Many of us regard the slightest drizzle as a good excuse for going to the movies, staying in bed a little later than usual, or cuddling up on a chair (in positions that are not at all conducive to good posture) to read or listen to the radio. I have no objection to movies, reading or radio, but these should have their own time, regardless of weather.

A light drizzle can't hurt your system, generally, and it can help your complexion* remarkably. Don your raincoat and rubbers or rain shoes. Wear suitable clothes, heavy enough to serve as protection against cold, windy weather and sturdy enough to protect against the rain and walk outdoors. Of course, I am not advocating that you should hike or go mountain climbing during a heavy snowstorm, rain, blizzard, etc. Far from it. If you are caught in a heavy rain, try to change your soaking coat and shoes and stockings just as quickly as possible. But remember that a light rain will never hurt you, providing you are in good health. If a cold follows a short walk in a light rain, don't blame it on the weather but rather on your own resistance, which is very likely run down because of winter's indoor heat.

When it really rains, in torrents, "cats and dogs" as we said when we were young, gather some of the rain water in pail or pan and use it for face or hair. Do this especially if the water in your locality is "hard." Rain water is soft and leaves the hair and skin smooth and lovely because it cuts the soap. After a good rinsing with rain water following the shampoo you won't find and soap curd sticking to your hair.

Elsie Pierce

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE TIME FOR PSYCHICS.

"The time to make a psychic Opening bid is when your partner has all the face cards," writes Mr. Ben Wand, Editor and Publisher of the Southern Lumber Journal of Jacksonville, Fla., in recounting a happy experience which followed his venture into the realm of superpsychics.

The principle laid down by Mr. Wand is extremely sound, but the means of learning when a partner, who has not yet spoken, has all the face cards he did not point out in submitting the hand shown below:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North and South—40.
East and West—60.

Mr. Wand.
The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡(1)	Pass	5♡(2)	Dbl.(3)
6♣(4)	Pass	Pass(5)	Pass

1—A dangerous venture into the field of superpsychics. The hand contains only slightly more than 1½ tricks, and the suit chosen for the psychic foray outranks any possible escape.

2—The element of surprise for partner is obvious. His response of only five, with his tremendous hand, is remarkable.

3—A very unwise Double. East should have suspected there was something unusual in the State of Florida.

4—South rescues himself and mentally foreswears psychic bids, when vulnerable at least.

5—North's pass is probably based upon the expectation that East will double the club contract, as he has already doubled hearts. With 5½ honor-tricks and an apparent fit in two suits, if South's bid is sound, it certainly must include the Ace of spades. A bid of seven, assuming the bidding to be regular, would not be a bad gamble.

In recounting the hand, Mr. Wand writes:

"Imagine my consternation when North jumped to five hearts, which East quickly doubled. Part of the reason for my psychic bid was for the benefit of my wife, who had chosen that moment to perch on a stool and do a little kibitzing over my right shoulder. I thought it might be a good thing to let her see how opponents could be misled by a little daring bidding, even if vulnerable."

South's escape of six clubs went undoubled.

West led the fourth best spade and Mr. Wand made all the tricks.

In submitting this hand, Mr. Wand asked the following question:

"Had I passed, as I should have done, what would have been the proper bidding?"

The answer to this is that the proper bidding of the hand would have been:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♡(1)	Pass
2♣	Pass	5♣(2)	Pass
6♣(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Although North's hand contains 5½ honor-tricks, the distribution is unfavorable for an opening forcing bid and the score prevents a bid of two from being forcing. With the condition of the score, North knows that South will respond to his bid of one, if the hand contains any kind of prospect of completing the game and rubber.

2—North's hand, in support of a club bid, is very strong. However, it is not strong enough to bid for a slam. Apparently, an honor-trick in spades must be in the South hand to justify a response. In any event, North feels that the contract of five should be reasonably safe, and if partner has either additional distribution or honor values he will bid six.

3—South's six-card trump suit and the Ace of spades justify the acceptance of his partner's strong invitation to bid the slam.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Psychic bids are generally losing bids. The successful outcome recounted in the hand shown today was the result of partner holding the predominant honor strength.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me what to do with my coleus. It was beautiful in the early fall, but now the stems are turning brown and the leaves are becoming transparent and falling off. I water it every day and it is in a southern window.

MRS. A. I. A.

It is the warm, dry air of the house that is responsible for the condition you describe. Try placing the plant in a place where air is fresh at all times. Then keep the surface soil in the pot quite loose and spray the tops with cold water to rid them of any mealy bugs. The coleus is not an especially desirable plant for house use. It is really a summer bedding plant.

Can you tell me what to do with a red berry-bearing plant which I received at Christmastime? The leaves have almost all dropped off. I have kept the plant on a southern windowsill, so it might have been frosted.

MISS M. B.

It is the warm, dry air of the house that has caused the leaves to fall from your Jerusalem cherry tree. This plant requires a cool, sunny location and water every day. I should advise cutting the plant back at this time. This may cause the roots to send up new shoots. As this variety is easily raised from cuttings or seed, you can easily start a young plant.

I have a coldframe which I want to fill with sweet-scented English violets. Where can I purchase seeds for the venture? MARY E. H.

English violets may be grown in a coldframe during the winter. They will bloom on sunny days. In extremely cold weather you will have to cover the frame with wooden shutters or old carpet. If your frame is against the side of the house where you could pipe heat into it from your basement, you would be able to have more flowers with less effort. However, 15 years ago, when violets were so popular, they were all grown in unheated frames. As a rule, these plants are not raised from seeds, but from cuttings which are obtained from a commercial grower. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name and address of a firm listing violet seed.

I have a large pandanus plant which has suddenly turned yellow on the tips of the leaves. Is this condition due to lack of water or gas? I water the plant only once a week.

HELEN C. H.

Either cause you mention may be responsible for the condition of the plant. However, in your case it is likely a case of lack of moisture about the roots. Better begin to water the plant every other day. Remove the dry ends of the leaves at once.

Do foxgloves do well in sun? I have only a sunny place for them, though I will be able to give them any amount of moisture. My neighbor tells me that they demand shade. So far the seedlings are doing well on my kitchen window sill. TAFFY.

Foxgloves grow very well in half-shaded locations, but will also do very well in full sunlight if the ground is moist.

My dogwood tree has been attacked by oyster-shell scale. Do you know of a remedy or must I lose the tree?

ELSIE R. R.

If you spray the tree at once with heavy-bodied petroleum oil, one quart to five gallons of water, you will soon rid the tree of disease. It would, however, have been better to apply the oil a little earlier in the season.

REAL FUN PROVIDED IN RECORDS CONTEST

Participants Are Urged to Be Prepared in Advance; $700 in Prizes.

Men and women, boys and girls, duets and quartets by the hundreds, are finding a barrel of fun in the pastime of making phonograph records at the various recording stations established throughout the city by The Washington Post, in cooperation with the RCA-Victor Co.

Everyone has frequently wondered just how his voice sounded to others, and here is a real opportunity to find out. Just step into one of the recording stations listed below, and, under the guidance of an expert, you will be permitted to make a recording of your speaking or singing voice or of your favorite musical instrument. Immediately thereafter the record will be played to you, and, after it has been submitted to a committee of judges for rating, it will be mailed to you to keep.

More than 50 prizes, valued at $700, will be distributed to those whose records show the best character of registry. There is positively no obligation of any kind involved, and children are also invited to participate. When applying for records, however, children must naturally be accompanied by a parent.

Prepare in Advance.

It is a good plan to have what you wish to say, or do, prepared in advance, as few people are able to fill a record extemporaneously. It is also important to remember that the new "home recording" RCA-Victor radio combinations have two speeds; one for the old type records and one for the newer long-playing records. If you have a new type phonograph you will want your recording made at the slow turntable speed, or vice versa, in order to use it on your own machine.

The contest will continue for three weeks, ending at 6 p. m., Saturday, April 23. Recording stations are open during the regular store hours of the establishments where they are located.

Duplicate prizes will be awarded in event of ties, and every person will compete in his own classification—whether amateur or professional. The decisions of the judges will be final and the winners in each class will be selected according to the quality of registry, whether it be of a vocal, singing or instrumental nature.

List of Stations.

Don't fail to share this great experience of hearing your own voice or playing reproduced with the full life-like tones of the newest RCA-Victor "home recording" radio combinations.

Free auditions on the "home recording" records will be given daily at the following stations:

Ralig's, 1352 H street northeast.
S. Kann's Sons, Eighth street and Market place northwest.
Mayer & Co., 419 Seventh street northwest.
E. F. Droop & Sons, 1300 G street northwest.
F. O. Sexton Co., 647 H street northeast.
Arthur Jordan Piano Co. Thirteenth and G streets northwest.
Julius Lansburgh Furniture Co., 909 F street northwest.
F. S. Harris Co., 2900 Fourteenth street northwest.
Homer L. Kitt Co., 1330 G street northwest.
House & Herman, Seventh and I streets northwest.
Lansburgh Furniture Co., Seventh and D streets northwest.
Hugo Worch, 1110 G street northwest.
Louis & Co., 713 Seventh street northwest.
Star Radio Co., 409 Eleventh street northwest.

"DO I SOUND LIKE THAT?"

William "Bill" Halslip, announcer of the Variety Hour program over radio station WJSV, finds it as difficult as most other people to recognize the sound of his own voice, even though all other listeners pronounce it true-to-life. This photograph was made at The Post recording station of Louis & Co., 713 Seventh street northwest.

Driver Thought Policeman A Bandit; Charge Dropped

Speeding Count Against Woman Dismissed in Hyattsville, But She Is Held for Reckless Driving and Failing to Keep to Right.

Charges of speeding made against Mrs. Bertha Shields were dismissed in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday after she testified that she mistook a policeman for a bandit who had attempted to rob her a few minutes earlier. She was fined $5 for reckless driving and $5 for failing to keep to the right, however.

Mrs. Shields said a man had stopped her car near the University of Maryland and demanded her rings. She stepped on the gas and ran away from him, she said. Near Beltsville, she was stopped by Constable Guy Robey, and another man appeared who looked like the bandit, she testified. She then ran away from Robey, but was finally stopped near Savage by State Policeman J. T. Knight. The car swerved from side to side while she was attempting to take off her rings and hide them in her shoes, she said.

Five men were convicted of possession of liquor at yesterday's court session, and a man convicted of driving while drunk was sentenced to the House of Correction for a year. This man is Henry Russell, whose car is said to have struck a parked machine containing a baby. He was also fined $5 for failing to keep to the right.

Paul M. Ward, of 400 Delafield place northwest, was fined $50 for possession of about twelve gallons of alleged whisky found in his automobile at Berwyn. He pleaded guilty, as did Esther E. White, of 638½ Morton place northeast. White was fined $50 for three cases, and $1 for exceeding 25 miles per hour. Both were arrested by County Policeman Ralph Brown.

Another of Brown's cases was that against Leon Harris, of 912 S street northwest, who was fined $150 for possession of five cases of liquor. Harris also was fined $1 for speeding. Joseph Hess, arrested at his Beltsville home by Policeman Claude Reese on liquor charges, was fined $50, but appealed the sentence. The fifth man was Arthur Hunter, of 318 Ninth street southeast, fined $50 for possession and $1 for speeding. He was arrested near Silver Hill by Policeman William E. Clifton. His wife, Mrs. Ida B. Hunter, was also charged with possession when he was arrested, but this case was dismissed when Hunter admitted owning the liquor.

The case against Charles Burke, charging him with violation of the State "blue laws" and violating the county roadhouse law, was postponed until next Wednesday. Burke, said to be proprietor of the Chillum Manor Club, which was raided last Sunday morning, is free on bond. The "blue laws" warrant charges that Burke "did operate for profit a certain club known as Chillum Manor, where public dancing was permitted on the Lord's Day (Sunday)."

Judge J. Chew Sheriff recessed court from 2 o'clock until 3 in tribute to Summerfield D. Hall, former clerk of the circuit court, whose funeral was held at 2:30.

Robbery in South Laid To Marlboro Prisoner

John R. Jones, who has been held in the Marlboro Jail for four days while the police tried to connect him with several crimes in this vicinity, is wanted in North Carolina for highway robbery, county police announced yesterday.

Authorities in Winston-Salem wired yesterday asking that Jones be held while they prepare extradition papers. He is said to be wanted there in connection with the robbery of $286. After being arrested near Marlboro Sunday, Jones was visited by Alexandria police, who thought he might be "Kid" Lilly, wanted for the murder of a policeman there. His possible connection with the Ilsley slaying in Middleburg, Va., and with the shooting of a colored woman here were also probed, but without result.

Arlington Women Form Democratic Auxiliary

Tentative plans for the organization of a woman's auxiliary of the Arlington County Democratic Club were made at a meeting held in Moose Hall, Clarendon, last night. Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, of Ballston, was elected temporary chairman and Miss Marian Magruder, of Clarendon, temporary secretary.

The meeting was opened by Robert N. Anderson, president of the club. William L. Bragg, county Democratic chairman, stressed the need for a strong woman's organization in the county. At a meeting Saturday evening in the offices of the Clarendon Realty Co., Wilson boulevard, permanent officers will be elected.

Fleet of 10 New Buses Reaches Lacey Station

The fleet of ten new buses recently ordered by the Arlington-Fairfax Transportation Co. arrived at the company's car barn at Lacey station last night.

The buses will be put into operation next Monday morning. The route will be as follows: From Lacey Station along the Glebe road to Harrison road, to Clarendon, thence over Washington avenue to Hatfield, along the Military road across the Highway Bridge, thence along Fourteenth street, Washington, to Little B street, to Tenth street, where the terminal will be located.

BRANDENBURG HELD TO BE SELF-SLAIN

Certificate Is Issued in Case of Damascus Man Found Dead From Bullet.

Certificate of death by suicide was issued last night in the death of W. Bromwell Brandenburg, 64 years old, of Damascus, Md., who was found dead in bed at his lonely home yesterday morning with a pistol bullet wound in his heart.

The body was found by a nephew, Tilghman Brandenburg, who went to the house yesterday to visit the uncle, who has lived alone for the last 12 years. He called Dr. G. M. Boyer, who pronounced the man dead, and Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley.

Dr. Boyer said that the man apparently had been dead since Monday. The doctor also was satisfied that the man had committed suicide.

Mr. Brandenburg is survived by the following children: Dewey Brandenburg, of Baltimore; Alton Brandenburg and Mrs. Lelia Justice, of Lisbon; Mrs. Urner Morgan, of Woodbine; Mrs. Charles Layton, of Florence, and Claude Brandenburg, of Damascus.

THERE ARE TWO GAS PLANTS IN WASHINGTON

HOME?

Did you ever stop to realize that gas is the only fuel there is? Wood, coal, paper, oil--these do not burn. They must be converted into gas; that is what burns; the rest is waste.

Now, you and your family are in the business of home-making, not manufacturing. You realize that it's neither economical nor convenient to maintain a meat-packing plant in your basement, or a tailoring shop, or a private flour mill.

Why, then, maintain a gas plant? That's our job. We give you that part of the fuel which you want—the actual heat units--and we dispose for you all of the waste.

Running a gas plant is nobody's picnic. Since we do it anyway, why do you bother? Shift the burden to us.

TARDIEU'S KEYNOTE BACKS DEBT POLICY

Premier Opens French Election Indorsing Government on All Present Issues.

Paris, April 6 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu opened the French election campaign tonight with a speech in which he defended the government's policies, foreign and domestic.

French claims that the question of paying war debts is linked with the problem of collecting reparations were repeated by the premier, who spoke particularly of the French attitude toward Germany. This, he described as one of firmness and conciliation.

The premier appealed to the electorate to support the government at the polls on May 1, when they vote for members of the Chamber of Deputies.

Premier Tardieu's keynote speech was delivered before an audience of 2,000 prominent politicians in Bullier Hall.

France has shown eagerness for a peaceful settlement of international conflicts, he said, citing the acceptance of the Kellogg-Briand antiwar pact and the proposals made by France at Geneva for disarmament.

Financially, he said, France was strong because of the strict measures taken by Raymond Poincare former premier and finance minister, after the crisis of 1926 to place France's finances on a sound basis.

The Premier described the franc as the most stable currency in the world. He said that 47,000,000,000 francs (about $1,880,000,000) worth of gold had come into France in the last four years. This, he said, could be explained by the giving up of holdings in foreign countries, the enrichment of France and confidence in the franc.

Public Symposium On Zionism Tonight

Development of Palestine Rehabilitation Will Be Traced.

A public symposium on the Zionist movement will be held tonight at the Jewish Community Center, with three prominent advocates of the Jewish Homeland movement leading the discussion.

The early development of Palestine rehabilitation, from the founding of the first colonies 50 years ago up until the World War, will be traced by Dr. Carl Goldenberg. Ben Zion Emanuel, of the Jewish Education Association, will discuss recent developments in the Holy Land.

The Rev. Louis Novick, cantor of the Sixth Street Synagogue, will take up the religious phases of the Zionist movement, discussing the work of the Mizrachi organization in establishing schools in the Holy Land.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

SINCE yesterday's paragraph or two was written in the late afternoon, before I had had an opportunity to meet him that night, you may be interested to know that Charlie Murray, the celebrated Celt of both stage and screen, who, with Mrs. Murray, dropped off in town for a 24-hour visit with Maxine Doyle, mistress of ceremonies at the Earle, is about as you find him up there on that silver sheet—a genial, humorous, kindly gentleman, with a perpetual twinkle in his eye and a wisecrack or funny story ever at the tip of his tongue.

Perhaps he bulks a little more generously than you would expect, but otherwise he doesn't change much in an off-stage close-up. My impression is of a man about 6 feet tall and tipping the beam dangerously close to 200 pounds one way or the other. He is, incidentally, a fellow Hoosier—along with "Bob" Heini, Joe Cook, and a few others scattered around—having been born in Laurel, Ind. 60 years ago, come June 22.

The droll Mr. Murray admitted, when cornered, that this was the first time he has been in the National Capital since he played here last, more than 30 years ago, as half of the team of Murray & Mack, a famous comedy partnership that endured for 21 years.

If you were to tap Charlie Murray, I imagine you would find his veins filled with grease paint and calcium lights! He is a showman with the theater irrevocably and ineradicably in his blood. That was demonstrated to my complete satisfaction while we stood just offstage "in one" and watched Fay Adler being tossed around like a medicine ball by her male associates in the adagio number that closes her dance act and the vaudeville portion of the program. You would have thought that Charlie had never been backstage before, his enthusiasm over Miss Adler's ability to "take it" being very sophomore indeed!

A grand old trouper, Charlie—and everyone who knows him loves him.

And he was right about Fay Adler. How she ever survives four shows a day is something we shall never know, but she not only has survived about a decade of this hazardous sort of business, but seems to be having a swell time while it is going on.

Night before last, she was laughing aloud most of the time she was being twisted, twirled, slammed and slung about by the boy friends, and once, when she had been hurled practically into our faces, plastered there against the wall by those border lights, she exclaimed in high glee, "Boy, can I take it!"

If one of the boy friends ever loses his grip, or one of her feet pulls off, or anything, it's going to be just too bad. If she's pointed right at the time, she'll land somewhere up in the mezzanine! If anywhere.

Mr. Robert Chisholm—pronounced Chizzum, in case you hadn't heard—having been indisposed Tuesday night, by the way, the No. 3 spot on the bill was occupied by Miss Mary Morley, his accompanist, alone in a brief piano recital, in the course of which she rendered a rhythmic and altogether delightful tango of her own composition.

One of the largest and most brilliant splotches of color in yesterday's Army Day parade was the Fox Theater's Free Military Band, under the direction of Capt. J. B. McKenzie. This organization, with a total membership of 175 boys and girls, ranging in ages from 7 to 17, or thereabouts, did itself high credit.

There was one little codger, playing a reed, though, that caused me to watch with momentary terror, from The Post's fifth-floor windows, lest he slip through that slot between the street car tracks. He was that tiny.

It might be well to bear in mind while poring over the date book, that the Monday night you regularly devote to the National Theater will be free next week.

"The Devil Passes," Arch Selwyn's production of one of Benn W. Levy's most discussed—and most successful, as far as that's concerned—dramas, will not inaugurate its local engagement in the National Theater until Tuesday evening.

In the cast are such stage notables as Basil Rathbone, Mary Nash, Diana Wynyard, Cecilia Loftus, Robert Loraine and Arthur Byron. This will be the final offering on E street prior to the opening of the eighth "little season" of spring and summer stock by the National Theater Players.

The Gayety next week will regale the faithful with what is proclaimed one of the liveliest offerings of the season, "Hot-Cha Girls," with Hazel Miller starred. The comedy set-up is a Lou-Lou—Lou Devine and Lou Powers.

Next Tuesday evening, April 12, in the Central High School Auditorium, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, John Erskine, whose talents are extremely versatile, will speak on "Music in Our Daily Lives," under the auspices of the Community Institute of Washington. Mr. Erskine, as you must know, is a regular contributor to the "books" section of The Sunday Post.

The new crop of spring attractions in the cathedrals of the cinema next week, with the inauguration of a new policy at the Rialto, will be practically as follows: Rialto, Rose Hobart, Charles Bickford and Pat O'Brien in "Scandal for Sale," and Lilyan Tashman, in person, on the stage in conjunction with an elaborate fashion show and Herb Gordon's Whispering Orchestra from Wardman Park; Columbia, Neil Hamilton, Dorothy Jordan, Lewis S. Stone, Myrna Loy, Walter Huston and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante in "The Wet Parade;" Earle, Barbara Stanwyck, in "Shopworn," and Moran and Mack, the "two black crows," headlining the vaudeville; Fox, Warner Baxter in "Amateur Daddy" and Fanchon & Marco's "Gay Vienna" Idea, with Phil Lampkin; Palace, Fredric March and Kay Francis in "Strangers in Love," and Loew's "Forward March" revue; RKO-Keith's, "Bill" Boyd and Ginger Rogers in "Carnival Boat," and Charley Chase, in person, headlining the six-act vaudeville bill; Metropolitan, Dorothy Mackaill in "Love Affair."

On Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock, a single presentation of "Rubacuori," meaning—so I am told—"The Heart-breaker," will be offered at the National Theater.

This is an Italian all-talking comedy, with songs and musical score, produced by Cines Pittaluga, of Rome, with Armondo Falconi, Italy's most famous comedian, starred. The program also will include a specially selected group of subsidiary features.

And I stand ready to lay as high as 9 to 7 that if you were to call even the most gorgeous creature in the world a "rubacuori," she'd knock your block off and look it up afterward!

John Erskine Urges Americanized Opera

Cleveland, April 6 (A.P.).—The man who brought "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" to Main street, John Erskine, today joined prominent musicians in advising America to hoist her own musical sails.

Author of best selling novels on characters of the classics, former professor and musician, Erskine spoke before the music supervisors national conference here, recommending a "little healthy Americanism" in place of all German or Italian opera as a cure for the "economic indigestion" of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Blaze in District Building Cellar.

Mild excitement reigned in the District Building for a short while early yesterday, when a fire broke out in the basement among some rags and waste. The blaze, which was beneath the fire department headquarters, was quickly extinguished.

NATS LOSE SLUGFEST TO KNOXVILLE CLUB, 12 TO 9

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Knoxville, Tenn., April 6.

THE trip from Biloxi completed by easy stages, the Nats will perform for home consumption beginning tomorrow, and Capital fans will be able to view at close range Walter Johnson's offering in the 1932 pennant race.

Although this column has gone on record with the observation that Washington boasts its best ball club, on paper, since 1925, I am not forgetting that the regular games will be played on grass, and that there is many a slip 'twixt the pad and pencil and the close-cropped growth on the Griffith Stadium terrain.

The Nats are holding a strong hand, however, with the start of the pennant race only five days distant, and even with a potentially perilous weakness in the pitching staff, they appear vastly better fortified to carry the fight to the Athletics and Yankees than in any of the previous half-dozen seasons.

The respective improvement of the Yankees and Athletics will hold, in a great measure, the fate of the Nats. Washington has lost no ground in the attempts of the three contenders to bolster their clubs, and, to this column, it appears that the Nats have taken the best stride forward.

As yet the Athletics have effected no change in the line-up that was good enough to win the pennant last season by sixteen games. The addition of one rookie pitcher, one rookie outfielder and one rookie first baseman appears to be the extent of their bolstering. Of these, only Oscar Roettger, a first baseman, who has had six previous trials in the leagues, may find a place in the regular line-up.

The Yankee efforts to bolster the team that beat out the Nats by two games and a half last year have been crystallized in the acquisition of a rookie second-base combination, Frank Crossetti at shortstop and Joe Saltzgaver at second base. Other than these two, McCarthy will enter the race with the identical line-up of 1931, with Babe Ruth a year older.

The Yankees had phenomenal success with their previous importation of a second-base combination in 1925, when Tony Lazzeri and Mark Koenig, also from the Coast, collaborated in making an infield that helped win pennants in 1926, 1927 and 1928, but Crossetti and Saltzgaver still must be booked as an experiment.

Against these attempts of the Yankees and Athletics to present a better front, the Nats can show superior results. They are embodied chiefly in the acquisition of Carl Reynolds and Monte Weaver, the improvement of Buddy Myer as a second baseman, the apparent return to form of Heinie Manush, and the excellent condition of Alvin Crowder and Fred Marberry as compared to their uselessness in the early weeks of last season.

Never in the history of a Washington Club has a hitter of Reynolds' ability occupied the vital spot in fifth place in the batting order. Too often opposing pitchers have been able to walk intentionally the Nats' clean-up man to pitch to the man in fifth place, but none this season will be passing Joe Cronin intentionally to get at Reynolds.

Washington lost in Sam Jones and Irving Hadley two pitchers who won as well as lost 20 games, but their departure may be more than offset by the acquisition of Monte Weaver, International League ace of last season, whom Walter Johnson is confident will show the same 20 victories in the win column of the Nats without the drawback of those 20 defeats.

In the matter of pitching, Washington's staff is potentially brilliant, potentially a flop. Should Alvin Crowder and Fred Marberry justify the hopes they have engendered by their early season form and Weaver redeem Manager Johnson's confidence, the Nats will have little to fear from their pitchers. Lloyd Brown, Carl Fischer and

Poison Hinted In Death of Phar Lap

Owner Accepts Colic as Cause of Passing Despite Rumors.

Wonder Horse to Be Mounted, Shipped Across Seas.

MENLO PARK, Calif., April 6 (A.P.).—Phar Lap, monarch of the Australian turf in his lifetime, is to be sent home to perpetuate the memory of one of the greatest thoroughbreds ever reared under the Southern Cross.

The great red gelding, whose untimely death here yesterday stunned the racing world, is to be mounted in this country. A San Francisco taxidermist started on the work today.

Although colic has been generally accepted as the cause of Phar Lap's death, rumors flew thick and fast today. In some quarters it was hinted the horse had died from poisoning placed in his feed bag.

Newspapermen were told today by David J. Davis, the owner of the horse, valued at $500,000, that he definitely had accepted the first findings of veterinarians.

Dampened Barley Blamed.

Dr. William Nielsen, who accompanied Phar Lap from Australia, attributed death to old-fashioned colic, probably induced by eating green feed or dampened barley in a field adjacent to the stable. Ed Perry, owner of the private stables that quartered the horse, said Owner Davis had decided upon a chemical analysis of the stomach contents to discover if the veterinarian's diagnosis was correct.

Two governments, New Zealand and Australia, were said to have requested that Phar Lap's remains be shipped there. The famed horse was foaled in New Zealand and ran most of his races in Australia. Davis has made no decision in the matter. The mounting work will be done in about a month.

Death of the "Red Terror of the Antipodes" cut short a remarkable career and upset elaborate plans for an invasion of the big tracks of this country.

Near Sun Beau in Earnings.

Phar Lap signalized his arrival on this Continent with a smashing victory in the Agua Caliente, Mexico, handicap, March 20. It added $50,050 to his winnings and brought his total earnings to $332,750, within striking distance of the world's record of $376,744 piled up by the American thoroughbred, Sun Beau.

Owners of Phar Lap had planned to run their mount at Arlington Park, Chicago, this summer, and plans already were under way for races that would bring him together with the crack American horses, Twenty Grand and Mate.

Middle States Canoe Regatta Here Aug. 27

Francis L. Fahy last night was re-elected president of the Potomac Boat Club for his fourth consecutive term as the club held its sixty-third annual meeting. Lewis P. Allwine, Ernest P. Schneider and Ernest L. Miller were renamed vice president, treasurer and secretary, respectively. Fahy, Allwine and Edwin C. Warren were elected on the board of governors for three-year terms, while Miller was chosen for one year.

Plans for an active aquatic campaign were discussed and approved. The highlight of the club's season will be the championship event of the Middle States Canoe Racing Association, to be held on the Potomac on August 27. During the summer a number of canoe marathons and shellboat regattas will be held.

Netmen Resourceful In Getting Off on Tour

San Francisco, April 6 (A.P.).—Keith Gledhill, of Stanford University, is en route to Honolulu to play some tennis, but that is only half the story.

The national intercollegiate singles champion made up his mind at 11 a. m. today. The Matsonia was sailing at 12 noon. With his rackets and trunk Gledhill popped into one of those automobiles college students usually rattle around in and with a companion started for San Francisco.

They arrived a minute late, at 12:01. Resourceful Gledhill located the Matson Co. launch, caught the liner in the bay and at last reports had changed from college "cords" to more formal attire. He intends to play in several tournaments in Hawaii.

FIELD DAY FOR YALE GOLFERS

4 Win at Pinehurst; Medal Tie to Ex-G. U. Star.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—College golfers from Yale mowed down all opposition today in the opening round of match play in the annual North-South amateur tournament here. Three members of this year's Eli Team and one from last year's intercollegiate championship outfit advanced to the second round. M. P. Warner, Pine Orchard, Conn., of the present team, sprang the surprise of the day by downing Chandler Harper, Virginia Beach, Va., comedalist and in 1930 the Virginia State champion, 2 and 1.

Another surprise was the defeat of Alan Smith, University of North Carolinan sophomore and one of the favorites by J. E. Parker, jr., Orange, N. J., a Yale linksman, by a 1-up margin.

S. W. Noyes, jr., Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., captain of the Elis, downed J. R. Lanahan, Providence, R. I., 2 and 1.

Forbes Wilson Downs Woodward.

Forbes Wilson, York Harbor, Me., who was No. 1 on last year's Yale team, rounded out the day's triumphs for his alma mater with a 3 and 2 victory over W. J. Woodward, Southern Pines entry.

Other first round matches were as follows:

J. M. Robbins, Merion, Pa., beat Warren Bicknell, jr., Cleveland, 8 and 6; Dick Wilson, Southern Pines, who shared the medal honor with Harper, found it easy to defeat J. W. Brown, Manasquan, N. Y., 5 and 3; J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., won 2 and 1, over the national senior champion, J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., and H. J. Blue, Aberdeen, N. C., nosed out R. E. Harlow, Chicago, 1 up.

Dick Wilson, a former Georgetown University star, won a 9-hole medal play-off with Harper to claim the medal honors. His score was 34 against 39 for the Virginian. They tied at 151 in the 36-hole qualifying round.

Tomorrow's pairings: Warner vs. Parker; Dick Wilson vs. Robbins; Noyes vs. Blue, and Ryerson vs. Forbes Wilson.

Favorites Winners In Greensboro Golf

Greensboro, N. C., April 6 (U.P.).—Favorites won easily in second-round play for the Sedgefield dogwood women's golf championship today.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, favorite and winner of several winter tournaments, defeated Estelle Lawson, Chapel Hill, N. C., 4 and 2; Margaret Maddox, Atlanta, considered Mrs Hill's strongest rival for the title, disposed of Mrs. Hazel Martele, Hartford, Conn., 4 and 3; Mrs. Leon Solomon, Memphis, defeated Mrs. Bruce Cameron, Ypsilanti, Mich., 2 up, and Mrs. J. J. Lawler, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Mrs. Ashley Taylor, Atlanta, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Hill will play Mrs. Lawler in the semifinal round tomorrow. Mrs. Solomon is paired with Miss Maddox.

Mrs. Hill went the route today in 79, two under women's par, and her opponent had an 83.

BRAVES WALLOP BALL.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—The Negro lad who draws down about four bits a day for patrolling the James River in a rowboat and reclaiming stray balls is of the opinion that "those thar Braves can shore wallop the old ball." He threw up his job after the third ball had gone into the river.

WOMEN FANS GET BREAK.

Boston, April 6 (A.P.).—The women baseball fans of Boston are to get a real break this season. The Boston Braves management announced today women would be admitted at half price on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. On Friday, the customary "Ladies' Day," they will be admitted free.

W. & L. GOLFERS WIN.

Hot Springs, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—Washington and Lee golfers, led by Billy Howell, scored a 13-to-5 victory over the William and Mary team here today.

Howell, who teamed with Schroeder in defeating Jaffee and Syer, 6 and 5 this morning, came back in the afternoon to trim Jaffee, 2 and 1. Howell's 75 on the morning round was the medal score.

Old Liners Stopped by Luck After Gaining 4-0 Lead.

McIlwee and Davidson Hit Hard by Cavaliers.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 6. Overcoming a four-run lead, Virginia won from Maryland here today, 8 to 5, to register its first Southern Conference victory. The Old Liners batted Fletcher from the mound in the second inning, but after that were held in check by Peck Luck, a young right-hander from Middleburg, Va. But one run was scored off his delivery, and that came in the final frame, when Chalmers' three-base blow scored Wolfe.

Maryland batted around in the second frame. Gorman opened with an infield hit, stole second and scored on Maxwell's drive to left field. Buscher followed with a double, which sent Maxwell home. Here Fletcher was yanked, but Wolfe greeted Luck with a two-base clout to left field which sent two more runs across.

Cavaliers Pound McIlwee In Second.

The Cavaliers landed on McIlwee for two runs in the second inning. Lee's triple sent Charles home, and the former counted on Poss' drive to left field.

Davidson went to the mound for Maryland in the third frame, but was batted hard in the fourth, the Cavaliers registering four runs to take the lead. Two tallies were added in the fifth. Drissel was safe on an error, went to second on Brewers' sacrifice and scored on Lee's single. The latter counted on Luck's screeching single to right field.

The Old Liners fielded sharply throughout, only one error figuring in the scoring, Sterling's overthrow of first base.

Lee carried off the stick honors for the Cavaliers, getting three hits, including a triple.

Federal Unionists To Shift Line-Up

During Capital City League games this season the Federal Employe Unionists expect to use Sam Harvey, socking Naval Hospital star, on the third sack, while Departmental League contests will see Tony Valenza holding the position. Valenza on Sundays plays with the Chevy Chase Grays, while Harvey is still hooked up with the Tars during the week.

Two additional players were signed for trials with the Unionists yesterday. Bennie Berman, of Boston, and infielder, and first baseman Elmer Spark, formerly with the Howitzer Giants, have come within the fold.

ADA SUMNEY WINS.

Tryon, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—Ada Sumney, bitch, entered by the Golden Valley Kennels, of Forest City, N. C., today won the grand sweepstakes of the Tryon Riding and Hunt Club's bench and horse show. Between 250 and 300 fox hounds competed for the title.

McGraw 59 Years Old Today

Day Also 30th Anniversary of Coming to Giants.

New York Manager Most Successful in Baseball.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 6 (A.P.).—John McGraw, firebrand of another and more colorful baseball day, will pass another milestone tomorrow—his fifty-ninth birthday, and the thirtieth anniversary of the year of his coming to the New York Giants.

His hair is snow-white now. Some, but far from all, of the belligerency of the fiery youngster who played third base sensationally for the famous old Baltimore Orioles has gone. The two-fisted umpire-baiting warrior of his early managerial years with the Giants still mixes old-fashioned fighting methods with sagacity.

McGraw Rivals Mack As Pilot.

McGraw, heading into the new National League campaign with one of the finest of his postwar teams, still shares recognition with Connie Mack as the peer of all managers. In 29 campaigns at the head of the Giants, McGraw has won ten pennants, three world championships and finished out of first division only twice. He alone has ever piloted a major league club to four successive pennants, 1921 through 1924.

McGraw's ambition in life was to study and practice law, but baseball caught him in Olean, N. Y., when he was only 17 years old. That was in the old Oil and Iron League, not far from his home town, Truxton, N. Y. He was anything but a sensation. The first five days he played at third base he contributed generally to five straight defeats for Olean.

"I never will forget the day I was told to sit on the bench and let someone else try the job," he said once in a fanning bee. "I was a pretty cocky kid, and getting benched was a spendid thing for me. It had a great effect on the rest of my career. I never forgot it in handling young men later.

"I had been quite a pitcher in Truxton and got as much as $5 a game to go over to Homer and pitch for that club. Being benched at Olean made me do some tall thinking. I realized I had to make good. I'd told my father that some day I was going to rise in baseball to the point where I'd make $3,500 a year."

Has Long Contract at $65,000 Per Year.

Two years ago, when McGraw, now part owner as well as manager of the Giants, signed a new five-year contract, his annual salary was reported as $65,000.

After the Olean debacle McGraw played through the season of 1891 as shortstop with the Cedar Rapids Club in the "Three Eye" League and then was purchased by Baltimore. In 1892 the Orioles, under Ned Hanlon, came into the National League. Until 1899 McGraw, a brilliant, aggressive third baseman, was one of the bright stars of the now legendary organization that included Willie Keeler, Wilbert Robinson, Hughie Jennings, Kid Gleason, Dan Brouthers, "Sadie" McMahon, Joe Corbett, Joe Kelley, Dan McCann, and the like.

A dispute with the late Ban Johnson, after he had joined the Baltimore American League Club at the formation of the league in 1901, led him to accept the chance to manage the Giants in 1902.

Wales Picks American As Partner in Golf

Sunningdale, England, April 6 (A.P.).—Charles Sweeney, the young American, who recently was elected captain of the Oxford University golf team, today was selected by the Prince of Wales as his partner in the Navy and Royal Marines 36-hole handicap golf competition.

The two arrived at Sunningdale in the prince's car to start the competition. The prince plays with a handicap of 11 strokes.

Stein and Manich Clash Tonight in Strand Feature

SAMMY STEIN, Sandor Szabo's successor as the fair-haired boy among the 60-odd rasslers in the circuit which supplies the local warehouse, will perform at the Strand Theater tonight against George Manich, Washington's own nomination for the fair-hair honors. The bout heads a card of five exhibitions, in which Mr. Turner, who waves the wand over local rassling, has induced to town a half-dozen or so downright journeymen sluggers.

Mr. Stein, champion of all the Jewish rasslers, handsomest of all the boys and a football player of some renown, has not lost a match to any one but Londos in the last six months or so. During that time he has taken on some very notable maulers, including Dick Shikat, rated by many as the greatest wrestler; Rude Rudy Dusek, Ray Steele and others of high caste in Eastern mat circles.

Londos, in fact, did not throw him. Mr. Stein missed Mr. Londos on a flying tackle and knocked himself as cold as a cup of D street coffee on the concrete floor which surrounds the ring at Madison Square Garden. In Manich he will find a less elusive target than is Londos.

Manich has lost only to Londos here. He held the highly touted Earl McCready to a draw and beat Sandor Szabo. He is a capable worker, and shows a willingness to mix.

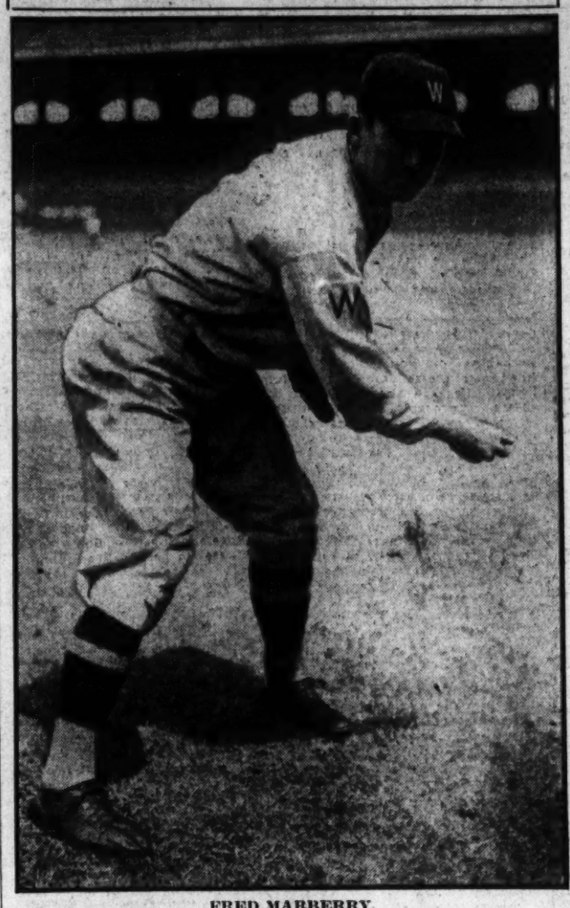
The preliminaries pack many a prowler who seems able "to take it" and give back something in return.

SAMMY STEIN.

George Zaharias, who probably will be a sensation here some time, meets Milo Steinborn; Fred Grobmeier rassles Anton Peterson; Doc Wilson has to do with Oke Shakima, and Jack Washburn is the menace of George McLeod.

Ladies are free, with escorts. First leer at 8:30 o'clock.

Faces Boston Braves Here Today



FRED MARBERRY,
who will start today's exhibition game with the Braves.

Marberry-Zachary Hurl As Nats Entertain Braves

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AFTER an absence of more than six months, major league baseball today returns to Griffith Stadium when Manager Walter Johnson's 1932 edition of Nationals entertain the Boston Braves. The game is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock. For six weeks, the appetites of Washington fans have been whetted by accounts of the team's doings in the sunny South and today they will be granted their first opportunity of forming opinions for themselves.

Shortstop Joe Cronin yesterday was shifted to Georgetown University Hospital, where his ailing sinus and throat can be better cared for and treated. He will be unable to do his stuff against the Braves this afternoon, but the medicine men guarantee to have him out and on the job when the Orioles show here on Saturday.

Kerr and Reynolds in Debut as Nats.

Johnny Kerr, obtained from the White Sox in an off-season trade, fills Cronin's shoes today, but all of the other regulars will be on the job, including Carl Reynolds, who came here with Kerr, whose addition is counted upon to greatly strengthen the Nats' attack.

The game should be three-fourths left-handed in the box. Fred Marberry and Carl Fischer, the latter a southpaw, will do the mound work for the home gang, while Manager Bill McKechnie stated over long-distance telephone last night that he will use "Ole Tom" Zachary and Ed Brandt, two of his stars, who use the wrong arm in their work.

Marberry, slowed up by illness at the Biloxi camp, was hit quite hard by the Brooklyn Dodgers his last time out, but he thinks he is back in form again now. He will know if this is the case this afternoon.

The Braves are out to win this game, according to McKechnie, who will bring his team here from Baltimore by bus this morning. Zachary, who was a hero here for many years and became an idol after his great work in the 1924 world's series against the Giants, when he won two games, no doubt wants to show the Nats that they made a mistake in allowing him to be waived out of the American League. He won eleven games last year and lost fifteen. Brandt, who is due to hurl the last half of the game, was one of the National League leaders last season, winning eighteen games and losing eleven.

Shires, Hargrave Also With Braves.

Two other former Nationals are due to show with the Braves, Art (the Great) Shires covering first, with Bill (Pinky) Hargrave doing the alien catching.

"We haven't done so well this spring," said McKechnie over the 'phone last night, "having broken about even. However, my boys are fast rounding to form, have been looking much better of late, and I'm confident that we will win a lot of games during the coming season."

The Nationals will be seeking their seventeenth spring victory this afternoon, their record so far being 16 triumphs as against but 2 defeats. It so happens that both of these losses have been to teams whose names end in "ville"—Louisville and Knoxville—and many hunch players see in this fact a good omen for the Nats, in that there are no "villes" in the American League. We shall see.

President Clark Griffith yesterday visited the White House and presented Mr. and Mrs. Hoover with annual passes. Both were inclosed in pocketbooks, a fine watch being mounted on the surface of the case given to the First Lady of the Land.

For the first time in several years, Mrs. Griffith will miss the opening baseball game here. She underwent a tonsil operation yesterday and was reported doing nicely last night.

Mrs. Beller Winner In Chevy Chase Golf

With 246 women members registered as golfers in the Chevy Chase Club, the women's golf committee of the club has arranged for a ladies' day every Wednesday during the season. The committee is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, assisted by Mrs. George Elliott, Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., Miss Elizabeth Brawner and Miss Catherine Dunlop.

In the eighteen-hole medal play handicap tournament staged yesterday, the low gross prize was won by Mrs. J. W. Beller, with 95; Miss Susan Hacker finishing second with 99. Miss Louise Claytor was low net winner with 88, Mrs. Knaus with 89 in second place. Mrs. Elliott was third with 93. In the nine-hole event Mrs. Richard P. Davis was low gross with 53 and Mrs. Bishop Hill won low net with 44.

Delaney and Friedrich Pounded

Rookie Pitchers Fail to Protect Early Lead of 6-3.

Myer Sets Pace at Bat With Double and 2 Singles.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor, The Post).

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 6.—Manager Walter Johnson tempted the fates with a couple of his rookie pitchers today and nine Washington runs couldn't offset the damage that the Knoxville bats did to Bob Friedrich and Mike Delaney. They gained valuable experience, but the Nats lost the ball game, 12 to 9.

Friedrich, not as shy on control as heretofore, but still wild, and Delaney, his successor, were at the mercy of a Knoxville batting order that numbered five former big leaguers, and the Nats suffered their second defeat in eighteen exhibition games this spring.

Washington staked Friedrich to a 5-2 lead in the first three innings, in which the offerings of little Andy Gearin were pounded for a half dozen hits, but Gearin steadied and, conversely, Friedrich collapsed with a loud roar, Knoxville celebrating his departure from the scene with five runs in the fifth, but not before he left the game.

Smith Silences Bats.

The Nats never recovered from this onslaught, for George Smith, a right-hander, limited them to four hits and two runs in the last four innings, while Delaney was giving up four hits and three runs to the Smokies. Heavy firing marked Friedrich's tenure on the mound. Thompson, Knoxville catcher, and Howard Freigau, third baseman, who saw service with the Phillies and the Robins, each knocked the ball out of the park for home runs, and Hutson contributed a triple. Freigau won the batting honors for the day, as he slammed one of Delaney's pitches for a triple.

Buddy Myer, who has been lambasting the ball all spring, again set the pace for the Nats at bat with a double and two singles mixed among their 12 hits. Johnny Kerr and Carl Reynolds each contributed a brace of safeties to the attack. Myer put the Nats in scoring position in the first when First Baseman Jones allowed his infield pop to drop safely for a double. He scored on Kerr's single to right. Two hits and two errors gave the Nats a pair of runs in the second, with Moe Berg and Myer producing the vital blows.

An error by Center Fielder Neis on West's fly started the Nats on a two-run rally in the third, the tallies scoring on singles by Reynolds and Judge. The Nats thus led, 5-2, Friedrich allowing a run in each the first and the second, a walk to Hutson and Stewart's double producing the first, and three straight singles accounting for the second.

ON TAP DEFEATS VACILLATE IN FEATURE RACE AT BOWIE

Jolson's Colt Winner by 3 Lengths

By WALTER HAIGHT.

AL JOLSON'S On Tap, with little Jockey Hanford wearing black silks that might have been smeared with the comedian's grease paint for good luck, arrived in front of the judges' stand in plenty of time to receive a chorus of "Mammy" and the echo came from the south end of the stands, "Mammy."

All this happened yesterday in the Martha Washington, Bowie's feature, which added a Bicentennial touch to the day for another crowd in the neighborhood of 10,000 which sunned, bet, cheered and tore up programs.

Vacillate and Jockey Robinson was the combination some three lengths behind On Tap, while Canron and Jockey Hebert accounted for the consolation prize.

The racing was marred by an unfortunate accident which may prove serious to Jockey Bejshak. This rider has undetermined internal injuries as the result of falling over the stretch fence with Wise Kid, Sagamore Stable 2-year-old, which was making a show of his field at the time, a sixteenth from the finish.

Vacillate Breaks On Top.

In the feature, Vacillate enjoyed a few moments in front of the field before Hanford swung On Tap into the lead, never to be headed. Robertson kept his charge close to the leader, however, and the swing around the far turn found them running virtually in tandem fashion. Straightened out in the stretch, On Tap found even more speed and drew away from her chief rival to win by three lengths. Canron had only to stay where she had run the entire trip to take third honors.

The cleverly named Jilted, by Snob II—Rejected, with Jockey Albert Robertson in the saddle, won the opening 6-furlong dash for maiden 3-year-olds. Elmer Trueman sent this filly to the post for Ral Parr, and the public responded, making the youngster the favorite. It was Trueman's fifth victory of the meeting.

Robertson had to punish Jilted to save the race from Brown Pet, Hank Mills up. Jilted took the lead as the field swung into the stretch. She was in a contending position from the start. Ward-in-Chancery accounted for the third money after being hard urged by Sonny Workman.

Wise Kid Rolls Over Fence.

The Sagamore Stable's Wise Kid was making a runaway of the dash for 2-year-olds when he horrified the crowd by bolting into the air and rolling over the fence. Wise Kid was three lengths in front of the field when Jockey Bejshak struck the colt with his whip. It appeared that the horse had fallen on the rider, and a large crowd rushed to the spot. Bejshak was taken to the track hospital, and the crowd cheered loudly when it was announced over the amplifiers that the boy had suffered only bruises. Complications developed later in the day. The colt was uninjured.

Bejshak, in Dr. Dalton's office, said that it was his opinion that the colt shied from the yelling in the stand. With Wise Kid running up the infield, Sergeant Hill went on to win the race from Cantino. Singing Heart was the third payer.

Moon Phase and Johnny Gilbert, a pair well acquainted at Havana, proved a winning combination at 18 to 1 in the third race of one mile and a furlong. The veteran took a neck decision from Skirt, which in turn had a three-length advantage over the ancient Wellet.

Moonphase and Gilbert Win.

The principal running here was between the horses that finished one, two. Skirt broke on top but Gilbert rushed Moon Phase to the front. Skirt regained command on the trip along the back stretch. In the stretch Hanford, on Skirt, fought a losing battle with the Havana combination. Wellet, close all the way, had to outgame Royal Doulton for the show money.

Fiddler, owned and trained by A. Pelleri and with little Jimmy Smith riding, finished a head in front of the Nevada Stock Farm's Voltagreen, with Robertson up. Sun Memory, the favorite, was third.

The race was between this trio from the start with Robertson giving Voltagreen a hustling ride. Sun Memory had trouble soon after the break but no excuses thereafter. Fiddler was right behind Voltagreen up to that winning drive at the end.

Open Hearth, S. W. Labrot's 3-year-old, which campaigned so meritoriously at New Orleans last winter, proved far superior to six others of his age and sex in the mile and 70 yards of the sixth event. The road racer clicked by four lengths to pay $4.20. Pending was second by a like margin over Triple Threat. Upset Em led around the first bend, but Open Hearth stole up on the inside and assumed the lead in the back stretch, increasnig his advantage all the way home. Pending passed tired horses in the stretch run.

Jodhpur, paying $46.40, won the final by a head. Zeal was a length in advance of The Doctor.

HYATTSVILLE JUNIORS WIN.

The Juniors of Hyattsville High won the school's intramural basketball championship yesterday by upsetting the Seniors, 21-14, in a well-played game in the school gymnasium. Members of the winning team were LeRoy Ellis, Richard Quantrille, Ed Koch, Carlton Baker, Jack Salmon, Tom Brooke, Sam Deskin and Harvey Smith. The losers led 6-5 at the half.

JOE AND ASBESTOS —By Ken Kling

The bank roll hit its point yesterday when the old boy collected $4.40, boosting the roll to $17.85. When a conservative guy like Asbestos slips four bucks on a nag's nose, the race must be already over. He is watching for a 2-year-old from the same stable with eight letters in its name. The secret code horse was withdrawn when the stable found out he sent it out, Asbestos says.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JILTED, $6.30, $4.10, $3.10; BROWN PET, $3.60, $3.00; WARD IN CHANCERY, $3.10.

JILTED, forwardly placed directly after the start, went to the front under urging when approaching the home stretch, responded to severe punishment and just lasted to stall off BROWN PET. Latter worked her way up on the inside and, closing gamely, was wearing the winner down steadily. WARD IN CHANCERY broke well, but stumbled soon after the start, recovered gamely and came with good courage when moving up on the outside. CLEAR KNIGHT displayed good speed for the first half mile and then tired. ZODE saved ground, but could not menace the leaders. MARTIN'S CRONEY was never dangerous. SIR KENDALL lacked early speed. The others were never factors.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:29. Off at 2:32½. Winner, P. Marshall's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SERGEANT HILL, $12.40, $5.60, $4.20; CATINO, $6.20, $4.40; SINGING HEART, $11.50.

SERGEANT HILL, following in close pursuit of the leaders, assumed command when WISE KID bolted and, under severe urging, outfinished CATINO. Latter, in nearest attendance of the pacemaker in the early racing, continued resolutely for the closing drive. SINGING HEART, forwardly placed, same courageously in the late stages. MINTIE responded with a good test. FLYING FLEET raced wide all the way. SCOTCH BLOSSOM dwelt slightly when the break came and could never reach contention. POLLY'S MEMORY raced greenly. SCOPE was outrun. WISE KID opened up a commanding lead and was clear when he bolted into the inner rail in the closing sixteenth when placed to punishment.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOON PHASE, $37.90, $10.90, $7.80; SKIRT, $3.80, $2.90; WELLET, $22.90.

MOON PHASE, hurried to the front, lost command midway of the far turn, came determinedly when spurred up for the final drive and, coming again approaching the finish, outlasted SKIRT. Latter, raced in close pursuit of the pacemaker, took the lead when ready, but faltered suddenly in the final sixteenth. WELLET limitedly handled and repeatedly taken up in the first six furlongs, closed with good courage when put to a drive. ROYAL DOULTON sustained much early interference, was taken to the outside for racing room in the final half mile and closed stoutly. DADDY NELSON was forced back, going to the first turn. He closed a good pace. EARL OF WARWICK was badly bodied when attempting to secure racing room on the inside during the stretch run. TAZEWELL appeared high in flesh.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:36. Winner, A. Pelleteri's ch. h. FRESHET	106	8	2	4½	5°	8	8	Lewis	57.95

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIDDLER, $15.60, $6.20, $3.60; VOLTAGREEN, $4.60, $3.10; SUN MEMORY, $2.50.

FIDDLER, kept in close attendance of the early pace, gained fast when straightened into the home stretch and, wearing VOLTAGREEN down, was under severe pressure when reaching the finish. VOLTAGREEN displayed good speed while setting the pace, saved ground and held on gamely when forced to a drive. SUN MEMORY, hurried into contention while securing racing room on the inside on the back stretch, was placed to punishment in the final drive, but was not good enough, but was unable to threaten the leaders. BILL LOONEY forced pace on outside, was unable to threaten the leaders. FRESHET had speed for a half mile.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Martha Washington. For fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:00. Off at 4:07½. Winner, Al Jolson's br. m. (5), by On Watch—Tamanah. Trained by H. Jacobs. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47 2-5, 1:06 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ON TAP, $5.40, $2.80, $2.70; VACILLATE, $2.50, $2.30; CANRON, $5.40.

ON TAP, showing extreme speed, took command soon after the break, stalled off keen contention from VACILLATE and drew into an easy lead in the closing furlong. VACILLATE forced a stiff pace for the first half mile, but weakened steadily thereafter. CANRON closed stoutly when put to a drive. MARCASITE was unable to improve her position. The others were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Parkway. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:34. Off at 4:37. Winner, S. W. Labrot's rn. c. (3), by Sir Greystreel—Florestine. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:45 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OPEN HEARTH, $4.20, $3.00, $2.40; PENDING, $3.70, $3.30; TRIPLE THREAT, $3.40.

OPEN HEARTH, rated close to UPSET 'EM, was sent through on the inside when going into the lead, drew clear when straightened into the home stretch and held away thereafter. PENDING improved his position on the inside when approaching the home stretch, responded to punishment, but could not reach the winner. TRIPLE THREAT, vigorously urged and kept close up, continued gamely to outstay BLAZE WHITE. Latter sluggish and losing ground at the first turn, circled his opposition and finished willingly. BUSTED tired the last quarter mile. UPSET 'EM showed good early speed, but was inclined to bear out in the early running and then bolted to the outside of the track when midway of the final turn.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:10. Winner, J. J. Hogan's b. g. (3), by Mad Hatter—Pantalette. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:50, 1:15 3-5, 1:43, 1:57 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JODHPUR, $46.40, $23.30, $13.80; ZEAL, $51.60, $25.80; THE DOCTOR, $6.80.

JODHPUR, reserved off the early pace, went to the leaders with good speed when released from restraint, withstood a stout drive gamely and wore ZEAL down in the final sixteenth mile. ZEAL, rated close up, disposed of CUPIDITY when ready, saved ground and held on gamely under weak handling. THE DOCTOR, well placed in the early racing, slipped through on the inside in the final drive and finished courageously. BOB'S PLAY showed a good effort. SQUEEZE PLAY was held safe when put to a drive. LUCK PIECE could not reach contention. MEANDER showed a dull effort while racing wide. CUPIDITY stopped to a walk after six furlongs.

BLUE COALS DRILL.

The Blue Coals practice today at 5 o'clock on their diamond at Fourteenth and Neal streets northeast, in preparation for their Sunday game in Alexandria against the Fraters. All players are urged to report.

FEDERALS VS. KENSINGTON.

Due to a mix-up in its schedule the Kensington A. C. is forced to cancel its game with the Auth's, scheduled for Sunday. The suburbanites will meet the Federal-Storage nine instead at 3 p. m. Bill McCrea, Auth's pilot, is requested to call Joe Neri, of Kensington, at Kensington 60.

D. C. POLICE SHOTS WIN.

The Washington Police Department pistol team tied with Dayton, Ohio, and Los Angeles, Calif., for the top position in the Interstate Police Pistol League "C", by trimming Bakersfield, Calif., 976 to 955, it was announced yesterday. The locals have a record of 7 victories in 8 matches. B. F. Bean, with scores of 99-98—197, was high for Washington.

WOMAN'S GOLF POSTPONED.

Because of the unplayable conditions of the greens, the weekly women's golf tournament at the Army and Navy Country Club will not be played tomorrow. The next one is scheduled Friday a week.

TECH OPENS EPISCOPAL SEASON

Meets Cherry-Black Saturday; 'Twins' Here Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 6.—Thirteen games of baseball will be played by the Episcopal High School team this season. Some of the teams to meet the Cherry and Black tossers are the best in scholastic circles in this section.

On Saturday, Technical High nine, of Washington, will invade Hoxton Field for their annual game. Much rivalry exists and a hot fray is expected. The schedule follows:

April 9, Technical; April 12, St. Alban's, away; April 15, Gonzaga; April 18, Shenandoah Valley Academy, away; April 23, Virginia Episcopal School; April 27, Central; April 30, Fishburne.

May 4, Swavely; May 7, Augusta Military Academy, away; May 11, Hyattsville; May 14, Gilman, away; May 18, Western; May 21, Woodberry, away.

The Episcopal warriors opened their season last week with a well-earned victory over the Western High nine.

Alexandria Nine Meets Eastern Today.

Athletic Director Maurice Given, of the Alexandria High School nine, has selected his varsity squad for the opening game in Washington tomorrow with Eastern High School batsmen.

The following players will make the journey to the other side of the Potomac: Schriener, catcher; Hudson, Saffelle and Heflin, pitchers; Carr, shortstop; Fletcher and Titcomb, first base; Bruin and Brewer, second base; McMenamin, third base; Clift, Baber, Jenner, Mankin, Backus and Horton outfielders.

Jack Hudson, cannon-ball artist of the "Twins," has been given the mound assignment for this contest. Jack is showing great form. Given has shifted his team considerable. He has placed Jimmy Bruin, last year's shortstop at second base, where the youngster is displaying great form.

Nats Will Beat Out Yank, Says E. Mack

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6.—The Washington Nationals, and not the New York Yankees, loom as the most serious obstacle in the quest of the Philadelphia Athletics for a fourth consecutive American League pennant, according to no less a personage than Earl Mack, son of the famous Connie, and a member of his father's board of strategy.

On a visit here, where he managed a ball club several years ago, Mack, jr., today predicted that the A's would finish at the top in 1932. He said the entire roster looked good in spring training and that the pitchers were great. "If Walter Johnson gets good pitching," he said, "the Nationals will prove a greater obstacle in the path of the A's than the Yanks."

THIS MORNING:

Bobby Burke will do as the second line of pitching defense. But if the top trio develops one, or two, failures, then the Nats' position will be critical, indeed.

The Nats must concede nothing to either the Yankees or A's in the matter of defense, with the infield of Judge or Kuhel, Myer, Cronin and Bluege as deadly in execution, if not more deadly, than the infield quartets of their accepted rivals.

Getting down to the marginal notes and the reserve strength, the Nats are well fortified in outfield utilities, with Sam Rice and Dave Harris available, but only Johnny Kerr remains as an infield substitute. He will do, but another infielder is a prerequisite to the Nats' success, and Johnson is bending every effort to obtain that individual. Moe Berg's presence insures Roy Spencer with an acceptable understudy behind the bat, but if the race simmers down to a question of reserve strength, both the Athletics and the Yankees will have a distinct edge over the Nats.

AT THE POST with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL:

Our average on the 2-year-olds was dealt a blow yesterday when Wise Kid, three lengths in front, rolled over the infield fence a stone's throw from home. Who can't throw a stone a sixteenth of a mile?

By the way, Al, the Rowe Memorial Handicap on Saturday will be at 6 furlongs instead of the longer route. The change was welcomed by several stables and I expect to give you a good one in that sprint.

As Ben Freeman said when he heard you were dead broke, "He may be dead, but I'll wager he's not broke."

BOWIE RACE TRACK.

The Calvert, generally rated the feature on this card, lines up a half dozen horses of assorted ages for a 6-furlong contest, and I look to SIR WALTER to take the measure of PIGEON HOLE and BROAD MEADOWS. SIR WALTER will be on top as far as he goes, and I expect that to be past the judges' stand today. Stopped in the stretch opening day after setting a burning pace for Jolly Pilot and the others. Forecast a different ride. PIGEON HOLE ran evenly in the race won by Jaz Age and appears ready. Reported to have worked a startling 5 furlongs. BROAD MEADOWS, with those good New Orleans races to recommend him, has to be considered as a money possibility.

FIRST RACE—POSTPONEMENT

closed a lot of ground on opening day and has a good chance in this field. Expect Hank Mills to get this youngster away faster today. CRESTA RUN is a C. V. Whitney Stable baby, and comes with the stamp of approval. Should make the top one hustle, but may be a bit too green. KELTWICK is facing class here and is third choice.

SECOND RACE—FERVOR ended his New Orleans stay with a victory over a field such as this and the son of Broomstick gets my call. Was a sharp horse around New York last summer and appeared to have regained top form just before being shipped. CHICSU, winner of five straight in Florida, for second with POP GAFFNEY, which fell last out, for third.

THIRD RACE—RUANE will not have Sister Zoe to chase in this lot. RUANE ran two blocks more than necessary in that race the other day and showed enough speed and courage to take these. MARTINELLI has a habit of popping up with that good race and after that tightener the other day look for him to be a factor. WAR SAINT may like the distance better today. Look for the gelding to be third.

FIFTH RACE — FRUMPER here. True, B'AR HUNTER took the measure of the Pennant gelding the last time they met but FRUMPER is a more ready horse now. Stepped out to beat Sergt. Donaldson and I believe he can do it again. WOTAN must give weight to the top pair and may or may not be equal to the task.

SIXTH RACE—Can't say GLORIA MARIS quick enough. This Jeffords' miss might have taken the measure of Marlene the other day but for poor racing luck at the far turn. At that, she was fast-moving third at the finish. GENERAL COURT lost a nose decision Saturday, showing good speed. Expect him to take second money ahead of CHOSEN PAL.

SEVENTH RACE—TINITA and it's not a dream. This old mare didn't have to fight for feed last winter. Just stuck around the barn. Came out opening day to keep right behind the pace for half of the trip. That race may have been the tonic needed. FAIRDALE beat some of these and most of this kind last year. BLACK PATRICIA for third.

POJELLO AND M'GILL TO BATTLE

Bout Features Next Monday's Card at Bolling Field.

DESIROUS of turning out a wrestling card in keeping with the official launching of the major league baseball season, Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn yesterday closed a splendid five-star booking for Bolling Field Armory Monday night.

Cordovano Again On Card.

The main supplementary brings Sam Cordovano back against Joe Massimo, one of the best men the former Georgetown University footballer has yet met. Denny Winters and "Bull" Garnon, and Rudy Laditzi and John Slejack clash in the remaining preliminary features.

The Pojello-McGill grapple should resolve itself into one of the finest ever offered here. Big, fast and colorful, McGill will thoroughly test Pojello's 190 pounds of cleverness and aggressiveness.

Special features other than the matches are being added.

Due to the unusual cost of the card ladies are being charged half price. Tickets go on sale today at Goldie Ahearn's, 500 Ninth street northwest.

BALLSTON MEETS OILMEN.

Manager "Shorty" Herrity is booking games for the Ballston A. C. at Clarendon 339-J. Sunday the club meets the Gulf Refining Co. team at 3 p. m. on the Ballston field. The Virginians trounced the Skinker Eagles, Auth's and French's nine last year and are reported to be stronger this season.

TRIPLE-STAR CARD FOR PORTNER'S

Portney-Jallos and Burns-Bashara Bouts Listed.

THE Alexandria Day Nursery will offer a triple-star windup as its next boxing attraction Tuesday night at Portner's Arena.

Three eight-rounders bringing together Jack Portney vs. Louie Jallos; Bobby Burns vs. Tootsie Bashara and Ken Overlin vs. Tony D'Alessandro top the bill.

Young Van, sensational local middleweight, will appear in one of the four-rounders, meetings Sailor Potter, off the U. S. S. Idaho, stationed at Norfolk.

The respective abilities of Portney and Jallos are well known here. Jallos proved a sensation against Bobby Burns at Ritchie Coliseum when he nearly flattened the rugged Baltimore scrapper in the last round with a driving finish.

Bashara, in his last appearance here knocked out Sailor McKenna in two rounds. Bobby Burns, Bashara's opponent, is a sure thing to give the customers action.

Ken Overlin, although a newcomer here, is firmly established in Norfolk. He recently knocked out Joey Raymond in four heats.

Tony D'Alessandro hails from New York and is under the direction of Jimmy Bronson, Jallos' manager.

In 64 amateur bouts he won both welter and middleweight championships of Long Island. He has defeated twelve amateur champions. His biggest pro feat was his four-round knockout over Billy Olin at Newark, N. J.

GAITHERSBURG TO PLAY.

The Gaithersburg Athletic Club will engage the Federal Employes Unionists in a practice game Sunday at 2:30 p. m. For games with Gaithersburg call Manager Keefer at Gaithersburg, 201-J, between 6 and 7 p. m.

HORSE SALE AT BOWIE TUESDAY

Audley Farms, Overstocked, to Auction Off 11.

BOWIE, April 6.—Henry J. McCarthy, of Maryland and the East generally, who runs an eloquent line over the auctioneer's block, besides being one of the best veterinarians in these parts, will conduct the first thoroughbred horse sale of the season at Prince Georges Park, Bowie, Tuesday, when he will knock down to the biggest bidders eleven 2 and 3 year olds belonging to Bernard B. Jones and, perhaps, some contributions from other racing establishments.

The Jones consignment hails from Audley Farm, one of the great thoroughbred nurseries of the Valley of Virginia, the birthplace of Easter Stockings, Nellie Custis, Altitude, Princess Tina, Gallant Knight, Con Amore, Knights Call, &c., and the home of Princess Doreen. Jones has three score horses of racing age.

Reduction Sale Necessary.

A reduction sale is necessary and that is what the vendue of next Tuesday will be. The eleven horses catalogued were brought to Bowie last week by Kay Spence, head trainer of the Audley Stable. They are ready for the colors. Audley Farm boasts of a first-rate training track 1 mile around and Spence wasted no time through the mild winter past.

Here is the Audley list:

Zode, chestnut gelding, 3, by High Cloud—Miss Star; Miss Myrtha, bay filly, 3, by Spanish Prince—Lady Mabel; Princella, bay filly, 3, by Spanish Prince—Miss Marcella; Colonial Beau, bay gelding, 3, by Sir Barton—Virginia Reel; Singing Heart, chestnut filly, 2, by Strolling Player—Heart o' Gold; Strolling Time, brown filly, 2, by Strolling Player—Resting Time; Queen Beth, chestnut filly, 2, by Sir Barton—Vulcain Queen; Donna Linda, bay filly, 2, by Bright Knight—Donna Juana; Miss Maratime, chestnut filly, 2, by Sir Barton—Yoemanette; Irish Knight, bay gelding, 2, by Bright Knight—Kathleen Ni Houlihan; Mr. Peck, bay gelding, 2, by S

LEAGUE SENIORS ORGANIZE

7 Good Teams Fall in Line

Dozen, Possibly 16, Are Expected to Make up Field.

Rule Revisions Are Unanimously Approved.

SEVEN crack senior teams aligned themselves under the banner of The Post's Capital City League at a meeting held in the playground department office at the District Building last night. In view of the fact that there was a slight mix-up in the announcements of this meeting, league officials look forward to having twelve, and possibly sixteen teams in line when the loop swings into action in search of the city championship and the gold baseballs offered by The Post.

Teams represented last night were the William E. Miller Furniture Co. (runenrs-up to Olmsted Grill for the title last season), "Cack" Curtin; Swann Service, Sam Huston; Dor-A Barbecue, A. R. Bauers; Southeast Business Men's Association, O. M. Brown; Royals, Joe Mills; Koontz Service Station, H. W. Ricker, and Clifton Barbers-Meridians, E. A. Jordan. The latter club had all but clinched the pennant in the junior division last year when it was disqualified for using an ineligible player.

Rulings Unanimously Adopted.

The teams were unanimous in their approval of the rulings recently adopted by the directors of the circuit limiting each team to fifteen players and requiring each player to file his birth certificat with the secretary. These rules will eliminate many protests and improve the caliber of the various teams, it is believed.

All games will be played under American League rules, and the balls used will be official American League balls. The D. C. Umpire Association was again named to officiate at all league games. Several clubs balked on an age limit of 21 years for the class. Last year any player not attaining his twenty-first birthday before June 1 was eligible, and this privilege was requested again this year. The season will open May 15, two days after the close of the high school series. Opening the season at this time paves the way for the high school players to participate in the opening games.

The teams agreed to meet again at the District Building Friday, April 22. Teams desiring to secure franchises in the league should communicate with the secretary, at The Post, between now and that time.

The entry of the Auth's and Dixie Pigs in the unlimited section brings the number of teams in this division to fourteen. League officials are confident that sixteen clubs will be in line when the loop opens.

Randolph-Macon Nine Bows to Fishburne

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., April 6.—Extra base hits and airtight pitching enabled the Fishburne Military School nine to down Randolph-Macon Academy of Front Royal, 9 to 2, here today.

Home runs by H. Glover and Bear, a triple by Mattox, and Martin's double drove in the majority of Fishburne's runs.

Killen, pitching eight innings for Fishburne, fanned twelve and was touched for only three hits.

Spring Grid Practice At Martinsburg High

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6.—Spring football practice for Martinsburg High School's football team was opened here yesterday under the direction of Coach Marshall ("Little Sleepy") Glenn. The group of candidates numbers about 40.

Glenn has outlined a month's program of work. Football work is taking first attention now in order to free the coach later in the spring for work with the track squad. Glenn sees excellent prospects for a fast football team next fall. Track work of a preliminary nature will also get under way at the school this week.

DIXIE PIGS PRACTICE.

The Dixie Pigs will workout Sunday at 10 a. m. on the Berwyn field. Manager Hugh Waldrop requests all players to report promptly. The Dixies are again entered in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League.

NORTHERNS TO MEET.

The Northern-Kennedy A. C. will meet tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Carl Dennison. All players and candidates for the team are requested to report. A smoker will be held soon at which officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

INDIAN HEAD IN FIELD.

The Indian Head Cardinals are booking Saturday and Sunday games with strong unlimited teams. The Red Sox and Del Ray are especially challenged. Teams interested should call Manager John Sprague at Indian Head 67 after 4:30 p. m.

CAVALIERS BOOKING.

The Virginia Cavaliers are again in the field and would like to book games with teams in the unlimited class. Teams interested should call Manager "Dutch" Stewart at Clarendon 359-W-1. A meting will be held Friday night at the home of Al Miller at 8 o'clock.

TARHEELS VS. DUKE.

Raleigh, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—North Carolina State College's swimming team will meet the Duke University tankers here Saturday night, April 9. The golf teams of the two schools meet Saturday afternoon in Durham.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Birmingham, Ala., April 6 (A.P.).—The Birmingham Barons, champions of the Southern Association, heaped retaliation on the heads of the Cleveland Indians for yesterday's massacre and when the dust settled today they had taken a ball game, 12 to 7.

The Barons managed nineteen hits off Monte Pearson and Howard Craghead. Indian hopefuls, whose stock took a sudden drop as a result. Pearson was reached for six runs in the sixth inning.

Indianapolis, April 6 (A.P.).—Three bases on balls, an error and a single in the ninth inning gave Indianapolis a 12 to 11 victory over the Yankees in a free-hitting exhibition today.

The Indians, pounding Ed Wells for 8 runs in the first two innings, took an early lead but the Yanks finally managed to tie the count in the eighth.

Although losing the game, Murphy pounded out a homer and a double to account for 3 runs. Ben Chapman and Sam Byrd also came through with home runs while Ruth collected two singles and drove in one run—the thirteenth he has driven in during the last five games.

Philadelphia, April 6 (A.P.).—The Phillies gained a one-game lead for the city championship today by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 3. A handful of fans braved chilly breezes in Shibe Park to see the exhibition.

"Sugar" Cain was knocked about for four innings and yielded three runs to the Phils. Joe Bowman lasted only one inning, the fifth. Hurst greeted him with a homer, and three singles added another run. Jimmy Deshong finished the game and looked the best of the three. Benge and "Jumbo" Elliott hurled for the Phillies, allowing only 6 hits.

The city series now stands at two games for the Phils and one for the A's, with two more to be played.

EASTERN 10-6 VICTIM OF EPISCOPAL

Mizell Batting Star as Alexandrians Triumph.

EPISCOPAL HIGH, a victim of Business High by a score of 10-6 last week, pulled a rousing surprise yesterday and defeated Eastern High, undisputed champions of Washington for four years, by a score of 7-3. The game was played at Episcopal.

Eastern, playing without the services of its pitching ace, Dick Lanahan, could do nothing against the inspired play of the Episcopal nine, which unleashed a miniature Pepper Martin in Buddy Mizell, who rattled out four hits in four times at bat, including a triple with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

Episcopal Jumps Into 4-0 Lead.

Episcopal jumped into a 4-0 lead after two innings of play and clinched the game as Bula, Barnes cut down Eastern for eight straight innings without a score. Eastern put over its three runs in the ninth when Smith, Mills and Gibson rapped out singles. Eastern hit comparatively well during the game, achieving 11 safeties, but could not clear up the bags at the opportune moments.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

WE happened to overhear the conversation of two bowlers the other day, probably not very good ones, but they talked a good game, talked it intelligently and with just a splattering of the lingo that always helps to distinguish one from the ordinary run of the mill. These two were to all intents and purposes in the know.

The general trend of the conversation was to the effect that the prestige of local duckpinners had slumped sadly because all of the championships had not been brought home from Norfolk. This man failed to break the record in the all-events competition, well, he must be slipping. Another team failed to click, but they showed signs of faltering all season. This woman should have done better, must have been nervous. Oh, there were a thousand and one reasons for the downfall of Washingtonians.

Well, considering that the bowlers from this vicinity captured a trio of first places, a like number of seconds, four thirds, and a pair of fourths, we see no reason for weeping and wailing and a gnashing of teeth. Baltimore was the only city to do better. Monumental City rollers scored four first places, as many seconds and a trio of thirds, and five fourths. Then again, Washington has an eleventh hour chance to bring home more bacon. Northeast Temple heads for the tournament Friday morning, stopping over in Richmond Friday night for a match with the Connecticut Blue Ribbons, and rolling for national crowns Saturday. Who is it that can predict that Ollie Pacini and "Reds" Megaw will not forge ahead in the doubles, that any one of the team, Honey, Bild, Lovett, Megaw and Pacini will not show enough to win the singles or all-events?

Even if Washington wins only three first places, and remember, they haven't clinched those three yet, it will not hurt the game. Over a span of four years local bowlers have won 22 titles out of a possible 36, an average of .611. We all like a winner, but to have the same winners year after year becomes monotonous, and interest decreases. Looking at it from a sensible viewpoint, less championships for us this year will mean increased interest all around. Those who gain the titles will strive to retain them, this city will attempt to regain them, and the little fellows will think that after all they do have a chance.

Bill Wood's representatives in the Ladies District League rose up in all their fury at Lucky Strike and walloped Georgetown Recreation with a blow that sent the west-enders down for a 3-count. The winners had a 526 game and a set of 1,589. Sarah Updike's 137 and Margaret Miltner's 329 provided the individual highlights.

A 133 game by Price, and 355 set scored by Donaldson were high in the Ames 'n Andy circuit. Lightnin's 532 and King Fish's 1,511 topped the teams in pinspilling. Lucky Strike was the scene.

Estin led the way in the C. and M. League (and now they're making it tougher by designating the leagues by letters. Stop hoarding those spelled out words!) with a 121 game and 319 set. Appointment's 485 and 1,363 bagged the cash in team competition.

Al Woods starred as Chestnut Farms tossed the Five Greeks for a three-game loss in the King Pin Business Men's League at King Pin last night. Al had a high game of 139, which he proceeded to build up into a 375 set. A teammate, Joe Miller, could muster only 131 pins for his high game, but he managed to come within an ace of tying Woods for the set honors. The Dairymen counted a 610 game and 1,761 set for team honors. The Nationals took the odd one from Lansburg's, No. 2, in the only other match rolled.

After rolling 572 to cop the opening game, Mount Rainier lost its eye for the wood and dropped the second by 6 pins and the third by 11 to Hyattsville at Mount Rainier. The losers also had high set for the evening, 1,670. Hugh Crawley's 385 was high for the winners, while Oscar Swain topped the "Mounties" with his 130 game and 358 set.

Clark's 136 and 380 were high in the A. G. O. loop. Identity's 537 and 1,570 were high for the teams.

HIGH SERIES WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Central, Business to Clash on Field at Eastern.

THE annual high school baseball series opens tomorrow afternoon at Eastern Field at 3:30 o'clock with the promise of a first-rate diamond battle between the two best-conditioned clubs of the series, Central and Business.

Central, although it has failed to win a game this year, has participated in about five formal or informal tussles and has reaped a welter of benefits from these activities. Its team has been through the mill and knows its paces. Business has seen service twice, beating Episcopal and Gonzaga by decisive margins.

Somehow the Business Team has clicked from the start this season and it may turn Central back tomorrow if it can produce the kind of batting which stowed Gonzaga away by a 17-5 score, but on form Central should win—mostly on the strength of the better cohesion between the layers.

New Faces in Central Line-Up.

Either graduation or a new coach, Jack Ray, has weeded out of the Central line-up many boys who have slowed up the team the last two years. Many new faces are in the Central line-up for tomorrow, particularly those of Bits Keyser, first base; Buddy Nau, shortstop; Charley Moran, relief pitcher, and Bryant, outfield. This group of newcomers is augmented by the return of such veteran players as Emmett Buscher and John de Betencourt, pitchers; Cooke, catcher, and Steve Thompson, slugging outfielder. On paper it is Central's best team in a half a decade.

Business generally has a lot of native talent on its ball teams and this year is no exception. While it has lost two handy men in Bill Duryee and Fratantuono, the team has made up for that by the further development of its pitchers, Jimmy Garner and Lou Silverman.

Friday pitching selections probably will lie among Buscher, deBetencourt, Garner and Silverman. Probably all four will see service.

Rendezvous was another team to win an odd-game victory in the Ladies District League, stopping the John Blicks by this margin. Meyer Davis, Columbia, and Georgetown whitewashed Takoma, Convention Hall, and Lucky Strike.

GENERALS CANCEL GAME.

Raleigh, N. C., April 6 (A.P.).—The baseball game scheduled between North Carolina State College and Washington and Lee for Friday, April 8, has been called off. The Generals are booked for a Northern trip this week and will be unable to make the trip to Raleigh.

KILBOURNE VS. HANSEN.

Golf Body Not to Reduce U. S. Open $5,000 Prize List

NEW YORK, April 6 (A.P.).—Despite a 50 per cent drop in national championship gate receipts in 1931, the United States Golf Association will not cut the prize money, amounting to $5,000, for this year's open tournament. This was disclosed today in announcement of qualifying plans for the 1932 tournament, to be decided at the Fresh Meadow Club, Flushing, Long Island, June 23, 24, 25.

The prize money will be distributed on the basis of $1,000 for the winner, $750 for second, $650 for third and smaller awards scaling down to $50 for sixteenth to twentieth places.

Entries for the open close on May 17, at which time the allotments for each sectional qualifying play will be announced. With 34 players exempted by reason of their records in the 1931 open, 126 places remain to be filled in the 20 qualifying trials.

60 Low Players Qualify.

As in other years, 18 holes will be played on each of the first two days, with the 60 low players and ties qualifying for the final 36 holes on the last day.

The qualifying trial courses include Congressional, Rockville, Md.; Brook Hollow, Dallas; Brookside, Barberton, Ohio; Detroit County, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.; Minneapolis Golf, Minneapolis; Algonquin, Webster Groves, Mo.; Kansas City County, Kansas City, Mo.; Denver Country, Denver; Riviera, Los Angeles; Olympic, San Francisco; Multnomah, Portland, Oreg.; Omaha Field, Omaha, and Hyde Park, Cincinnati.

LOWER TAX RATES ARE SET IN FAIRFAX

Supervisors Are Able to Fix Reduction Because of New Road Law.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Board of Supervisors of Fairfax County, Va., meeting yesterday in the courthouse at Fairfax, set the tax rates for the six magisterial districts for the next fiscal year. The rate was set on the $100 property valuations as to personal, tangible and intangible and real property. The rates in each district are much lower than previous years, inasmuch as no county read levy was made. This levy, which amounted to 90 cents last year, was eliminated because of the new State law under which the State highway department takes over the construction and maintenance of all county roads and prohibits the laying of a road tax by the county.

The rates that are applicable in all the towns and districts are for general county purposes, 45 cents; for Confederate pensions, 5 cents, and for county school purposes, 90 cents. Centerville and Lee Districts will pay the basic rate of $1.40, the lowest in the county. Providence District taxpayers will have a $1.55 rate, as there is a 15-cent special levy for payment and sinking fund for special school bond. Mount Vernon District, with a 5-cent special levy for schools and a 15-cent special levy for road bonds will pay a $1.60 rate.

Dranesville Rate Highest.

Dranesville District still has the highest rate of $2.80, being caused by a 25-cent levy for school bond and a $1.15 levy for road bonds. The large road bond levy was caused by a deficit in the bond account in the past, which is to be made up this year. The rate in Falls Church District will be $2.10, as the schoool bond levy amounts to 20 cents, a decrease of 5 cents from last year and a road bond levy of 50 cents.

The rate in the town of Falls Church for county purposes will only be $1.90, as the 20-cent school bond levy is not applicable there.

The rates in each of the six districts last year were: Centerville, $2.35; Dranesville, $3.40; Providence, $2.40; Falls Church, $3; Mount Vernon, $2.45, and Lee, $2.25. Compared with the rates set by the supervisors yesterday, the taxpayers of the county will pay approximately $150,000 less this fall than was paid during the current fiscal year, which ends on June 30.

Delegate Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, appeared before the board and outlined the legislation affecting the county which was passed by the recent session of the State Assembly. Among them was giving the county supervisors the same power as cities of the first class in regulating signboards, dance halls and zoning. In connection with the Byrd law, under which the State takes over the control of the county roads, he declared that he was officially neither for or against it, but it was up to the voters of each county to make the choice as to whether they withdraw from its provisions.

Allen Is Thanked.

He stated that he had done his best in having it amended in interests of the county, so that the people could hold an election and make their own decision regarding its application to the county. He was given an official vote of thanks by the supervisors for his work in behalf, of the county during the session of the Assembly.

A decision of Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Court, in connection with the bond issue sinking funds on deposit with banks in the county was read. Some time ago the board petitioned the court as to what action should be taken to secure the funds.

The court decision stated that the surety on the bond of the county treasurer had taken the position that the remittance of the amount collected from a levy laid by the supervisors for sinking funds for the bonds to the board and placed in banks designated by the court and the supervisors relieved them of any further liability under the treasurer's bond. This position has been upheld by a decision of the attorney general of Virginia. This leaves the county with no security for the ultimate repayment by the banks of the sinking funds other than the individual financial responsibility of the banks.

The supervisors have directed the three banks to deposit with the county treasurer United States or State of Virginia municipal bonds as surety in an amount of at least one-third the total on deposit in that bank, the court order stated, and as compensation for such the interest rate on these funds was ordered reduced from 4 per cent semiannually to 3 per cent. The order further stated that these funds should not be withdrawn from the banks without approval of the court except that the supervisors are allowed to withdraw the funds on warrants for the immediate purchasing and retiring of one or more county bonds for which the sinking funds are being held.

In connection with the sinking fund a letter was received from Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr advising the board in view of the court order to withdraw the funds from the banks and invest them in securities paying a larger interest rate. The letter states "that part of the bonds on which these sinking funds are accumulated bear an interest rate of 5 per cent and the rest 4¾ per cent and in my judgment it is the duty of the board to request the court to authorize a change in the investment."

WOODRUM ATTACKS FARM UNIT SALARIES

Organizations Are Accused of Racketeering With U. S. Sanction.

(Associated Press.)

High-salaried officials of the Grain Stabilization Corporation and the Cotton Cooperative Association were accused of racketeering with the sanction of the Farm Board yesterday by Representative Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia.

The chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee, in explaining the independent offices supply bill carrying $1,000,000 for the Farm Board next year, told the House farmers had not received anything nearly commensurate with the organization's set-up, although some had been benefited.

"We find," Woodrum continued, "that the Federal Farm Board had increased the salary of the general counsel from $10,000 to $20,000 a year.

"Although the Farm Board represents the most impoverished industry in America, yet it has exorbitant ideas about spending money. It is very liberal with other people's money.

Other Organizations Named.

"The same thing may be said of the Cotton Cooperative Association and the Grain Stabilization Corporation. You have the ridiculous spectacle of your $500,000,000 Federal Farm Board with men who are willing to serve this impoverished industry at salaries of $12,000, and yet the Grain Stabilization Association and the Cotton Cooperative Association pay much larger salaries.

"A $10,000 man is a very low man in their ranks. They run up to $20,000, $30,000, $45,000, $55,000, 75,000 for men in their organizations. The answer will be made that the Federal Farm Board has nothing to do with this, that those funds are being paid by cooperatives. That is a specious argument. Somebody is paying them, either the Federal Government or they are getting it out of the pockets of the farmers and they are racketeers, whoever they get it from. As a matter of fact, a large part of it is going to come out of the Federal Treasury."

DIFFICULTIES OF A MARKET FLYER.

"HOW about taking a little flyer in the stock market, dear?"

"Can we afford it, in view of that new tax bill?"

"Why not?"

"Well, I'll try to explain. Now, if you buy some stocks are you going to do it on margin?"

"Certainly not. I'd put 'em away and forget 'em."

"All right, but they've just put a tax on safety deposit boxes, so that's added expense number one."

"We could pass up the safe deposit box and hide 'em in the ice box."

"There's a tax on ice boxes, too."

"Well, anyhow, before I'd buy any stocks I'd talk with Bill Twickett and see what he thinks. He's in Wall street, y'know. I guess I'll call him up now."

"I wouldn't do that."

"Why not?"

"The telephone tax!"

"Well, how about asking him over for cards?"

"You'd have to serve some drinks, and there's the new beverage tax, so that's out."

"I could drive over to his house."

"You forget the gasoline and oil tax."

* * * *

"WE might ask them to the movies."

"There's the amusement tax."

"You can think of the darndest things. Suppose I get a line on what Bill thinks of the market by asking him out trout fishing?"

"That'll cost money. There's the sporting goods tax."

"I could take him hunting."

"Suppose I just write him a letter."

"That'll be expensive, too. Stamps have gone up to 3 cents."

* * * *

"NOW listen, dear; I'm sure there's a chance to make some money in the market. I know an oil stock that's down to 3 cents a share."

"Fine! And the new tax bill provides a tax of 4 cents on each share."

"But some day it will pay dividends and go way up."

"What of it? They've raised the tax on dividends."

"For the luvva Mike, what can a feller do if he wants to gamble a little? Play poker?"

"No. You can't afford poker in times like these."

"That would be another extravagance."

"How so?"

"They've even put a tax on matches!"

POOR RISKS.

ACCIDENT insurance companies now consider men with incomes exceeding $50,000 a year poor risks. They're afraid they'll get hurt in the mad rush to get aboard tax exempt securities.

Prof. Irving Fisher says that one reason why the country is so slow getting out of the slump is that its business men are not physically fit. If they were in perfect condition, he thinks, they would be better prepared to cope with it. Pretty soon somebody will be saying that the way to revive business is to eat more yeast.

Tigress, Born Here, Dies at Age of 10

Carcass Is Given to School for Research Work by Baltimore Zoo.

Sis, a pure-bred Siberian tigress, born in the Washington Zoological Park on August 20, 1921, and taken to the Druid Hill Park, Baltimore, when 14 months old, died Monday in the cage which she shared with her sister, Felice.

Described by experts as one of the finest specimens of the breed in this country, chronic enteritis, complicated by a lung ailment, was the cause of death, according to Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, associate professor of physical anthropology of Johns Hopkins University. He said that the fact that Sis lived to an age of 10 years and 8 months was a good record for a tigress born in captivity.

The carcass of the animal was given to Johns Hopkins University for study and research work.

CREDIT MEN TO HEAR H. H. HEIMANN SPEAK

National Association Head to Attend District Session on April 15.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Delegates to the conference of the Fifth District of the National Association of Credit Men, to be held at Wardman Park Hotel April 15, will be addressed by Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the national association, according to announcement yesterday by committeemen from the Washington Association of Credit Men preparing for the meeting. The district is composed of associations in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Heimann was born in southern Illinois, September 26, 1891. After completing his grammar and high school education, he attended St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Kas., where he pursued a liberal arts course for two years.

He was next a student at St. Louis University where he studied business administration, accounting and economics for two years. He then studied law and was graduated from the university law school with a bachelor's degree. Later, he was admitted to the bar.

Law as Business Aid.

Mr. Heimann says it was never his intention to become a lawyer, but that he conceived early the idea that a full-rounded training in law, accounting, economics and business administration was necessary for a successful career in business.

After admittance to the bar, Mr. Heimann spent a year as a public accountant, giving up this work to become auditor for the Kawneer Co., and its subsidiaries. Mr. Heimann there occupied the position of vice president in charge of sales, credit and finance. He is also a director of numerous other enterprises.

His contributions as a member of the South Bend Association of Credit Men gained him the presidency of this organization. He next became a director of the national association, serving two years and completed two years' service as a vice president of the national association before being chosen executive manager.

Retiring Directors Reelected.

All retiring directors of Consolidated Gas Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, were reelected for the ensuing year at the annual stockholders meeting. J. E. Aldred, chairman, presided at the meeting at which approximately 57 per cent of the outstanding common stock was represented.

At the organization meeting of the board, following the stockholders' meeting, the following officers were reelected: J. E. Aldred, chairman of the board; Herbert A. Wagner, president; Charles M. Cohn, vice president; Charles E. F. Clarke, vice president, and William Schmidt, jr., secretary and treasurer.

MATCH ISSUES SOLD AT DUMPING PRICES

Large Blocks Are Thrown on Exchange After Charges in Tangled Affairs.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Large blocks of securities of the International Match Co., were thrown on the New York market today, following publication of the report of the Swedish committee investigating the tangled financial affairs of the late Ivar Kreuger.

Three International Match issues, comprising two 5 per cent bond issues and one preferred stock issue, of a par valuation totaling $185,000,000 broke to new low prices where their aggregate market value was only $10,755,000.

These same securities, based on high prices touched in February, had sold at a market valuation of $95,000,000. At today's low prices their aggregate shrinkage from par amounted to approximately $175,000,000 and from the February high prices, nearly $85,000,000.

Books Called "Wrong."

The report of the Swedish investigating committee stated that the Kreuger books were "grossly wrong" and that it had discovered "serious irregularities which have heretofore been concealed only by the most flagrant misrepresentations."

The Kreuger & Toll Co., American shares, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, broke to a new low at 50 cents a share, where they were off 12½ cents from yesterday's close. Their high price for the year was $9.12 a share.

But the principal storm broke in the securities of International Match Co., which is one of the principal subsidiaries of the Kreuger & Toll Co. This company was formed in 1923 to take over foreign interests of the Swedish Match Co.

Heavy Bond Drop.

International Match convertible 5 per cent bonds, which had sold as high as $645 per $1,000 bond earlier this year, broke to a new low at $90, then rallied to $130, where they were off $60 on the day. The company's twenty-year 5 per cents which had sold as high as $625 per bond this year, broke to a new low at $75, from which level the price rallied to $110, where it was off $80 on the day. The company's preferred stock, which is of $35 par value and had sold earlier this year at $24.50 a share, broke to a new low of $2 a share, where it closed the day, off 50 cents a share.

March Depreciation Reduces Listed Issues on Exchange to $24,501,826,280.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange suffered a $3,000,000,000 slump in value during March, according to the monthly compilation of the exchange issued today.

The market value of all shares on April 1 totaled $24,501,826,280, compared with $27,585,989,257 on March 1.

Borrowings by members of the New York Stock Exchange against collateral on April 1 amounted to 2.18 per cent of the market value of all shares listed on the exchange on that date.

This compares with 1.90 per cent, the record low ratio, on March 1 and a ratio of 3.58 per cent on April 1, 1931.

Santa Fe's Net Income Cut to $23,101,691

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co., one of the largest transportation systems of the country, reports for 1931 net income of $23,101,691 against $37,348,800 the year before.

After all charges, including preferred dividends, this was equal to $6.92 a share earned on the outstanding common stock against $12.86 a share in 1930. The company this week reduced the dividend rate on its common to $4 annually. Through most of 1931 it paid dividends at the rate of $10 a share.

Stocks.

A selling climax apparently was averted by Secretary Mills' opposition to the stock trade tax, but the downswing was renewed in the last hour and the averages broke into new lows for the sixth consecutive day, with Steel at the lowest since 1908.

Bonds.

Although the market was spotty and irregular the undertone appeared decidedly more firm. The Kreuger revelations in Stockholm, however, were a disturbing factor.

Curb.

The curb trade wilted under the weakness of the big board, with the utilities worst off, following reports of the Insull conferences in Chicago.

Wheat.

Despite smaller spot offerings, wheat futures ruled about unchanged for the day, awaiting the Government crop report Thursday.

Cotton.

The opening was steady, but futures closed 10 to 14 points lower in sympathy with stocks and weak cables from Liverpool.

Offerings Overnight Result in 1 to 3 Points Decline; Steel at Bottom.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Stocks ran into heavy weather at the beginning and end of today's market. They succeeded in riding out the early storm of selling, but just as leaders were making better going of it another squall broke and for the sixth consecutive day prices averaged into a new low trough.

Overnight offerings brought declines of 1 to 3 points during the first fifteen minutes. When that pressure lightened the market rallied, helped, no doubt, by Secretary Mills' statement on taxes before the Senate finance committee.

Although trading turned dull, early losses of 1 to 3 points had been somewhat more than recovered by the beginning of the last hour when quotations turned abruptly downward, accompanied by an increase in volume. Net losses of a point or two in common stocks were rather general, but many preferred issues showed greater weakness. Sales totaled 2,094,198, the largest turnover since February 16.

The day's headliner was probably United States Steel, which took a late dip to 34¾, a new low, and closed at 35, off 1½, though in the period of firmness it had recovered all of an early reaction to 36¼. American Telephone dropped 2 at the opening to 106⅝, rallied to 109 and closed a point net lower at 106¾.

Gas Stocks Lose.

Standard Gas, American Water Works, Peoples' Gas and Consolidated Gas, off 2 to 3, were among the more bedraggled utilities which, as a group, did poorly.

It is not hard for Wall street to find reasons for current market behavior. Aside from happenings at Washington, there has been no spring upturn in barometric trade lines, a circumstance that today's statistics gloomily emphasized.

Also, the Kreuger & Toll disclosures make unpleasant reading, and some of the utility "situations" are subjects of bearish gossip. Insull affairs have come into prominence through the Chicago banking conferences which have been trying to reach a solution of problems involved.

Lee, Higginson & Co., representing the American owners of various Kreuger & Toll Co. securities, had nothing to add today to their previous announcement that steps have been taken to "assert the rights of all purchasers of the securities of the Kreuger & Toll Co. and the International Match Corporation."

Protective committees to represent the interests of the holders of these securities are now in process of organization.

It was stated that no friction exists between the American bankers and the Swedish commission which is now working in Stockholm on a plan to salvage the wreck of the Kreuger financial empire. N. Penrose Hallowell and Donald Durant, partners of Lee, Higginson & Co., are in Stockholm, where they are cooperating with the commission in its effort to straighten out the tangle.

Curb Trade Wilts.

The curb market wilted under the heaviest selling in several weeks. Pressure was again concentrated against the utilities, and the day's turnover swelled to 320,000 shares, 50,000 more than yesterday's and the largest since mid-February.

While news that bankers were working on a plan of reorganization for Middle West utilities came as no surprise, in view of the known problems of the Insull group, it apparently swelled the volume of selling. The recent drop in the utilities has been so precipitant that investment trusts have been combing the list for undervalued issues.

Middle West utilities, which closed yesterday at 1 dropped to ½ and Insull utility investment sagged to a new low at ¼. Their highs for 1932 are 7 and 6, respectively.

Commonwealth Edison, however, held up well, closing at 75½, off 1.

The Electric Bond & Share group was also heavily sold. Much of the selling was said to come from the interior. Selling was less severe in other sections of the list.

Bonds Follow Stocks.

An erratic bond market provided dealers and traders with some exciting moments, but, when the final returns were in, it was found that the trend was still downward.

There was a spurt in speculative railway liens that have recently been subjected to considerable pressure. Nickel Plate 6s, due this year, jumped 11 points, and St. Louis Southwestern consolidated 4s, also maturing in June, gained nearly 14 points. Both reacted later, however, although the Nickel Plates retained 4 and the Cotton Belts 6½ points of their bulge.

Sales totaled $10,973,000 par value.

BETHLEHEM STEEL MERGER PLAN SEEN

Negotiations at Youngstown Renewed, Wall Street Is Informed.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—While no comment was available at offices of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation regarding rumors that merger with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. is again under negotiation, Wall street has received frequent reports recently that a new effort to unite the companies might be attempted.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation had negotiated a plan for consolidation with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. in 1930, but this plan was shipwrecked when Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, obtained court injunction. A large block of Youngstown stock held by Continental Shares, Inc., was voted against the merger plan. It has since been reported that the Continental Shares holding of Youngstown stock might be won over in support of a merger plan, now that Mr. Eaton is no longer the controlling factor in that company.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, who were the moving spirits in the 1930 effort to unite the companies, were both reported to be out of the city today. They relinquished their efforts to effect a consolidation after the court decision was obtained by Mr. Eaton. Their associates have stated, however, that both executives have looked with favor upon a consolidation of the two large properties provided a new set-up, giving effect to changes brought about by the two-year decline in steel business, could be worked out.

Bethlehem stockholders will hold their annual meeting next Tuesday. While there have been reports that stockholders might be given information regarding a possible new consolidation plan, people close to the Bethlehem company said they doubted if the plan had yet reached a point where any concrete information could be given.

REAL ESTATE BONDS NEXT TO GET RELIEF

U. S. Reconstruction Unit to Aid Defaulting Issues; Survey Being Made.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Now that it has helped the Nation's banking system to overcome its most critical hurdle in the road to eventual recovery, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is converging a good part of its efforts on the real estate loan situation.

In New York City, where the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is directing its first major efforts to relieve the real estate loan situation, there are said to be $800,000,000 of real estate bonds in default. As part of the work of thawing out this situation, George E. Roosevelt was made chairman of a committee of bankers, which early this year set out to coordinate the efforts of unorganized holders of real estate bonds to salvage their investments in foreclosed enterprises. To date, the committee has been asked to represent holders of $50,000,000 of real estate bonds.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation enterprise, however, is not aimed to benefit directly the frozen situation in which defaults have already occurred. Instead, it is setting up a plan designed to help owners of guaranteed mortgage bonds. The guaranteed bond is generally recognized as the most conservative of all real estate bond investments. Under State law, bonds of this character may be issued to an amount equal to only 66 per cent of the appraised valuation of the properties against which they are direct charges.

There are $2,000,000,000 of such bonds issued against New York City real estate. But the 150,000 owners of these bonds are comprised of banks, insurance companies and individual investors representative of probably every State in the Union.

Under the plan now contemplated, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will advance probably $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 to a special banking pool to which the four largest guarantee houses will also contribute. This pool will be employed to furnish funds needed in special instances to meet bond maturities.

There will be approximately $500,000,000 of such maturities this year, it is estimated, of which it is expected 70 per cent, or $350,000,000, will be renewed and 30 per cent, or $150,000,000, paid off.

American Tobacco Head Paid $1,000,000 in '31

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—The American Tobacco Co. paid its president, George W. Hill, more than $1,000,000 for 1931, it was disclosed in papers filed by the company in Federal court here. The documents are in reply to a stockholders' suit by Richard Reid Rogers, who recently obtained a temporary injunction barring further bonus payments to officers of the company.

Mr. Hill's cash compensation consisted of $168,000 salary and cash bonus of at least $850,000, or a total of $1,018,000.

ELECTRICITY OUTPUT IS CUT 11.9 PER CENT

Week's Production Decline Is Largest Reported, Due to Trade Slump.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Production of electricity by the Nation's power and light industry in the week ended April 2, was 1,480,208,000 kilowatt hours, a reduction of 11.9 per cent, compared with the corresponding week of last year.

The production figure compares with 1,514,553,000 kilowatt hours reported for the week ended March 26, and with 1,679,764,000 for the same week of 1931. In comparison with the corresponding week of last year the reduction was the sharpest so far reported. In January, power production in this country ran 5.7 per cent below last year. In the last week of February it was 7.4 per cent below and in the week ended March 26, the weekly figure was 10.3 per cent below.

Seasonal factors accounted partly for the loss compared with the preceding week, but utility men state that the decline from 1931 figures has been due mainly to reduced purchases of electricity by industrial companies.

STEEL TRADE WAITS ON DELAYED ORDERS

Pig Iron Output Is Lowest Since August; Advance Expected in May.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—While conditions still seem to favor some rise in steel production this month, the orders that are being depended upon to bring about such improvement have been delayed, Iron Age said today.

Pig iron production in March fell to the lowest point since August, 1931, the daily rate of 31,201 gross tons having been only a little above the minimum of the 1931 depression. Last month's loss, on a daily basis, was more than 6 per cent from February, the review stated.

The loss on steel-making iron during March was almost 8 per cent, thereby confirming the apparent downward trend in steel ingot production. There was a net loss of four furnaces during the month.

Regarding expected business from the Ford Motor Co., Iron Age comments that volume production is unlikely before May 1, in which case sizable steel releases will not be given out until after April 15. Steel ingot production is barely holding at 22 per cent, which was last week's rate.

A decrease of 50 cents a ton in pig iron in Chicago has lowered the Iron Age composite price to $14.35 a gross ton, from $14.43 last week. Finished steel is unchanged at 2.087 cents a pound and steel scrap remains at $8.21 a ton.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

RECENTLY the United States Office of Education asked all the broadcasting stations to name their most popular programs. From the replies, Dr. C. R. Koon, specialist in education by radio in charge of the office, said that although 60 per cent of the programs consist of musical selections, it is definitely indicated that the taste of the public seems to be turning toward dramatic presentations, which allow the imagination considerable latitude.

One reason for this is that dramatic sketches are being more successfully presented. With rapid motivation of plot, through simplicity, directness and sustained interest of theme, they captivate attention and stimulate imagination to supply the presence of the actors.

A number of stations indicate that their musical programs are selected in accordance with the tastes of their closest listeners, and that they are given with local conditions always uppermost in the minds of those who originate the programs. One station reported that "hill billy" music was the most popular because the community preferred that type to operatic or classical music.

Dinner music programs in which there is a wide range of selections, both instrumental and vocal, have a wide appeal.

Other stations, in reporting a preference of many listeners to classical music, say that the demands are usually for the more popular classical themes. Orchestra music is quite popular.

Some sections of the country call most frequently for old-time songs, minstrel singing, fiddlers, and old melodies. The greatest demand of one station is for square dance tunes, jigs, polkas, schottisches and so forth.

IN the two short numbers we happened to hear at the end of the program last week, Rose Chanelle, who sings with the Torrid Heet ensemble, sounds like a comer. Apparently possessing a lovely voice and, as far as we know, new to the Washington radio audience. Miss Chanelle sings again tomorrow night (WMAL, 6:45 o'clock), with Rudolph Schramm's orchestra.

Cherry blossom time in Washington will be described over an NBC network, through WRC, next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Microphones will be set up near the Tidal Basin and under the cherry blossom trees.

Katsuji Debuchi, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, will speak on the program. There will be a musical program by the United States Navy Band.

Powerful radio sets capable of bringing in distant programs are being utilized by material pirates in Los Angeles. Special heed is given to the smaller, less known stations without network affiliations.

Borrowing of ideas, gags, new twists, special lyrics, is a small potato enterprise that keeps the pilferers in change when reselling, or helps their reputations for being bright when using the stuff themselves.

"Pirate is generally a lone wolf who tunes in at odd hours and extracts gold from the distant mountains," Variety relates. "He peddles his stolen nuggets to continuity writers on radio payrolls or else, as in several known instances, he is employed by a station manager, who, to keep himself up and coming in the eyes of his bosses, wants all the ideas he can get, even if they have to be pilfered."

THE entire program by the United States Army Band, to be broadcast through Station WMAL at 4 o'clock this afternoon, will be devoted to Jewish music. Capt William Stannard, leader, will open the program with Roxy's "Through the Air," one of the few published compositions of the impresario. Other selections include the traditional "Eli, Eli;" "Kol Nidre," to be played as a cornet solo; two dances—"Russian Kossak" and "Boruch Habo," the latter from Louis Friedsell's opera, "Gabriel;" the "Spirit of Independence" march; "Danube Waves" waltz by Ivanovici, and the "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer.

THE Harvard Glee Club, one of the oldest college musical organizations in the country, will be heard over WRC at 2 p. m. today. The club of 60 voices is in New York for its annual recital at Town Hall. * * * The first performance in America of Arnold Schoenberg's "Gurrelieder" will be broadcast tomorrow afternoon from the Metropolitan Opera House in Philadelphia (WMAL, 2:30 o'clock.) Leopold Stokowski will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra, augmented to a total of 123 musicians; four choruses and six soloists. * * * Russ Columbo is back on a daily broadcast schedule (WEAF network, 11:15 p. m.). * * * This week Singin' Sam is celebrating the second anniversary of his entry into radio. * * * "The Foursome," a cowboy minstrel quartet, which came out of the West to achieve success in "Girl Crazy," will be guests of Rudy Vallee tonight (WRC, 8 o'clock). * * * Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, will deliver a short radio address tomorrow night (WMAL, 10:45 o'clock). * * * B. A. Rolfe returns to the air tonight (WJZ network, 8:30 o'clock), having announced that he will vary the tempo of selections played. * * * "Real Folks" returns to the WJZ network at 9:30 o'clock tonight, having been over to Columbia and back.

AUCTION SALES

THOMAS J. OWEN & SONS, Auctioneers, 1431 Eye Street Northwest, Washington, D. C.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF THE VALUABLE EIGHT-STORY AND BASEMENT BRICK AND LIMESTONE APARTMENT-HOTEL PROPERTY KNOWN AS "THE NEW AMSTERDAM" LOCATED AT THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF FOURTEENTH AND FAIRMONT STREETS NORTHWEST.

Because of default in the terms and condition of and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by New Amsterdam Company, a Delaware Corporation, dated September 1, 1928, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia in Liber 6223 at folio 477 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby the undersigned substituted trustee, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in Equity Cause No. 31386, will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the premises, on THURSDAY, THE 31ST DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1932, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia:

Part of lot 9 in Block 32, in John Sherman, Trustee's, Subdivision of land now known as "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber Governor Shepherd folio 137 of the Records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia; said part of lot being the south 40 feet front on 14th street, running back between parallel lines along the south line of the lot, the full depth of the lot.

Also Lots 21, 22 and 23 in Cyrus Mantz' Subdivision of part of said Block 32, "Columbia Heights," as per plat recorded in Liber County No. 8, folio 129 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records.

Said lots and part of lot being subject to the covenants that when a building is erected upon any of said lots it shall not be within 30 feet of the street line, nor shall it be used for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, nor shall spirituous liquors be sold therein; together with the improvements, consisting of "The New Amsterdam" and all furnishings and fittings and chattels therein which the said trustee under said deed of trust is authorized to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 30th day of April, 1932, balance in two equal installments, payable one and before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold; or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive no bid from anyone offering to bid who shall not at or before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof, deposit with said trustee as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, a deposit of $15,000, either in cash or certified check on a local bank or trust company, made or endorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in bonds of the par value of $30,000 in form transferable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. In case any successful bidder shall fail to complete his purchase by April 30, 1932, in accordance with the said terms of sale, said deposit may be forfeited at the option of the said trustee. Said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale.

Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, income from operation of property, interest, and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of sale. The trustee, however, will continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of settlement upon existing terms as set forth in said deed of trust. After settlement of sale said trustee will not be responsible for any bills or expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property.

Terms of sale to be complied with by the 30th day of April, 1932, otherwise, the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser upon the foregoing terms, a re-settlement of sale to be made to be published three times per week for two successive weeks in two newspapers published in Washington, D. C.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

DID you know that lilies attain a height of 10 feet? But what have lilies to do with the Yucca plant? Simply this—the yucca, a native of the desert and semidesert regions of America, is a member of the lily family, and it reaches 10 feet in height and more.

Were it not for certain little white moths, the yucca plant would long ago have perished. Also, were it not for the yucca, the moth would long ago have perished. This makes the matter a bit complicated, for one wonders how the two ever got started in the first place.

The little white moths, of the genus Pronuba, may be observed in the daytime asleep within the half-closed flowers of the plant. At night they wake up. From plant to plant the males may be seen to flitter aimlessly about soon after sundown. The female has more important work to do. She has to carry on her race and at the same time act as foster mother to the plant. She busies herself collecting pollen which she carries to another flower. After depositing her first egg, she places the pollen where it will insure fertilization of the seed. In about a week the grub hatches and lives on the developed seed.

Experiments have shown that without the aid of the moth the yucca can not produce seeds—and without the yucca the moth could not find food for its grubs.

There are many strange partnerships in nature, mostly between animals, but none can outrival that of the moth and yucca.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

NOTABLES ATTEND INITIAL SESSION OF ECONOMICS GROUP

Dr. Patterson, of Pennsylvania, Addresses Gathering at Brookings.

SAYS ACADEMY TO SEEK SOLUTION TO PROBLEMS

Suggests World Currency as Possible Means of Aiding Conditions.

By JAMES WALDO FAWCETT.

The Academy of World Economics held its first meeting last evening at the Brookings Institution, 722 Jackson place northwest. Representatives of foreign governments, senators and representatives, officials of Government departments, professors and students of local universities and independent students of international affairs attended.

Dr. William F. Notz, dean of the Foreign Service School, Georgetown University, chairman of the board of directors of the academy, introduced M. Marc Peter, Minister of Switzerland, as chairman of the meeting. M. Peter in turn presented Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson, of the University of Pennsylvania, president of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, as the principal speaker.

Dr. Patterson discussed the field in which the new academy is to operate. The founders, he said, are primarily interested in economics, but they are concerned also with subordinate social problems.

Will Seek Solutions.

Dr. Patterson warned against the pessimistic notion that economists are merely to examine facts and draw such conclusions as are warranted. Their efforts will be directed to finding answers to such questions as those of business depressions and war.

"A survey of the world panorama reveals a highly intricate and very interdependent economic structure," Dr. Patterson declared. "The life of any modern industrialized area is seen to be in a condition of extreme dependency.

"But in the world field we see dependence to an equal degree and at the same time a rigid and often harsh insistence upon rights. Little or no provision exists for maintaining the free flow of economic life when strain arises. Rights of investors are pressed in some cases with the aid of military force."

Government functions, Dr. Patterson noted, are increasing in number and scope. "Personnel is larger and operation is more costly. Military establishments are more elaborate and more expensive. * * * As state duties multiply and state expenditures grow, the nationals of each state develop more and more interests in common and find themselves in many particulars united in opposition to the nationals of other states similarly unified.

Suggests World Currency.

"The close interdependence of all parts of the world has made the actions of each national group a matter of concern to all the rest and the international economy has been developed."

The speaker suggested a world currency, to parallel but not supplant national currencies, as a possible aid in solving the problem of competition and threatening war and famine. He also urged the desirability of trade cooperation without regard to national boundaries.

Following Dr. Patterson's address the audience was received by the directors of the academy and the patrons of the meeting. It was announced that more than 100 applications for membership had been received. Offices have been opened at 2145 C street northwest.

SENATE GROUP TOLD WEIGHT TAX WOULD HURT SALE OF CARS

Trade Association Manager Attacks Mapes Program Before Committee.

DUNLOP ASKS INCREASE IN LEVY UPON TAXICABS

Carruthers Points Out That District Is Not Eligible for Road Funds.

Automobile weight taxes under the Mapes program would exert a depressing influence on Washington automobile sales, striking directly at local business, Richard J. Murphy, manager of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, yesterday told the Senate District committee.

As Washington's automobile business has thrived during the recession, due mainly to low local motor levies, so would it be hard hit if the Mapes auto weight tax is approved by the Senate, Mr. Murphy informed the committee.

In spite of reduced trade in other cities, last year was a banner one in Washington automobile transactions, proving as well a boon to unemployment, he said. The trade association manager asked to be heard tomorrow when the proposed 2-cent increase in gasoline levies will be considered by the committee.

Friction at Hearing.

Friction between local traction and taxicab companies cropped out at the hearings, when G. Thomas Dunlop, counsel for the Capital Traction Co., asked that a provision levying increased taxes on taxicabs be written into the bill.

Mr. Dunlop, who said he spoke as an individual, not for his company, said a taxicab should be taxed both as a utility and for its use of the streets, as the local traction companies' buses are taxed 4 per cent of their gross receipts.

Pointing out that the taxicabs already pay one-sixth of the local gasoline tax, although representing only one-thirtieth of the number of cars, Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, opposed additional levies on taxicabs. The 4 per cent tax on traction buses, he reminded the committee, is imposed in lieu of property taxes.

Others Attack Tax.

Opposing the auto weight levy, L. A. Carruthers, chairman of the Federation of Citizens Associations committee on fiscal relations; Jerome Fanciulli, for the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, and Cole Greenway, of the Railway Express Agency, made lengthy statements demonstrating inequities in the tax.

Mr. Carruthers pointed out the District is not eligible for Federal highway aid, and motorists here would carry the full local road burden, shared by the States with the Federal Government. He said he considered the gasoline tax a far more equitable method of distributing the tax burden.

Chairman Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, said local needs are increasing from year to year, and additional revenues probably will have to be raised either from an increased general property tax, or the proposed Mapes program for distributing taxes. He asked Mr. Carruthers which he would prefer, but the latter avoided a direct answer.

Different Problem.

Mr. Fanciulli, secretary of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Owners Association, charged that the principal purpose of the Mapes program is to enable the Federal Government to reduce its Federal contribution to $6,500,000. He declared that Washington presents a different problem from other cities, in that many who work here and use local thoroughfares, reside outside the city's taxable area. He pointed out the possibility of Maryland and Virginia requiring District cars using their roads to pay additional license fees, in which case District cars would have to stay within the city or pay a triple license fee.

Mr. Greenway said his organization operates 77 motor vehicles here, which now pay an annual tax of $2,908. Under the Mapes proposals they would pay $17,534, he testified, charging the bill benefits long distance operators to the detriment of local. He said his company's vehicles operate an average of only 22 miles a day.

Mark Lansburgh, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association, introduced Mr. Fanciulli, and C. H. Frame, of the Railway Express Agency, presented Mr. Greenway. Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, asked the committee to modify the high tax on automobile trailers provided in the Mapes bill. The levy, running around $750 a year, would be detrimental to construction activities here, he said.

TRAINING SHIP VISITS HERE

A training ship for officers of the merchant marine—the U. S. S. California State—arrived at the Washington Navy Yard yesterday after cruising around both shores of South America. The ship, said to be one of the most modern school vessels afloat, was brought through the Virginia Capes and treacherous channel of the Potomac River by Capt. Fred Cock and Capt. "Tim" Murray, members of the Virginia Pilots Association. Following an inspection by Government officials, the boat will be opened to the general public next Sunday. The 110 men in training viewed the Army Day parade yesterday and will later be presented to President Hoover.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS' RECEIVING OF 2 PAYS SCORED BY BLANTON

Crosby, Patrick and Glassford Cited in Resolution to Reform Law.

PERQUISITES OF POSTS ARE LISTED FOR HOUSE

Representative Also Charges Veterans' Office Counsel With Malfeasance.

Retired Army officers holding District jobs came in for a withering blast from Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, in a resolution introduced in the House yesterday asking War Department revision of laws governing retirement pay of officers.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner; Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, and Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, were named specifically as drawing both active and retired pay. Eleven pages of names and addresses of emergency officers drawing compensation were listed by the Texan.

He charged Gen. Crosby draws $9,000 as a Commissioner and $6,000 retired pay; Gen. Patrick draws $7,500 in his local office and $6,000 retired compansation, and Gen. Glassford, $8,000 as police superintendent and $4,312.44 retired pay.

Perquisites Also Listed.

All three, he said, are "active, hale and hearty and furnished each with an automobile, its annual upkeep and a chauffeur to drive it, and all having the privilege of buying all of their household supplies from the United States Army store at Government cost."

Recently the Texas representative announced he would move to strike the active pay of Gen. Patrick if he did not withdraw his order requiring all District taxicabs to buy meter equipment. His 26-page resolution, however, did not limit its attack to local officials, but embraced all officers drawing both retirement and active pay.

Previous attacks on William Wolff Smith, special counsel on insurance claims of the United States Veterans' Administration, were detailed by Representative Blanton. He charged Smith with malfeasance and with furnishing misinformation to Congress leading to the passage of the emergency officers' retirement act.

Freed Medical Service.

Blanton said that his list of emergency officers drawing retired pay "contains some officers who did valiant service, but also an army of doctors, lawyers, dentists and other awivel chair officers who are holding fat positions with the Veterans' Administration on big salaries, and who are also drawing additional retirement pay each month as disabled emergency officers."

He complained of free medical and dental treatment to Maj. Gen. John C. Gotwals, who he said drew "$9,000 as Engineer Commissioner without rendering any service therefor," and his assistants, Maj. D. A. Davison, Maj. H. L. Robb and Capt. Hugh O. Oram.

The Senate military affairs committee this morning will hold hearings on the King bill to reduce the number of emergency officers eligible for retirement pay.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY, MAN IS NEAR DEATH

Foot of Southwest Resident, 68, Amputated After Accident.

Injuries suffered last night when he was knocked down by a Washington Railway & Electric street car and crushed beneath its wheels as he attempted to cross Constitution avenue near Ninth street northwest, may prove fatal to Basil Burton, 68 years old, of 223 Eighth street southwest. His left foot was amputated by physicians at Emergency Hospital in an effort to save his life.

According to witnesses, Burton failed to see the street car until too late. The car tracks make a sharp left turn into Constitution avenue from Ninth street, and it was just beyond this curve that Burton was crossing the street.

Burton, it was said, was clothed in a dark suit, and Richard H. Manuel, motorman of the street car, was unable to distinguish him against the unlighted background of nearby excavations. Manuel applied the air brakes and threw the car into reverse when he saw the man's form on the tracks ahead, but Burton was struck before the vehicle came to a stop.

Passersby helped to pull the injured man from beneath the car and rushed him to the hospital. One of the steel wheels passed completely over his left foot.

Examination revealed that Burton also received a possible fractured skull and multiple lacerations.

Embassy Riot Trial of Reds Begins Today

The trials of four persons arrested for alleged assaults upon policemen in the demonstration in front of the Japanese Embassy two weeks ago were postponed yesterday in Police Court. They will come up today. Those to be tried are Joan Hardy, Albert Suskin, Ivan Castrow and James L. Kennedy.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday informed Assistant United States Attorney Michael Keogh, when he was asked to postpone the trials until today, that they should be held as scheduled. Charles Ford, attorney for the four, insisted upon an immediate trial, and both were forced to recede from their positions when they were informed that the policemen who were wanted as witnesses in the cases, were on duty at various points of the Army Day parade and could not be reached. When he learned of that Judge Schuldt agreed to a continuance.

Announcement was made that Walter Gellhorn, secretary to Supreme Court Justice Harlan F. Stone, would be one of the defense witnesses. Mr. Gellhorn is said to have witnessed some portions of the encounters between the demonstrators and the police and he is reputed to have declared that there was too much readiness on the part of the police to use their clubs.

The alleged police brutality in front of the Japanese Embassy was an aid instead of a detriment to their cause, declared Joan Hardy last night at an indoor mass meeting of Communists at Seventh and O streets northwest.

TRACTION MERGER COMES UP TONIGHT

Black Urges Disposition of Meter Issue Before Consolidation Is Decided.

House opposition to the Public Utilities Commission order requiring taxicabs to install meters may be injected into a session of the House District committee tonight, called to consider the proposed traction consolidation.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, chairman of the District utilities subcommittee, yesterday told the committee he thought the meter issue should be disposed of before final merger action is taken.

Cheap competition cabs may be driven off the streets if the commission's order goes through, he argued. In this case the local traction companies would be in an entirely different situation as to "other forms of transportation" authorized in the original bill, said Representative Black.

Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District committee, will seek to have the street car companies excluded from operation of taxicabs, as was done in the Senate bill. As reported by Representative Black to the full committee, the bill will contain no alterations.

William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel, and Evan H. Tucker, president of the Northeast Citizens Association, said there is a growing feeling that taxicabs should be specifically excluded from the traction companies' franchise.

The committee voted to report favorably the Bowman bill regulating securities operations in the District and a bill for the widening of Michigan avenue west of First street northwest, abreast of the United States Soldiers Home. Opposition to the Bowman securities bill, voiced at hearings by O. H. Brinkman, local attorney, will be incorporated in the committee's report at the request of Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas.

MAGAZINE DEALER'S HEARING IS STARTED

Prosecution and Defense Clashes Mark Opening of Amato Trial.

Marked by frequent heated clashes between Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh for the Government and S. McComas Hawken, for the defense, the trial of Frank Amato, 59 years old, who is charged with offering for sale an indecent publication, got off to a start in Police Court yesterday.

Two tealers, who had offered for sale two other publications, have already been tried and found guilty, and the magazine that Amato is charged with having offered for sale is the last one of a group of three that were deemed undesirable by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, Mr. Keogh.

In a round-up of vendors of magazines who were found to have for sale one or more of the three magazines, 133 arrests were made. Notice has been served on dealers, as a result of that drive, that hereafter no warning of any impending raids would be given and that dealers who sold objectionable publications would be subject to instant arrest.

The trial of Amato did not get far. A jury was selected and the opening statements of the prosecution and defense were made. At this juncture, court was adjourned until today so that the Army Day parade could be seen by courthouse attaches.

Incidentally, two more books were placed on the banned list when the office of Mr. Rover issued orders to police to look out for shops selling two highly sensational novels that have come out recently.

GRAND JURY HEADED BY HOWELL PEEPLES

Railway Official Is Selected Foreman by Proctor, Who Gives Warning.

Howell Peeples, 63 years old, of 1831 Belmont road northwest, yesterday was selected by Justice James M. Proctor to be foreman of the spring grand jury for the District. Mr. Peeples is employed as District freight agent for the Southern Railway Co.

An unusual angle to the swearing in of the 23 men and women who comprise the grand jury was an admonition by Justice Proctor that jurors were to confine their inquisitions solely to crime and were not to indulge in special reports and condemnations. He pointed out that several grand juries had, in the past, filed special reports, which had been later stricken from the court records because such reports had no right being made.

Preschool Plans Topic at Meeting

Children's Medical Examinations Stressed in P.-T. A. Session.

Plans for the campaign this year on improvement of health conditions among preschool children were outlined yesterday before the 1932 District Parent-Teacher Summer Roundup by Mrs. Thomas Elkins, chairman of the conference.

Mrs. Elkins said special emphasis will be laid on the proportion of children in the entering school classes, who shall have been examined by a physician and a dentist, and second, on the proportion of parents following the recommendations given at the spring examination.

Others who made talks were Mrs. Joseph Sanders, chairman of the health committee of the Parent-Teacher Association, and Miss Ruth Bottomley, assistant to the national director of the Summer Round-up. The meeting was held in the National Education Association Building.

Hit-Run Auto Strikes Woman Awaiting Bus

A hit-and-run driver, operating an automobile with New Jersey license plates, was sought last night by Maryland authorities in connection with the injury of Miss Mabel Reigdon, 35 years old, of 944 New York avenue northwest. The woman was knocked down while waiting for a bus on the Defense Highway, near Bladensburg.

She was removed to Casualty Hospital by members of the Bladensburg fire rescue squad. The accident victim suffered lacerations on the left side of her head and bruises about the body. Her condition is not believed to be serious.

Negro Methodists Open Parley Here

Testimonial to Bishop to Be Given Tonight at Asbury Church.

The Washington Conference of colored churches of the Methodist Episcopal denomination opened yesterday at the Asbury Church, Bishop William F. McDowell presiding. E. A. Haynes was elected secretary, with J. A. Johnson and J. W. Duckett, assistants. Memorial services were conducted by Dr. C. H. Matthews, the principal address being made by the Rev. Ernest Lyon, of Baltimore.

The Rev. M. J. Naylor, of Baltimore, presided at the afternoon session at which reports were received from various pastorates of the District of Columbia, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia. The missionary sermon was preached by Dr. Edgar Hall, of Churchville, Md. Reports from the book concern, which has financed retired ministers, indicated a 25 per cent decrease of funds this year.

The anniversary of the Foreign Mission Board was observed last night, addresses being made by James W. Hutton, Stephen W. Fields, Dr. R. E. Diffendorfer, Thomas A. Jenkins, and Dr. W. A. C. Hughes. A testimonial to Bishop McDowell will be given tonight at 8 o'clock in the church auditorium.

Lions Hear Talk on Russia.

An illustrated lecture on Russia and the Viking countries was given before the Washington Lions Club meeting in the Hotel Mayflower yesterday by Howard Brenton MacDonald, who has appeared under auspices of the National Geographic Society.

Five Men Seized In Gambling Raid

Arrests Made Possible as Lock is Left Open by Repairman.

The electrician who repaired the electric lock of an alleged gambling establishment at 752½ Ninth street northwest yesterday was credited by two First Precinct detectives with an assist in the arrest of five men, two of them on permitting gaming charges and three of them as United States witnesses.

They said they had had the place under observation for some time, but could not gain entrance until the electrician left the door unlocked after his work was through.

Charles Filegh, 30 years old, of 736 Fifth street northwest, and Edward Marks, 29 years old, of 6205 Twelfth street southwest, were booked for permitting gaming by W. C. Grooms and G. L. Saunders. They said they seized $29.50 in cash and race track forms as evidence.

Benjamin R. Jacobs Weds Miss Cornell

Dispatches from New York last night reported the marriage of Benjamin Ricardo Jacobs, Washington chemist, and Miss Margaret Marion Cornell, also of this city. The ceremony was performed at All Souls' Church and officiated at by Dr. Minot Simons.

The bride, who is 38, is connected with the legislative department of the American Federation of Labor offices here, while Jacobs, 52, is employed by the National Macaroni Association. Mr. Jacobs lives at 2026 I street northwest. Miss Cornell lived with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Allen, 1718 Varnum street northwest.

Held in $500 in Gaming Case.

Demanding a jury trial on a charge of permitting gaming, Vincent Oliveri, 46 years old, arrested in a warrantless raid by Policeman W. D. Perry, yesterday was ordered held under $500 bond for a trial April 20, when he was arraigned in Police Court.

Rib of Girl, 3, Broken When Auto Strikes Her

A fractured rib was suffered yesterday by 3-year-old Mary C. Lambert, of 1301 Irving street northeast, when she was knocked down by an automobile while running across Twelfth street between Hamline and Irving streets northeast.

The child was struck by an automobile operated by Louis Berman, 54 years old, of 208 Webster street northwest. Her mother, Mrs. Lynn Lambert, took the child to Sibley Hospital where she was admitted for treatment.

Boy Injures His Head In Fall While Skating

His head striking the pavement when his roller skates slipped out from under him late yesterday afternoon, James Thrall, 14 years old, of 220 Fourteenth place northeast, was taken to Casualty Hospital in a serious condition.

The youth was skating in front of his home. A motorist, who saw him fall, picked him up and took him to the hospital. He suffered a concussion of the brain.

Cafe Burglar Escapes Under Police Gunfire

A burglar escaped under a hail of bullets from a policeman's pistol when he was surprised early yesterday morning leaving a restaurant at 3207 Fourteenth street northwest, where he made an unsuccessful attempt to crack the safe. The man got only $4.50 from the cash register.

Private H. W. Lancaster came to the rear of the restaurant and the man dashed out of a rear door. The policeman called to the man and ordered him to halt, but the burglar added speed. The policeman fired several times at him. John Klien, proprietor of the place told police entrance had been effected through a skylight. He said the man had moved a small safe to the front of the restaurant but had apparently heard the policeman coming and fled before he could crack it open.

TruckDriver Exonerated In Death of Schoolboy

A coroner's jury yesterday termed accidental the death of Lars Clatterbuck, 8, of 313 H street northeast, Tuesday, as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a truck as he was on his way home from school at lunch hour.

A number of witnesses, including schoolmates of the child, testified. Roland Hall, 34-year-old driver of the truck, was exonerated by the verdict.

Trial of 5 Opens in Labor Whipping; Haury on Stand

The horsewhipping administered Charles E. Haury, supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers, on March 31, 1931, reached the District Supreme Court yesterday when one woman and four men went on trial on an indictment charging them with simple assault upon Haury.

Those indicted and being tried are Mrs. Ruth Stevens, Robert E. Stevens, Robert Ely, William I. Green and Charles B. Rockenbaugh. The case is being prosecuted before Justice James M. Proctor and is being handled by John J. Sirica, assistant United States attorney.

Haury himself was on the witness stand yesterday when Justice Proctor adjourned court for the day at 1 o'clock. He told in detail how he was walking from his office at 1003 K street northwest, when a group of persons set upon him, some of them striking him with their fists and others belaboring him with a horse whip. He said that he was forced to go to a physician to have his injuries treated.

Haury has been in the limelight recently. Four men and a woman last week were charged with conspiring to kill him and they are now awaiting the action of the grand jury. The members of the alleged conspiracy were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reed, Bert Carpenter, Ed Johnson and George McSullen. None of them was connected with the horsewhipping incident.

Will Celebrate Maryland Day With Pageant and Talks Tomorrow.

Four pageant scenes, each representing some phase of the colonial period, will be presented by students of the Barnard, Raymond, Petworth and Macfarland Schools as the Petworth Citizens Association, with cooperation of the schools, celebrate Maryland day tomorrow night. The observance will be held at the Petworth School, Eighth and Shepherd streets northwest, at 8 o'clock.

Speakers will be Dr. Walter B. Patterson, retired supervisor of special activities of the public schools, and W. I. Cleveland, chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial committee of Montgomery County, Md.

Among the entertainment features will be solos by Mrs. Edna Souder, accompanied by Mrs. Adeline Ellin; selections by the W. J. Oates Student Orchestra, and presentation of colors and salute to the flag by Troop 11, Boy Scouts of America, led by Ray T. Haugh.

May Conference Plans Explained to Rotarians

The program being arranged for the Thirty-fourth District Conference of Rotary International, to be held in Washington, May 8-10, was described at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Washington Club at Willard Hotel by Rotarian George M. Whitwell, general chairman of the conference committee.

President S. Percy Thompson introduced Mr. Whitwell, who stated that the conference would be attended by approximately 1,000 delegates who will be feted at luncheons, dinners, and a governors' ball, not to mention an outstanding list of speakers, including prominent European Rotarians, Government officials and representatives of Rotary International.

2 Police Sickened By Doped Exhausts

Fumes Resembling Mustard Gas Used by Rumrunners.

While one policeman was recovering from the effects of a new type of smoke screen recently introduced by Washington liquor runners, another was given a dose of the stuff last night. The latter, Private H. H. Hodge, of the Second Precinct, was made ill by the gas but was able to continue on duty.

Earlier yesterday Private Frank E. Kenney, chasing an automobile in the Sixth Precinct, was forced to give up at Fourth and Taylor streets northwest, when a burst of fumes which resembled mustard gas temporarily blinded him and made him nasuated. He was burned about the eyes but was recovering last night at the hospital. It was the second consecutive day he had received hospital treatment after a rum chase. Tuesday morning he made three colored men crash their car into a tree but was cut about the head when he fell while chasing them on foot.

Private Hodge fell out at Sherman avenue and Barrett street northwest after pursuing a car for several blocks. This car turned on a smoke screen which appeared to be a mixture of ether and oil.

Citizen Must Show Cause For Failure to File Taxes

Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday ordered Robert E. Mathers, 3501 Thirty-sixth street northwest, to show cause why he should not be compelled to file a return to the District Commissioners of a personal property tax return.

The citation directs that Mr. Mathers show cause on May 2. The order is based upon the authority of an act of Congress of 1929 that provides for mandamus proceedings when a citizen neglects or refuses to file such a return. The costs of the litigation are to be borne by the citizen, according to the act.

The commissioners, in their suit, filed by W. W. Bride, corporation counsel, and F. H. Stephens, assistant corporation counsel, say that Mathers sent in a schedule of personal property which listed $1,200 in intangibles. The schedule was not signed and was not sworn to, it was said, and many requests to Mr. Mathers to swear to the return have proven unavailing.

Assessor W. F. Richards wrote the Commissioners that "Robert E. Mathers has certificates of deposit of $39,000 and a savings account of $43,000. He has only accounted for $1,200 intangible property, which amount, in the opinion of this office, does not afford a satisfactory basis of assessment."
